Frequently, the criticism is heard that this or that ward does not get its share of the appropriations; that the people pay taxes but don't get the equivalent. These complaints are more common from the town, and later in the classical school of outlying wards, and yet should the figures Mr. Brooks in Boston. be examined carefully we think it would be found that Ward One was not receiving its in the office of F. I don't go much on religion, I never ain't had no show But I've got a middlin' tight grip, sir, On the handful o' things I know. I don't pan out on the prophets
And free will, and that sort of thing— But I b'lieve in God and the angels, Ever sence one night last spring.

I come into town with some turnips, And my little Gabe come along-No four-year-old in the county Could beat him for pretty and strong— Peart and chipper and sassy, Always ready to swear and fight— And I'd larnt him to chaw terbacker Jest to keep his milk teeth white.

Hell-to-split over the pratrie I was almost froze with skeer; But we rousted up some torches, And sarched for 'em far and near. At last we struck hosses and wagon, Snowed under a soft white mound Upsot, dead beat—but of little Gabe
No hide nor hair was found.

And here all hope soured on me, Of my fellow critter's aidjest flopped down on my marrow bones, Crotch deep in the snow, and prayed.

By this, the torches was played out, And me and Isrul Parr Went off for some wood to a sheepfold That he said was somewhar thar.

We found it at last, and a little shed Where they shut up the lambs at night; We looked in and seen them huddle thar, So warm and sleepy and white; And thar sot Little Breeches and chirped. As peart as ever you see, "I want a chaw of terbacker, And that's what's the matter of me."

How did he git thar? Angels. He could never have walked in that storm.

can Social Science association has begun their annual convention here, and daily and evening sessions will be held until Friday. At 8 o'clock last evening the annual address was made by President White. He dwelt upon the social problems that now confront the public and the need of their being met in a manly manner. Among his suggestions was the forming of classes in social science in our universities that men may be trained in practical systems of dealing with lunacy, prison management, duties of citizenship parliamentary law, etc., and that chairs on practical le 'slation be founded in our law schools so that students may be moulded in the arts of practical statesmanship. He spoke of the progress of the association and of its departed members, and congratulated the society on the marked improvements that had been made in the past quarter of a century, the germs of which were implanted in this society. Secretary Sanborn then read his annual report, commenting on the progress that had accompanied the association in its, annual work. Professor Wayland of Yale college read an interesting communication from M. Lavassuer of the French institute on "Malthus and the Laws of Increasing Population."

THE PARK PLACE DISASTER.

More Bodies Discovered - Work on the Ruins to Be Resumed at Once.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 .- Mayor Grant visited the scene of the Park place disaster yesterday. He spoke about the debris in the vault under the sidewalk, and was horrified to discover the charred and mutilated body of a man. What looked like another human body was lying near by. Word was immediately sent to the board of health, and the mayor has issued directions that all the debris be cleared away

Commissioner Robbins and Chief Bonner of the fire department called at the ayor's office and threw the whole blame of the matter on Contractor Crimmins, who certified to them that every inch of ground had been gone over and that no more debris or bodies remained ion the scene. They promised to carry out the mayor's instructions immediately. A large force of men was put to work on the ruins this morning. About the ruins the air is heavy with the odor of decomposing human flesh, and it is very probable that other bodies will be found.

HEALTHFUL RECREATIONS.

Strong Body Is a Good Adjunct to a

Strong Soul. We might make our homes a hundredfold more attractive than they are. You will never keep your boy away from outside dissipation until you make your de mestic circle brighter than any other place he can find. Do not sit glum and with half condemnatory look amid the sportfulness of your children. You were young once yourself. Let your children e young while they may.

Do not put on a sort of supernatural gravity, as though you never liked sportfulness. You liked it just as much as your children do. Some of you were full of mischief you have never indicated stand before your children pretending to be specimens of immaculate goodness. Do not, because your eyesight is dim and your ankles stiff, frown upon the sportfulness which shows itself in the first luster of the eye and in the boundchildren can go on so. Thank God that they are so light of spirit, that their laughter is so free, that their spirits are so radiant. Trouble comes soon enough to them. Dark days will come soon enough to them, and heartbreaks and desolation and bereavement will come soon enough. Do not try to forestall it. Do not try to anticipate it. When the clouds come on the sky it is time enough to get out the reef tackle.

Introduce into your parlors those innocent games which are the invention of our own day, and those that have come down from other days-chess and cha dines and corned beef, besides a bottle half rades and battledoor and tableaux and calisthenics and scores of others that young people can suggest and those that are suggested to you, many of them hav ing on them not one taint of iniquity. And then you will want to take your family out with you sometimes. Beware, O solely to her second husband the $30,000,- amusement. It is always a good sign when I see families going together to places of amusement.

I go further and commend to you field sports. I hail the croquet ground, and the sportsman's gun, and the fisherman's rod, and archery and lawn tennis, and scores of other amusements belonging to the fields. The fact is, there is somethin so unhealthy in city life that when the taker of the census says there are in the city 400,000 people, there are only 200,000. since it generally takes about two ment amount to one man, there is something so unnerving, so exhausting in our met ropolitan life. We want more fresh air, more sunshine. - Dr. Talmage in Christian Herald.

Learned Skeptics. After all, Christianity cannot be ashamed to advocate it. We are on the mothers to the church. We shall after awhile have the best brain enlisted on our side, and the day will come when a man's sanity will be doubted if he questions the truthfulness of Christ's religion. We do not want skeptics any longer to pat us patronizingly on the back, saying, "Poor deluded souls! They mean well enough!" We do not want the firefly born in the swamp to lecture the full harvest moon on the subject of optics. There are enough men of brain and official position on our side to make it respectable. Indeed, we suspect that if by post mortem examination the head of the learned skeptic was explored, it would be found that there is a soft spot somewhere in it, into which his egotism to gather. A man who, amid all the accumulated evidence of the ages, can doubt the existence of God, is mentally deficient somewhere. He may be supremely talented in other respects, but he is lacking in that department.-Dr. Talmage in Christian Herald.

Preaching. The preaching of the word has not the esteem with many Christians that it ought to have. Much cause there may be to lament that worship is not a more marked feature of our Sunday assemblies, but the answer Dr. Stalker makes to those who think sermons are too much thought of is worth considering. He says: "We are warned that we ought in the church to speak to God and not to listen to man. But I think we do come to the church to listen to man. It is quite true that in all preaching there is an element of human folly and imperfection, just as there is, for that part, in all human praying. But wherever an earnest minister is speaking there God is speaking. God's message is being delivered, and however important it may be that in the church we should speak to God, it is still more important that God should speak and we should listen."-Christian Inquirer.

Two Ways of Facing Life. There are two general ways of facing life. One of absolute frankness, honesty, openness; the other of deceit, concealment, finesse. The latter method may or may not have in itself more or less of absolute wrong. The better of the two ways is the attitude of absolute frankness. Such attitude promotes fearlessness. It is, however, subject to the peril of appearing hard. But this impression may be removed by a deep love for man and for God.—Charles Thwyng in Christian Union.

It is not what a man doubts, but what he believes, that is an index of his mental strength. - Methodist Record.

Death of Dr. Olmstead, the Venerable Editor of The Watchman.

BOSTON, Sept. 1.-Reverend Dr. Olmstead, long connected with The Watch-man of this city, is dead. He was born in Saratoga county, New York, Nov. 13, 1816. He came from a Methodist family, but in his 20th year he was converted to the Baptist faith. He pursued his academic studies for a number of years in Johnstown, and received honorary degrees of A. M. and D. D. from Yale and Rochester niversity, respectively, in 1855 and 1863.

Dr. Olmstead's first pastorate was in next five years. The rest of his life he was connected with religious journalism, being editor first of The Christian Reflector. When The Reflector was joined with The Christian Watchman, he assumed control of the new paper. Later, when The Christian Era was amalga-mated with The Reflector and Watchman, he was associate editor with Reverend Dr. Franklin Johnson and Reverend Dr. G. C. Lorrimer. In 1877 Dr. Olmstead's health broke down and he retired for a time from active work; but shortly afterward he established The Watch Tower, in New York, where he remained for three years. In 1881, however, he returned to his former position on The Watchman, and remained there until June of this year.

In early life Dr. Olmstead married Miss three children, two daughters and a son, who is now a member of the legislature. Dr. Olmstead was again married in 1886 to Miss Phoebe S. Child, who survives him. He was a man of singularly broad and colerant views, and was the veteran religious editor of the country. The Watchman is a monument to his ability and hard

STRUGGLE FOR LIFE

Eight of the Crew of a British Steamer Perish.

WRECK OF THE DUNMURRY.

She Was in the Gulf Stream, Bound for Antwerp, When Overtaken by a Furious Gale-Twenty Survivors Brought to Port in a Pitiable Condition.

HALIFAX, Sept. 2:—At 10 o'clock last night the steamer Hans and Kurt, from New York for Rotterdam, arrived off the harbor and landed twenty men, the survivors of the British steamer Dunmurry, which capsized and sank in the gulf stream on Saturday last during a terrific hurricane, eight of those on board perishing. The Dunmurry left New York on Thursday last, with a load of grain, bound for Antwerp. On Friday morning about 10 o'clock it began to blow heavy, the wind increasing rapidly until it blew with hurricane force. Saturday morning at 9 o'clock the ship was hove down and the cargo shifted over to port. The entire crew were put to work to try to right the vessel, but after working for some time it was found to be useless and preparations were at once made to leave her Life belts were put on and No. 2 lifeboat, the only available one on the ship, launched. A life raft was also put over the side, but it was immediately smashed to atoms by the heavy sea. The men had barely time to jump clear when the ship turned completely over.

It then became a battle for life Only a few of the twenty-eight on board manraft which was put out had hardly touched the water when it was thrown by the waves on to the ship's bottom with four men clinging to it. It remained there several minutes, when the Ship Disappeared Beneath the Waves. The raft with the four men on it was right. In the meantime those in the life pied or unoccupied, in the house; number and wreckage. Those thus sayed all got on the raft while two men bailed the boat out, it having become filled with water They then all got into the boat again and let the raft go. It was found that eight of those who composed the ship's crew were missing, they having probably been caught in the suction of the sinking ship or been struck by wreckage. Among the lost was the chief engineer, who remained at his post in the engineroom and went down with the vessel

At the time of the disaster the steamer turned over so suddenly that those on board had no time to save anything but what they had on. There was neither food nor drink in the lifeboat, and for Port receipts, three days and two nights the survivors

Suffered from Hunger and Thirst, he only drink they had being a little rain water which they managed to catch. They rowed and sailed for over eighty miles be fore a ship hove in sight. About 9 o'clock Monday night a steamer's lights were seen bearing down on them, and with their utmost strength the unfortunates rowed toward her and hailed. Captain McMorran of the lost ship explained their position to the captain of the steamer, which proved to be the Hans and Kurt from New York, bound to Rotterdam. There was a heavy sea running and it was with the greatest difficulty and risk

A Pitiable Sight.

They are all more or less bruised and He was caught between the ship's side and the lifeboat. Out of three boys on board two were saved and one lost. One little chap, 15 years of age, named Gray, saved himself by clinging to a hatch. He kept crying out for his brother, who was one of the crew, and who was struggling for life in the water. The brother, hearing the cries of the little fellow, encouraged him to keep cool, saying he would be soon alongside him. They both afterward were taken into the boat.

The lost are: Chief Engineer George Gray of Dumbarton, about 50 years of age, leaves a widow; Fourth Engineer James Spencer of Lowestof; First Officer John McKibben of Belfast; Carpenter J. Kerne of Swansea (he was to have been married on his return home); Trimmer Robert Rice of Plymouth, leaves a wife and family; Able Seaman Charles Baker of Liverpool, joined the ship at New York and went down with all his clothes on, oil skins and long boots; Cabin Boy Antoni Heffeler of Hamburg, about 16 years of age; Able Seaman Fred Skiffle of Ham-

The shell was thrown a distance of half a mile against a solid wall of limestone rock, where it exploded with great force.

Scandal Investigation. OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—In the public accounts committee yesterday J. B. Roland of the Roland paper mills at St. Jerome was asked by Mr. Lister how it was that he had tendered bids for paper at 6 5-6, 7 and 71/2 cents and had got the contract at 71/4 cents? Roland said that he did not know; it was so, but he could not explain it.

Mr. Chapleau, secretary of state, said that a number of samples had been sent in with various prices and that the best and highest quality had been accepted and that Lister, in putting the question in the form practically of a statement, as he had done, was wilfully misleading the com-Mr. Lister warmly denied this charge and said that in making it Mr. Chapleau was deliberately insulting him. He (Lister) had not said anything that he could not back up. He had charged that the secretary of state's department was reeking with corruption and he had amply proved that. Never in any country in the world had such a state of corruption been known to exist. Before he got through he threatened he would bring home his charges pretty close to the secretary himself. When he stated that Roland had tendered at 7% and had got 7% he knew what he was saying. The secretary of state was looking about things he knew nothing about.

Several Liberal members claimed that Chapleau should take back his insult. Mr. Chapleau held that he had not insulted Mr. Lister any more than Mr. Lister had insulted him, and with a few more passages the storm passed over. Mr. Lister asked if witness' firm had paid any monye to C. A. Danseau of the Conservative association of Montreal. He said he had.

Mr. Chapleau claimed the questions were irrelevant to the investigation. In the course of his remarks he (Chapleau) admitted that he himself had asked Mr. Roland, as a rich manufacturer, to contribute to the election fund.

Harrison the Use of a Revenue Boat. Washington, Sept. 2.—Secretary Foster resterday telegraphed the collector of customs at New York to place the revenue steamer Grant at the disposal of Mrs. Harrison in case she desired to use it for the purpose of meeting the steamship Majestic on which her daughter, Mrs. Mc-Kee, and Mrs. Russell Harrison are passengers and expecting their landing in New York. Russell Harrison, the president's son, applied to the collector Monday for permission to use the Grant for this purpose and the collector refused to grant it, unless so instructed by the secretary of the treasury. He referred Mr. Harrison's request to the secretary, and the latter declined to grant it.

Yesterday afternoon Secretary Foster explained his action of Monday by saying that he thought young Mr. Harrison wanted the revenue vessel merely for his own convenience and that it was not until he read the newspapers that he knew that the vessel was wanted for the transportation of Mrs. Harrison and her family.

BIG CROWD PRESENT

At the Opening of the Eastern Maine State Fair at Bangor.

BANGOR, Me., Sept. 2. - The eastern Maine state fair opened with unfavorable weather. Frequent light showers and a cold atmosphere were the distinguishing features, and they dampened the enthusiasm of the crowd, but not of the fair managers, who are encouraged by the enormous crowds brought by every boat and train. Nothing like it was ever known in the history of the fair. The Pullman train from Boston due here at 8:10 did not arrive until nearly 9 o'clock, and had nineteen cars. Trains from the east were equally late, and were heavily loaded. At noon the race track was in good shape, but the cool weather had reduced the number of people on the grounds. In the halls everything was bustle. Both Norombega and City Halls are crowded with exhibits, and the ponological display is very large.

THE BLOOMFIELD TRAGEDY.

Circumstantial Evidence Said to Be Strongly Against Louis Lauer.

HARTFORD, Sept. 2.—A search about the Bloomfield woods has brought to light no further traces of the missing clothing of Louis Lauer, suspected of the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Bushenhagen. It was found, however, at the brick yard that he had washed his shirt and overalls in the brook soon after the tragedy had been committed. On the shirt some spots have been found that may have been made by blood. Further false and contradictory stories that he has told have come to light. Lauer himself is very despondent. The authorities think the circumstancial evidence against him strong. No other arrests have been made.

FINE DISPLAY OF CATTLE.

Vermont's Exhibits Will Be the Best in the History of the State Fair.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Sept. 2.—There was a good attendance for the first day of the state fair, and all classes in the cattle department were well filled. The exhibits in Mechanic and Floral halls will be, when completed, the best in the history of the state fair. The best feature of all will be the horse department, and the races promise some of the fastest trotting ever done on the Howard park track. Only one race was trotted. This was No. 1-$300, 2:22, trot and pace; won by Class Leader, g. g., owned by Allen Risk of Willimantic, Conn.; second, Kinney, gr. s., J. Cheney of Ticonderoga, N. Y. Best time, 2:34%.

JENNY.

It was night. The cabin, poor but warm and cozy, was full of a half twilight, through which the objects of the interior were but dimly visible by the glimmer of the embers which flickered on the hearth and reddened the dark afters overhead. The fisherman's nets were hanging on the wall. Some homely pots and pans twinkled on a rough shelf in the corner. Beside a great bed with long, falling curtains, a mattress was extended on a couple of old benches on which five little children were asleep ike cherubs in a nest. By the bedside, with her forehead pressed against the counterpane, knelt the children's mother. She was alone. Outside the cabin the black ocean, dashed with stormy snowlakes, moaned and murmured, and her husband was at sea.

From his boyhood he had been a fishernan. His life, as one may say, had been a daily fight with the great waters; for every day the children must be fed, and every day, rain, wind or tempest, out went his boat to fish. And while in his our sailed boat he plied his solitary task at sea his wife at home patched the sails, mended the nets, looked to the hooks or watched the little fire where the fish soup was boiling. As soon as the five children were asleep she fell upon her knees and prayed to heaven for her husband in his struggle with the wayes and darkness. And truly such a life as his was hard. The likeliest place for fish was a mere speck among the breakers, not more than twice as large as his own cabin-a spot obscure, capricious, changing on the moving desert, and yet which had to be discovered in the fog and tempest of a winter night by sheer skill and knowledge of the tides and winds. And there-while the gliding waves ran past like emerald serpents, and the gulf of darkness rolled and tossed, and the straining rigging groaned as if in terror -there, amid the icy seas, he thought of his own Jenny; and Jenny, in her cottage, thought of him with tears. She was thinking of him then and praying. The seagull's harsh and mocking cry distressed her, and the roaring of the billows on the reef alarmed her soul. But she was wrapped in thoughts -thoughts of their poverty. Their little summer. Wheat bread they never ate, only bread of barley. Heavens! the wind roared like the bellows of a forge, and the seacoast echoed like an anvil. She wept and trembled. Poor wives whose husbands are at sea! How terrible to say, "My dear ones-father, lover, brothers, sons-are in the tempest!" But Jenny was still more unhappy. Her husband was alone-alone without assistance on this bitter night. Her children were too little to assist him. Poor mother! Now she says, "I wish they were grown up to help their father!" Foolish dream! In years to come, when they are with their father in the tempest, she will say, with tears, "I wish they were but children still!"

Jenny took her lantern and her cloak. "It is time," she said to herself, "to see whether he is coming back, whether the sea is calmer, and whether the light is burning on the signal mast." She went out. There was nothing to be seenbarely a streak of white on the horizon. early morning. No cabin window showed a gleam of light.

All at once, while peering round her, LEDGER and PATRIOT, her eyes perceived a tumbledown old cabin which showed no sign of light or fire. The door was swinging in the her eyes perceived a tumbledown old wind; the wormeaten walls seemed scarcely able to support the crazy roof, on which the wind shook the yellow, filthy tufts of rotten thatch.

"Stay," she cried, "I am forgetting the poor widow whom my husband found the other day alone and ill. I must see how she is getting on."

She knocked at the door and listened. No one answeed. Jenny shivered in the cold sea wind. "She is ill. And her poor children! She has only two of them; but she is very poor, and has no husband." She knocked again, and called out, "Hey, neighbor!" But the cabin was "Heaven!" she said, "how sound she

At the instant the door opened of itself. She entered. Her lantern illumined the interior of the dark and silent from the ceiling as through the openings of a sieve. iced roof, through which blew the gale, a drop of water fell on the dead face and ran down it like a tear.

What had Jenny been about in the lead woman's house? What was she carrying off beneath her cloak? Why was her heart beating? Why did she hasten with such trembling steps to her own cabin without daring to look back? What did she hide in her own bed behind the curtain? What had she been

When she entered the cabin the cliffs were growing white. She sank upon the chair beside the bed. She was very pale; it seemed as if she felt repentance. Her forehead fell upon the pillow, and at intervals, with broken words, she murmured to herself, while outside the cabin moaned the savage sea.

"My poor man! Oh, heavens, what will he say? He has already so much trouble. What have I done now? Five children on our hands already! Their father toils and toils, and yet, as if he had not care enough already, I must give him this care more. Is that he? No, nothing. I have done wrong-he would do quite right to beat me. Is that he? No! So much the better! The door moves as if some one were coming in; but no. To think that I should feel afraid to see him enter!"

Then she remained absorbed in thought and shivering with the cold, unconscious of all outward sounds, of the black cormorants, which passed shriek-ng, and of the rage of wind and sea. All at once the door flew open, a streak of the white light of morning entered, and the fisherman, dragging his dripping net, appeared upon the threshold, and cried, with a gay laugh, "Here comes the navy!" "You!" cried Jenny; and she clasped her husband like a lover, and pressed her mouth against his rough jacket.

"Here I am, wife," he said, showing in the firelight the good natured and contented face which Jenny loved so "I have been unlucky," he continued.

NEBRASKA'S EIGHT HOUR LAW.

A Measure Adopted by the Legislature Which Is Creating a Flurry.

There has been considerable trouble in industrial matters in Omaha recently over the efforts of the organized workingmen to bring about an observance of the eight hour law passed at the recent session of the state legislature. Several strikes and lockouts have resulted, the most notable being in the smelting industry and the painting trade, the employers in these callings being almost unanimous against the enforcement of the new law. Here is another argument in favor of the claim made by labor men that the employing class has not so much respect for the law as is supposable when calls are made for police, militia and Pinkerton thugs to bulldoze strikers.

For the benefit of those who may be interested in the question, the Nebraska statute is here given in full:

House Bill No. 104-An act to regulate the Be it enacted by the legislature of the state

Sec. l. That eight hours shall constitute a legal day's work for all classes of mechanics, servants and laborers throughout the state of Nebraska, excepting those engaged in farm o

Sec. 3. Any employer or corporation working their employes over the time specified in this act shall pay as extra compensation double the amount per hour as paid per previous

Sec. 4. Any persons or parties contracting with the state of Nebraska, or any such corporation or private employer, who shall fail to poration or private employer, who shall fail to comply with or secretly evade the provisions hereof, by exacting or requiring more hours of labor for the compensation agreed to be paid per day than is herein fixed and provided for, shall, on conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred ($100) dollars and not more than one thousand ($1,000) dollars And all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed. The stakes which form the framework was in that drunken scrape, I am pleased for the pounds are 8 feet to 10 feet long They are located 4 feet to 6 feet apart. To the bottom of the stakes, constituting the "hedge," boards one inch thick are nailed to the height of a foot or more the bottom of the bowl and the sides to the height of 1 foot to 21 feet are formed in the same way. The door to the first bowl is from 18 inches to 24 inches wide on each side of the leader; the funnellike entrance to the second bowl is nar-rower, and only a few crabs pass through it. The netting consists of either wire or twine. The weir, or "stake net," as it is here called, is very different from the pound net, although both have some parts in common. It consists of poles or stakes driven into the muddy or sandy bottoms so as to form a leader or "hedge," wing and a bowl or "pound." The poles con at their larger ends and 1 inch to 11 inches in diameter at their smaller extremities. For the wings and leader, poles from 3 feet to 6 feet long are employed. The poles are placed from 14 inches to 3 inches apart to permit the sea to wash through. The bowl is somewhat semicircular in shape, the extremities of the brushwork joining the wings about midway their length. Its capacity is encroached upon by the leader and the door or entran to the pound, which is the most import ant feature of the apparatus. It consist of a wedge shaped platform of board fitting into the space between the wings as they approach the leader. The plat form is inclined at a gentle angle, and is about five feet long, projecting about one foot over a support. It is important that the pitch of the platform shall not be too great and that the floor shall not be too smooth, otherwise the crabs cannot or will not walk upon it. The floor of the bowl is made of cheap boards to prevent the crabs scratching holes in the mud and loosening the poles.-Philadelphia Record.

The Wine Expert. The wine expert is a man born with sucla a keen sense of smell and taste that he is able to take different wines and find in one a trifle too much acid, anof her is too thick, still another is too than, and so on. After looking them all over he is able to blend them together and make a clean, full bodied, palatable voine. Almost any ordinary man with 1500d "horse sense" can learn the mechanical part of winemaking, but when it comes to getting wines through their fermentation without disease, preparing them for the bottle-what we call "finishing"-an expert wine taster is required. Such men, abroad, earn from $5,000 to $6,000 a year, and some of them even larger salaries; in this country they receive from $1,200 to $3,500 per annum. -New York Epoch.

Orange Blossoms All the Year.

Paris is probably the only northern city where brides may obtain orange blossoms at all seasons of the year. When they are in bloom in the south they are, of course, imported, but at other times the greenhouses of the city and its vicinity furnish an uninterrupted supply, and it is said that the forced flowers are superior to those brought from the south, as the latter soon turn gray and dingy when exposed to the air.-Garden and

A Hundred Years to Come. Where, where will be the birds that sing, A hundred years to come? The flowers that now in beauty spring, A hundred years to come? The rosy cheek,
The lofty brow,
The heart that beats So quickly now? Where, where will be our hopes and fears, Joy's pleasant smiles, and Sorrow's tears, A hundred years to come?

Who'll press for gold this crowded street, A hundred years to come? Who'll tread you aisle with willing feet, A hundred years to come? Pale trembling age And fiery youth, And childhood with Its brow of truth: The rich, the poor, on land and sea— Where will the mighty millions be, A hundred years to come?

We all within our graves will sleep, A hundred years to come; No living soul for us will weep, A hundred years to come; And others then Our lands will till. And other men Our homes will fill, And other birds will sing as gay, And bright the sun shine as today, Remarkable Growth of Tobacco. J. W. Cook came in Saturday and told about some tobacco he is raising. Last year he raised a crop of the weed, and after he cut it in the fall suckers grew out from the stumps. These suckers retained their vitality all winter and in the spring began growing with increased vigor. Mr. Cook pruned them down to one to the hill and cultivated the crop. He says it is just as good as the crop he planted last spring, the leaves being broad and heavy, instead of narrow and peaked as the leaves of suckers usually are.-Elsberry (Mo.) Advance.

Attempt to Rescue Political Exiles Leads to a Serious Revolt.

CORINTO, Nicaragua, Sept. 3. -Six of the most prominent men in the Republic of Nicaragua were yesterday sent to Costa Rica as exiles by the order of President Sarcasa. They are General Falva, for-merly president of the republic, J. D. Rodrigiuz and S. Chamorro, all members of the Nicaraguan senate, and A. H. Rivas, E. Guzman and Pedro Ortiz. There has been much opposition to President Sar-casa's administration, particularly among the upper classes, and threats have been made against his life. The exiles sent away yesterday have been most pronounced in their opposition to the president. Their departure led to an open revolt in the city of Grenada, where they all live, which resulted in 5.00 bloodshed. The prisoners were placed in a wagon, guarded by troops, and while it was passing through the streets a mob surrounded it and shouted for the release of the prisoners. Finally the soldiers were ordered to fire, but no in the crowd was injured. The mob replied with a volley and killed seven men, including understood, even by the manufacturers, it the governor of the district, the lieutenant commanding the troops, three soldiers and two bystanders. CHILIAN EXILES' OPINIONS.

They Pronounce Balmaceda a Most

Bloodthirsty and Heartless Villian. PLYMOUTH, Eng., Sept. 3. — Various friends of the fugitive president, Balmaceda, in the United States, whose apologies for his conduct from time to time had been cabled here, including that of ex-United States minister to Chili, Thomas H. Nelson, who vouched for the fugitive official as a "true reformer" and as exceptionally honest, would not be greatly encouraged could they have witnessed the scenes at the landing of passengers from the Pacific steamer Aconcagua, which arrived yesterday from Valparaiso.

On learning that during their long voy age the Congressionalists had won and Balmaceda had been driven into exile, the most extraordinary manifestations of joy were witnessed, many of the passengers being those whom the late dictator had driven from their homes. These included men, women and children, who fell upon each others' necks and gave way to unrestrained expressions of their feelings. Old men who never expected to see their native land again were especially overcome, falling on their knees upon the deck in grateful prayer. But they did more. So soon as they were convinced that the good news was true beyond peradventure, they thronged the steamship office and engaged assage back home on the next vessel sail-

While the exiles are certainly not friends to the ex-president, there was a singular unanimity in the manner in which, on being interviewed, they described him as "a most bloodthirsty villian," citing deeds that, if not disproved, will give him that rank in history. The newly arrived Chilians, who are almost all people of means, express themselves with great clearness and conciseness on events up to the time of their sailing, and the only bitter taste in their present cup of joy seems to be caused by the failure of their compatriots to capture and punish the tyrant who caused so much bloodshed and misery.

the Czarewitch's Coming Marriage. London, Sept. 3.-A matrimonial alliabce between the Czarewitch of Russia and Princess Marie of Greece, his cousin, will be formally announced in the near future. According to the Russian canonical law consanguinity is an obstacle to marriage, but the objection will probably be overcome by the consent of the holy synod and by the issue of a ukase, which is as powerful as a papal bull, the Medical Discovery—and this is what czar being de facto ecclesiastical as well as the lay head of the Russo-Greek church.

Her Picture Appears on Her Gravestone Mrs. Ralph Shaffer died last spring. She had been married but a short time, ind was one of the city belles. Mr. Shaffer erected a fine monument to the memory of his dead wife, who was interred in her mother's burial plot. The young woman's mother dislikes Shaffer exceedingly, and refused to allow him to have his wife's name engraved on the stone. Not wishing to have trouble with her, Shaffer has not insisted upon Recently a distinct shadow of the late Mrs. Shaffer appeared on the tombstone. It grew until the shadow became life size. The mother was wroth, and had the monument makers rub the stone down with pumice, but they could not efface the shadow. At first sight the shape has as much resemblance to a man's form as a woman's, but by a continued gaze one seems to see a woman's semiprofile, with bangs and with the hair done up at the back of the head. The neck and chin show plainly, as do also the shoulders, and there is a scarf about the neck. The features are distinct, and bear a remarkable resemblance to the dead wife. The shadow is eight inches wide and fourteen inches high, and is in the middle of the stone.-Mendota Cor. Chicago Tribune.

GIRL LIFE IN PORTUGAL

How Portuguese Maidens Are Trained and the Way They Are Courted. Comparatively little can be said of girl life in Portugal, for girls have such a very slight role in the life of the nation. It is in the niddle and lower classes that it is characteristic of the country and the nation. The Portuguese are very conservative in their ideas of the position of women in society, and they got their ideas from their Moorish masters in bygone centuries. Consequently, girls lead a very shut in life; they are regularly to mass on Sunday mornings and take occasional walks during the week, always accompanied by one or two chaperons.

For the Ledger A Trip to the Northwest.

The opportunity of a cheap trip to the West, offered by the National Encampment at Detroit, Michigan, was accepted by the writer and several other G. A. R. boys. We started on train No. 2 from the Fitchburg station at 12.02, three trains starting at about the same time. It looked lively and not unlike war times.

I was in the car with the New Bedford post, who were to act as escort to the Massachusetts Department with the New Bedford Band. Here I found several comrades not unknown to me, among whom I may mention Comrade T. Stoddard, and Senator Stevens, of Post 87, Braintre and Col. Benj. Lovell of Weymouth. They were guests of John A. Andrew post 15, Boston. Last but not least Comrade Crain, of East Braintree. Also Mr. Havward and Mr. Bowditch, of East Braintree The only lady on the car that I knew was Mrs. Couchier, of Wollaston.

We had a lively time all the way Montreal. Bands were at the station at Fitchburg, Bellows Falls, Rutland and St. Albans, Vermont. We crossed the Victor ria bridge at about 10 o'clock. Our stop at Montreal was of but two hours duratic William E. Brewster of Plymouth, has and, though we should have been pleased to have seen that city by daylight we did mouth council of Weymouth, and Monatinot fail to see what we could of it in two hours from the train. Some of the boys got out of the cars for lunch but the police looked quite sharp at them.

We expected to get to Niagara Falls at about noon but did not until 6.30 P. M., which gave us a very short time to view Robert G. Muse of Morristown, Tenn., and the Falls. We took it all in however and had a fine view of the Falls from the Can-Administrations were granted on the es- ada side, a sight long to be remembered. Set ont by an old resident. One spot where it was said that a person pushed his wife over the bank into the river 160 feet below

We took the train again at 11, arriving at Detroit at about 7 P. M. We marche across the city three miles, under escort the Italian band, to a hall engaged by Post Any reader of the Ledger who desires 15, where we had a good chance to wash the paper left regularly at either house or up, and go out and see the city.

It lighted by electric lights on iron poles feet or more high, too high I think, for the light they give. A man has to climb fourteen of these poles every day to fix the carbon; they burn all night.

> I will not write very much about the parade. We had to wait as usual, about three hours, before starting, but when we once started we kept up the tramp for about three hours. The city was finely decorated, the arches were finer than a Boston last year. The eastern posts tool the cream for personal appearance and marching, Ohio as to numbers, but all seemed glad to stop.

After the parade many of us had private excursions. I took a trip across the state to Grand Haven, then across the lake to Milwaukee, then by lake to Manitowoo Wisconsin, and found friends with whom I stopped two or three days. I then went north 200 miles, to the woods of northwest Michigan; made my home among more friends, in a log cabin; only one house in sight. A dismal looking country, having been burned over last spring, and tall, burned trees and stumps are seen in every direction. The first part of the season was cold and dry; potatoes being the only good crop. The principal business in this sec tion is getting out posts for telegraphs and other purposes. There are many rich copper and iron mines a few miles north of here. I met here my friend, N Q. Bachelder, and he accompanied me to Wisconsin on my way home. I stopped at the town of Menomonee, Michigan. This is the largest lumber place in this section. Twenty large saw mills in full blast sawing 600 to 800 logs each, daily; using all the improved saws, such as the endless band saw for the best lumber, gang saws and double circular saws, using up all the lumber into boards, shingles and laths, th waste being burned up in a furnace for that purpose. The communications were received and placed on file. Councilman Moxon said he did not wish to be held responsible for a statement which he did not make: that the building then spoke concerning alterations. Concerning the heating and ventilating system. there were only two or three that the State Board of Health would approve. The Smead was first in the field and was good. Others might be equally good. It was necessary in the plans that some system should be adopted as they were radically different. The Smead system for such a building would cost about $5000. The Fuller & Warren claimed to be equally good would cost less. As to other changes he was of the opinion that without making any exterior alteration or reducing the size, the cost of the interior could be reduced, to bring it within the appropriation. There were some improvements over the John Hancock building. The vestibule entrances were one which he hoped would stand, also the two teachers' rooms instead of one. The wainscoting of the rooms, the painting of the floors and other changes might be made.

Councilman Gray offered the following: ORDERED,-That the order appropriating $31,500 for the erection of an eight room brick schoolhouse in Ward Three, approved by His Honor the Mayor, Aug. —, be and is hereby rescinded.

Councilman Jones thought such action would not be business-like. It was absolutely necessary to furnish accommodations and the Council had done wisely in making the appropriation. There was plenty of time in which to complete the building before next April. He moved an amendment to refer the whole matter back to the Committee on Public Buildings to modify plans. Councilman Bryant called for the read-

Six Years in a Cellar.

A horrible affair has just been discovered at Itegehem, in Belgium. A famlly named Vanden Eynde, consisting of two brothers and a sister, live there on their own estate. Six years ago there was another brother, called Louis, who went away from the village to serve his time in the army, but although he was very soon discharged as unfit for military service, the family always replied to questions about him, saying that he was still a soldier, Lately, however, mysterious reporst were spread, and recently the family were surprised by the appearance of the burgomaster, accompanied by several other officials and a doctor. In spite of protests, they searched the pre'nises, and when they opened one of the cellars a horrible sight met their eyes. Cowering in a corner, on a filthy hea p of straw, as to give France a lift on occasion. was the lost brother, who booked more like a wild animal than a vian.

A continual idiotic laugh was the only sign of life he gave, for he was not capable of making any movement of his own accord. As a Man Sees It.

The letter fluttered into the sanctum yesterday. It was from a man to a woman, and he was trying to give her, in his enthusiastic masculine way, his idea of the girls of Narragansett Pier and the costumes they wear. Here is what he says. Comment is unnecessary:

"I want to tell you that the women here are the most glorious creatures on the face of the earth. They go swinging about in the independent, healthy manner you never see except at the seashore or among the mountains. Say, why are they always sick in town and ready for twenty mile tramps when they get out

ATHING OF THE PAST.

Balmaceda's Government Relegated to the Rear.

THE DICTATOR AND EGAN

Reported to Have Had a Serious Quarrel and Made Up Again - United States Making Preparations to Recognize Minister Montt.

WASHINGTON, Sept.4.—Admiral Brown's ablegram to the navy department received vesterday announcing the complete uccess of the junta, was communicated immediately to Mr. Wharton, the acting secretary of state. While Admiral Brown is not a diplomatic representative of the government, his statement of facts is taken as an addition to the official information before the department of state to the effect that Balmaceda's government is a thing of the past, and that a new regime has been established.

The requirements of diplomatic practice having been so far met, it is probable that the department of state will now proeed to take official cognizance of the state of affairs in Chili as modified by Balmaceda's resignation and the victory of the Congressional party. At the department it is said that there has been no undue delay in according recognition when prop-er to bestow it. The settled policy of this government has been to avoid the encouragement or premature recognition of revolutionary movements, particularly in the case of the unsettled republics of the American hemisphere; and in the exceptional cases, in which departures have been made from that practice, the result has not always been satisfactory.

So in the case of the Chilian congressional movement, the department of state has confined itself, the officials say, to a strict observance of the practice of this government as fixed by many precedents, and has awaited the receipt of the official information necessary to enable it to know beyond doubt that the Congressionalists have succeeded in securing absolute dominion over Chili. The requisite information is now probably before the department, and the next step is recognition. Several cablegrams have been sent to Minister Egan, and there is reason to be lieve that when he is satisfied that a government (even though it be temporary) has been established in Chili, he will immediately open official intercourse with that government. This step, it is said at the department, is equivalent to accrediting a minister to the new government, and as soon as such new state that it has authorized its special envoys to represent it regularly in the United States, Mr. Montt and his coleagues will be recognized by the department of state.

CHILIANS ARE JUBILANT

Over the Re-Establishment of the Constitution and the Laws.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The Chilian Congressional envoys in this city have received information which shows that the two members of the junta, who left Iquique on Sunday, have arrived at Valparaiso. These two members are Waldo Silva, the vice president of the senate, and Ramon Baros Luco, the speaker of the ouse of representatives. Senor Montt. the commander-in-chief of the navy, the other member of the junta, was already at Valparaiso. These three gentlemen will now go to Santiago, where they will take steps for the reorganization of the government in accordance with the changed condition of affairs. Senor Montt, the principal Congressional envoy here, has received a dispatch dated Valparaiso, ept. 2, and signed by Messrs. Silva and Luco, in which they say that General Baquedano (to whom President Balmaceda surrendered the government when he left Santiago) had given up the command. The re-establishment of the constitution and the laws, the dispatch says, has been celebrated with indescribable enthusiasm.

MORE ABOUT EGAN.

He is Said to Have Been Coerced by the Balmaceda Government.

LONDON, Sept. 4. -A letter from an officer on an English warship at Valparaiso asserts that Balmaceda insulted and quarrelled with the American minister, Patrick Egan, and the French minister; that the latter refused to accept an apology, but that Minister Egan renewed his relations with the government under threats from Senor Godoy that if Mr Egan ggve Balmaceda trouble they would send him aboard an English warship.

THE FALL RIVER CUT-DOWN.

A Feeling of Depression Among Business Men and Operatives. FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 4.-The deciwages in October has caused a feeling of lepression among business men and operatives all over the city. It means a loss of about $14,000 weekly to operatives and a consequent loss to all kinds of traders. Business men generally condemn the manufacturers, alleging that curtailment should have been tried early in the year. They say that the talk of a reduction hurts their credit outside, and allege that an actual reduction only temporarily benefits mill owners. Manufacturers pay little attention to this talk, however. One of them said that he regretted as much as anyone the vote to lessen the price paid for labor. Fall River must run her mill business as other people run theirs, he said, and could not afford to continue paying more than the market rates for operatives' work.

With $11,500,000 Capital. NEW YORK, Sept. 4.-The old National Tube Works company of Pittsburg, the Monongahela Furnace company of Pennsylvania and the Boston iron and steel works have combined as one concern, to be known as the National Tube Works company. The capital is $11,500,000, of which the old National Tube Works company holds $9,000,000 of shares.

Timothy Means Business. NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Timothy Hopkins, the adopted son of the late Mark Hopkins, has arrived in this city from the west to consult with his lawyer on the subject of the contest he is about to make against the will of the late Mrs. Edward F. Searles. Mr. Hopkins' lawyers declare that the case will be fought to the end.

Causes Cleveland to Lose Three Runs. Philadelphia Walks Away with Cincinnati-King Cadmus Brings Many Thousands to His Owner-Other Sports.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.-Uncle Anson continued his upward flight today by trouncing the Boston team in a very one-sided game. Clarkson was easy. He was hit hard at critical times and was wild. In the second, Nash made a wild throw to the plate with bases full and three men scored. The Bostons could find Hutchinson but for two hits, and one of these was a bunt. The other was a triple by Brodie, and it brought home the only run. Long left the game after the fifth inning.

The word "pauper" comes from the dry before they again attempt to get the Latin, and means poor. When made personal and applied to the laborer it means a poor laborer. A Missionary's Story. NEW YORK, Sept. 5 .- The Methodist Episcopal Missionary society has received the following letter from Reverend Marcus L. Taft, one of its missionaries stationed at Pekin:

Almost simultaneously riots and mobs threatening riots have appeared in Nan-kin, Chin Kiang, Wuhukin Kiang and Wusuch, in the broad, fertile valley of the Yang Tse Kiang, and in other parts of China. Inflammatory placards, inciting riots against foreigners, have been pasted on the city gates of Pekin and in the streets of Shanghai, Tientsin and many inland mission stations. At Nankin one of our missionaries, D.

W. Nichols, seized the ringleader and held the lives of any foreigners been lost, Green and Argent. These two Englishmen, seeing the glare of the fire at the mission emises, hastily ran thither to render as sistance, when they were set upon by the howling mob, killed, and so maltreated that their faces were hardly recognizable. The query at once arises, what caused this widespread series of riots? It has been ascertained that a certain secret society. called the Ko Lao, has been the leading cause. This society consists largely of disbanded soldiers, who are intensely provoked because their names have recently been stricken off the pension list. Before mmencing their depredations they considerately warned particular magistrates where and when the riots would occur. Not much attention was paid to the threats until the rioting actually begun. Since then punishments have been swift and sure.

"Drummond's theory," as it is called, is that this Ko Lao society is stirring up the populace against foreigners in order to bring the present Manchu dynasty into complications and, if possible, into war with European powers, when this secret society will start a rebellion to secure a purely Chinese dynasty. This Mr. Drummond is a lawyer in Shanghai who for many years has been making a study of Chinese politics. He considers these riots as only the precursers of more serious ones later in the year. The famine of last year swells the ranks of the discontented unemployed. Others versed in Chinese ways consider the worst over, from the firm way in which these riots have been squelched. Whatever may be the intention of these rioters, one highly beneficial result has already been attained. The emperor has issued an edict granting full toleration to the propaganda of Christianity.

CAPTURED AT MANCHESTER

Fugitive Moonshiner Under Arrest-Long Imprisonment Awaits Him. MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 5 .- Darling

Eastman, the long-sought for Vermont moonshiner, is under arrest in this city. Eastman's capture and escape at Corinth, Vt., last April, was the most sensational that ever occurred in the state. For twenty years Orange county has been notorious for its stills. The most daring and successful operator in that section was J. Warren Eastman, a farmer, and his son, Darling Eastman, who lived in an isolated quarter of Corinth.

In April last a large posse of officers made a descent on the Eastman home-stead. In an old blacksmith shop they discovered a still of the largest and most approved pattern in full operation. The father, Warren Eastman, his son Darling and son-in-law were captured in their beds and heavily manacled. The prisoners were removed to Corinth Centre, and the case against Darling Eastman was taken

The town house, where the trial was held, was crowded. The prisoner, who is over six feet in height, and one of the strongest men in the state, was closely guarded by five officers. At the adjournnent of the trial on the first day the deputies with Darling Eastman were about to enter a carriage when the prisoner made a rush, jumped over a fence and disappeared in the woods. His escape from death was miraculous, for he must have expected to have been the instant object of target practice. Yet not a shot was fired until he was out of range.

The maximum sentence against Eastman, if he is convicted on each of the 860 indictments against him, will aggregate 100 years. He was traced from Vermont to this state, but here the trail was lost until Officers Calawell and Cheney saw him yesterday and arrested him.

THE PROSPEROUS SOUTH

Greatly Benefited by Careful Financial Management and Abundant Crops. BALTIMORE, Sept. 5.—The Manufactur-ers' Record of this week publishes special letters from leading bankers in all parts of the south as to the financial condition and prospects of general business and farming interests. These reports show that, immediately after the Baring failure, southern merchants and bankers at once began to curtail all their operations and to make preparations for a long period of monetary stringency if it should occur. The effect of this has been the reduction of indebtedness and the placing of all business and banking interests on a solid financial basis. It also resulted in the borrowing of less advance money by cotton planters than for many years, and hence the present crop has less indebtedness against it than the crops of former years. In all parts of the south farmers are reported to be less in debt than for years, many reports saying that their indebtedness is smaller than at any time since the war. It is estimated that the grain crops of the suth this year will aggregate nearly 100,- Carnivorous Parrots.

The kea, or mountain parrot, of New Zealand, a greenish-brown bird, formerly as harmless as others of his class, has developed a carnivorous habit as fastidious as that of epicures. It used to feed on the berries that grew luxuriantly on the hills, but it has changed that simple diet since the multiplication of sheep; perhaps fires, too, made that natural food scarce. It now takes a terrible revenge on its unconscious enemy.

Fastening itself on the back of a poor sheep, perhaps stuck in a snowdrift, and savagely tearing away wool, skin and flesh, it plunges its powerful beak into the kidney fat, which it devours, and then, leaving one victim to die in agony, goes off in search of another. Though it is as difficult to feel individual affection for sheep where they are slaughtered by millions as it would be to care for hogs in Chicago, the most unsentimental shepherd cannot refrain from pitying one of his own flock that he finds in such a condition, and from invoking maledictions on the whole race of keas.

How they found out that kidney fat was such a delicacy can only be conjectured-perhaps in the same indirect manner in which Charles Lamb's Chinaman discovered that young roast pig was good: a kea saw a sheep devouring his regular supply of food and defending his property with what beak and claws he had, his tongue came in contact accidentally with kidney fat. From that moment the satisfaction of appetite and the gratification of vendetta were united. -G. M. Grant in Harper's.

Plowed Up Seventeen Thousand Dollars. A few days ago a young farmer named Edwards, while plowing near Southerland Springs, struck an iron pot whose top projected a half inch above the surface. It was apparently filled with earth, but its great weight led to an investigation. Under an inch of dirt were many doubloons of gold. The leather in which they were wrapped was rotten, but save the present, been supposed to be practically for a greenish mold the coins were uninjured. They were all doubloons. Edwards loaded his treasure in a wagon, drove to San Antonio and deposited it in bank, saying nothing of the find until his return. The amount is $17,000.

There has long been a tradition in Southerland Springs neighborhood that Santa Anna buried treasure there on his retreat after his defeat at the battle of San Jacinto in the war of independence, and various searchers have hunted for it. The pot was originally sunk deep, but the rains of more than half a century had denuded it of its covering .- Cor. Chicago Tribune.

DECLINED WITH THANKS.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 8.-The St. Paul chamber of commerce recently appointed a committee to confer on the union of the two cities. St. Paul's request was referred to a committee, which has reported to the Min neapolis board. The report says that the appointment of a committee would be of no benefit to Minneapolis, that the ter-ritory which separates the two cities proper by a space of five miles is comparatively open country, making consolidation under one government practically impossible; that St. Paul has never agreed to a division of this territory, but has simply sought to induce Minneapolis to come in and help build up that portion of St. Paul; that there is no inducement for Minneapolis to do this, particularly as the munici 5.00 pal indebtedness of St. Paul is much greater than that of Minneapolis.

The report states that at no time in the history of Minneapolis has the city experienced such growth and prosperity as during the past year; that Minneapolis is doing very well as she is, and is persuaded that she can, by building wholly on her own territory, make a still better record in the future than could be made under any union now possible with St. Paul. The report recognizes that there are some mutual interests and some matters of common advantage upon which the two cities could act jointly with benefit to both, but for which union is not essential, and concludes that the committee does not be lieve that any more useless talk about union or meaningless committees without power and without serious intention other than to sell intervening lots have a favorable influence in the direction of such cooperation. The report says that public opinion in Minneapolis is overwhelmingly opposed to union, and that in the judgment of the committee the people of this city cannot afford to neglect the great opportunities and advantages under which Minneapolis is building up so rapidly and waste any time or energy in impracticable, useless efforts to unite the two cities. The report was unanimously adopted.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 8.-The epidemic of crime which has aroused the public throughtout New England of late made connections in this city yesterday, and John Tobin of Wilmot and Frank Willis of this city will be arraigned in court on a charge of attempting to kill Albion Clough, a watchman at the state industrial school. Tobin is 20 years of age and Willis 18, and both are inmates of the state reformatory in this city. The former was under sentence for breaking and entered to the state reformatory in this city. tering, and was considered a desperate character. Willis was under sentence for a similar offense.

The two had planned to escape and the first step was taken a week ago when Tobin complained of suffering from insomnia and Secured a Quieting Powder, which he managed Sunday night to conceal in a glass of lemonade which the watchman had prepared for himself. Shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday morning the powder took effect and the watchman fell asleep. Tobin, armed with a baseball bat and Willis with a brass hose nozzle, made their attempt.

Fearing that the officer was not so much asleep but that he would be awakened by their efforts to get away, the desperate young men determined upon putting him more soundly to sleep, and so assaulted him with their weapons. At the first blow the officer endeavored to arise, but a blow from the ball bat settled him, and with the exclamation, "Oh my God!" he fell to the

In falling he awakened one of the other inmates, who gave the alarm, which brought Harry P. Ray and James High, officers of the reformatory, to the scene, and Tobin and Willis thereupon gave up further efforts to escape. Tobin Struck Himself Over the Head, causing a deep wound, and then repre-sented that he was friendly to the officer and received the blow, in endeavoring to protect him, while Willis entered his cot and was there found with his clothes on. The truth of the matter was soon known and Tobin and Willis were made secure and then taken from the school to police neadquarters. Tobin has served a term in the reform school at Westboro, Mass., and this was his fourth attempt to escape. In two of his former efforts he was successful, but was recaptured.

The watchman is terribly injured, his skull being fractured. Seventeen stitches were required to close the wounds above his eyes and on the forehead, and the attending physicians imply that the probabilities are rather against his recovery.

Tragic Ending of a Love Match Between a Doctor and College Girl. BLOOMINGTON, Ills., Sept. 8.—Dr. Charles E. Ballard of Saybrook, Ills., and Miss Bertha Ison, late of Baker City, Ore, and of the latter place, were the parties to a sensational tragedy in this city. Dr. Ballard came to this city last Friday and secured a license to marry Miss Ison, who came here with her mother a month ago to attend college. All day Saturday Ballard engaged in attempts to get Miss Ison wife. She thought much of him, but begged him postpone the event till after her education was completed. Yesterday however, he appeared at her house and asked to see Miss Ison just for a minute. The interview was granted, and while in the parlor Ballard suddenly produced a revolver and shot her twice, once in the temple and once through the heart, killing her instantly. With the smoking revolver still in his hand he rushed wildly to the garden in the rear of the house and there shot himself five times, once in the head and four times in the region of the heart.

WEATHER-CROP BULLETIN.

Report of Observations by the New England Meteorological Society. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 8.—Over the greater part of New England the weather has been prevailingly cloudy and cool. It has been prevailingly cloudy and cool. It has been growing weather, but just now "ripening" weather is most needed. All grops need more warm weather and sun-shine for the next few weeks, and most especially corn and grapes, while fair weather is needed for harvesting the crops already matured. Grain is over ripe in many places and in others it is still in the field although it has been cut two weeks. The heavy rains of the 28th did some damage to grain in central New England It served, however, to thoroughly wet the top of the ground, and to render it for fall ploughing and seeding, which has been begun in Connecticut. made a rapid growth and has eared well, but in places is backward and must have more sunshine to put it out of the way of frost. In southern New Hampshire some fields of corn on light land have been ent and a report from central Connection dicates that cutting is general there. The work of picking corn for canning in Maine has been delayed by the unfavorable weather. The cool weather has been favor. able for potatoes, as the reports, with few exceptions, indicate that the rot is not spreading; many fields are not yet affected; prices range very low.

The tobacco harvest has been somewhat delayed in northern Massachusetts, but in other sections the crop has been nearly all secured. Some late fields show a little rust, but the greater part of it has been secured in most excellent condition; the crop is an unusually large one. Pastures and fields are looking very green, and stock is generally in good condition large crop of rowen is being secured in the northern states. The pear crop is reported very good from nearly all sections, but the peaches and apples are very unevenly distributed. The latter is considered a good yield in southwestern Massachusetts and in central Connecticut, but in most other sections they are light. Quinces are reported to be below the average. The cranberry harvest will be begun during this week.

RUSSIA'S CEREAL CROPS.

Provinces with a Surplus Will Supply Their Less Fortunate Neighbors.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 8.—The prospects for a good harvest in the Caucasus are splendid. The government has reduced by 50 per cent. the rates hitherto levied ipon cereals transported on the Caucasuan railroads in order to facilitate the conveyance of grain from one part of the country to the other. In addition, the navigation companies of the Caspian sea and on the river Volga have come to the determination that they will also lessen their tariffs. It is officially announced that there are large reserves of rye stored in the granaries of the Baltic province of Livonia, and the governor of that province has offered to lend 1,000,000 poods to the provinces which find themselves deficient in their supply of rye, owing to bad crops or other reasons. This loan of 1,000,000 poods is to be repaid to Livenia when the next harvest is gathered. The peasants of Courland, another of the Baltic provinces, have made a similar offer. They announce their willingness to lend 1,000,000 poods of rye to less fortunate provinces on the sole condition that the imperial government will see that the grain loaned is restituted in due course

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Sept. 8.-The annual field day of Father Mathew societies of Springfield diocese here was a great success in attendance. The program was well carried out. There were at least 30,000 people on the streets and about 20,000 people assembled at the driving park to hear Governor Russell speak. Rain in the morning did not delay the parade, and about 3000 men marched through the principal streets to the park. Several business blocks were handsomely decorated, and an arch had been erected over the main street. At the prize drilling contest St. Ann cadets of Worcester were given the first prize and the North Adams cadets second prize. The Pittsfield cadets won the freefor-all contests. Governor Russell was enthusiastically received. He congratulated the society on the success of its great work and had a special word for young men and their needs. Lieutenant Gov. ernor Haile and Mayors Bradford and Hibbard ended the speaking.

DAY OF DOUBLE GAMES.

Boston Ball Clubs Didn't Play-Colts Get an Awful Trouncing at Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The Brooklyns severely trounced the Chicagos this morning. The visitors were completely demoralized. This was because Anson did not play, having overslept himself. He walked into the field during the fifth inning and was loudly cheered by the spectators. The slaughter was perfect and the Brooklyns felt that they had at last got some satisfac tion for being so badly handled earlier in the season by the visitors. But three play-Bergen, Bradford club, ers on the visiting team played in their regular positions. MAINE COAST DWELLERS WHO ARE BEHIND THE TIMES.

The Fisher Maid of Basket Island, and the Discouraged Citizen of Isle au Haut. Natives Who Never Saw a Horse, a Train, an Engine or a Brick House,

The residents of South Thomaston are, in common with other Maine coast awellers, rather behind in the march of progress, and it doesn't require much to startle them. The other day a steamer passing White Head blew very a long blast from her peculiar sounding chime whistle, whereat the villagers marveled greatly, but at night they were positively frightened. A steam yacht in the harbor displayed an electric reflecting light, illuminating the sea, sky and land, and not a few of the unsophisticated natives, remembering the unearthly shrieks of the strange steamer, coupled the two events and concluded that the universe was about to collapse

The innocence of these people will not seem so very strange when it is remembered that many of the natives of Monhegan and other coast islands have never seen a horse, a train of cars or a brick house, never having set foot upon the mainland. There is a man on Monhegan island who knows the Boston and Bangor, the New York and Bangor and all the other steamers that pass the island by sight, but although nearly seventy years old, he has never been on board of any kind of a steam craft, and has not the slightest conception of an

It is not very long since a few acres of rocky soil in outer Casco bay, known as Basket island, was deserted by the only people who ever had the courage to live there—an old fisherman, his wife and daughter. These people lived in an old tumbledown rookery on the little wind swept isle, and were veritable hermits.

AN UNCULTURED MAID. The man fished, while his wife and daughter carried on the farming operations, which consisted in harvesting what little coarse hay the island afforded and carrying it on poles to the cowshed. They had no garden, not even a patch of potatoes, but were merely toilers of the sea The wife had not visited the mainland for seventeen years, while the daughter had passed the entire sixteen years of her life upon the lonely spot, although the city of Portland was almost in sight. The girl was bright, but untutored; pretty, but miserably clad. She wore no stockings and knew nothing of hats. The only relative she knew of outside the family circle was a half sister, who she had never seen. Her father said that this other daughter lived "out west." She lived in Kennebunkport, York county. This daughter of the sea, much to the surprise of some yachtsmen who once landed on the island, was able to play several popular airs upon an old

She had picked the music out by ear after hearing it played by the bands of passing excursion steamers. A party of pienickers who landed there found Basket island deserted. The matted grass was alive with field mice, and gulls perched boldly upon the rotting window sills of the old house, while in one corner lay the dilapidated accordion which had long been the chief consolation of the lonely fisher maiden. There is, perhaps, no more lonely spot on the whole Atlantic coast of the United States than Isle au Haut, which lies far seaward off the entrance to Penobscot bay. The name given to this island by the early French voyagers is most appro priate, for it looks like a mountain half submerged in the sea. The people are a simple, primitive set, and few of them ever visit the mainland. The island, with its fish and sheep and blueberries, is their world, and within its limited circle they are content.

Some queer specimens of humanity are to be found on Isle au Haut. Not long ago a yachting party went down there on a fishing trip, and after catching enough cod for a chowder went ashore to procure some milk. The yachtsmen soon fell in with a weather beaten native who was looking along the shore, and he informed them that they could get plenty of milk, but that they would have to wait until his wife, who had gone blueberrying, returned and milked the cows. The native led the way over rocky pastures to a dilapidated cottage, and ushered them into the kitchen to await the return of "Ma-

There was quite a large attendance at the First Church chapel on Labor day, especially in the evening, when the guild had a successful sale and gave a pleasing entertainment. Visitations from guilds in Dedham, Newton and elsewhere were expected but only a few from the former were in attendance. The fancy tables had many attractive articles, and there were also a flower table, confectionery table, bundle table, lemonade table and the grab-bag, all presided over by members of the guild. Every number of the evening's programme was received with much favor, particularly the vocal selections by Mrs. Dewson, who has been missed during her absence from town. A SEVERE HURRICANE

PUBLISHED EVERY EVENING Does Much Damage to Shipping and Other Property at Halifax.

HALIFAX, Sept. 9 .- A heavy wind and rain storm did much damage here to property on shore and in the harbor. The massive drawbridge at the Narrows was carried away. The schooner J. L. Crossley, discharging a cargo of coal at the wharf, was sunk at her moorings. There is only $1500 insurance on the vessel.

The schooner Fanny B was torn from her fastenings at the Woodside refinery wharf and driven on the Dartmouth shore. She also was discharging coal. Her damage will be only nominal.

The schooner Salvation, moored at the south side of the Woodside refinery wharf, discharging slack coal, had all her deck gear carried away and was virtually cut $ .50 | gear carried away and was McLeod's Lenore dragged her moorings, and ran down F. H. Murray's Nautilus, carrying away her jibboom and forward gear. At the Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron wharf the Wenonah and Youla came to grief. The Youla parted her cables and went ashore. On Northwest Arm there was also trouble. The yacht Hebe parted her cable and was blown on the shore, and nearly all the pleasure boats moored along the arm were swept up into the fields. Nearly everybody's marine property sustained some damage.

Advices from places outside the city show that the gale was severely felt in all parts of the province, but so far no serious damage is reported. From Yarmouth to Cape Breton the coast was swept and it is probable that numerous shipping casualties will be heard of in a day or two.

A Union Pacific Official Denies Rumors Concerning That Road.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9 .- General Solicitor Thurston of the Union Pacific, who is in this city, says there is no foundation for the report that Gould intends giving up control of that road, or that the property will go into the hands of a receiver. The Union Pacific, said Mr. Thurston, has a floating debt of $12,000,000, created when it purchased the Oregon Railway and Navigation property. This was placed in the hands of a great many people. When somebody in Wall street wanted to make drive on Union Pacific, certain holders of these securities were induced to demand immediate payment. Mr. Gould was then in the far west, and Mr. Eames was in Europe. It did not take them long, however, to make arrangements whereby this debt has been bunched and placed with Drexel, Morgan & Co., and that, too, at a lower rate of interest than was being paid before. The Union Pacific was never in as good condition as it is now.

Supreme Court's Findings Against Lawyer Manning of Boston

Boston, Sept. 9 .- A finding for a large amount against Lawyer Jerome F. Manning and in favor of a former secretary, has been filed in the Suffolk county supreme court clerk's office by Judge Lathron as auditor to hear the case. The plaintiff was Andreas Erlund, and he sued Mr. Manning for services from 1882 to 1887, alleging that Manning agreed to pay him $5000 a year, one half in cash and the balance in notes, the latter to be paid when claims should be paid by the court of Alabama claims. The auditor finds that Manning owes Erlund $17,500, which is the full amount claimed, a part of the salary of the plaintiff having been paid.

The full bench of the supreme court has also sent down a finding against Manning in a case in which Lawyer W. H. [Powers sued and recovered a judgment of about $1000. The full court says on appeal that Manning must pay.

Connecticut's Peach Crop Threatened. HARTFORD, Sept. 9.-The yellows have appeared among peach trees this season, and as peach culture has taken considerable importance in agriculture here lately, Secretary Gold of the state board of agriculture has made public a letter from an extensive peach grower, calling on all to cut down at once any affected trees as the only way to prevent ruin of the industry. Mrs. Addie S. Hale, who has large peach orchards, writes, as Pomona of the state grange, calling on Pomonas of the subordinate granges to devote Sept. 15 to destroying all trees thus affected. The Seat Made Vacant by Edmunds' Retirement.

CLARKSON IS MENTIONED

By the Gossips as the Latest Nominee for the War Portfolio-Praise for Rhode Island's National Guard by an Army Inspector-A Patent Office Change.

Washington, Sept 9.—Redfield Proctor

has sent the following letter to Governor Page of Vermont, accepting the appoint-ment to the seat in the senate made vacant by the resignation of Senator Edmunds. DEAR SIR-I take this myl first opportunity to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, in which you state your purpose to appoint me as the successor of the Honorable George F. Edmunds in the United States senate upon his retirement on the first of November next.

In informing you of my intention to accept the same, I desire to express my high appre ciation of the great honor which you do me by the tender of this, the most important appointment which the chief executive of a state can be called upon to make. It is also can be called upon to make. It is also gratifying to be assured by you that, besides the sanction of your own judgment, you believe the selection meets the wishes of a large majority of the people of Vermont. The confidence which they have heretofore shown in me has encouraged me in every position in the public service to which I have been called. Without their confidence I should not care to be even a senator from Vermont in the senate of the United States, a position which has been unique by reason of the ability and influence of the representatives of our state in that body. Among them there have been none more distinguished than he who, after a serv ice of a quarter of a century, has felt obliged, in justice to himself and his family, to relinquish his great trust.

To succeed him is a responsibility which I shall assume with due modesty. But the peo-ple of Termont are always reasonable in their expectations. They have a right to expect, however, that to the best of my ability I will faithfully and earnestly perform every duty which may become incumbent upon me, and this I promise to do. I thank you for the cordial and friendly expressions of your letter, and am with much respect, Yours very truly,

A MOQUI SNAKE DANCE

INDIANS DANCING WITH RATTLERS IN THEIR MOUTHS.

A Horrible Spectacle That White Men Are Rarely Allowed to Witness-Orgies Which Excite the Members of the Moqui Natives to a State of Frenze

The snake dances of the Moqui Indi. ans have been frequently written about, but usually simply on hearsay evidence It is seldom that any white man is allowed to be present at these ceremon A scout attached to the force at Fort Wingate, N. M., however, was so fortunate as to be in one of the Indian villages, and to witness the preliminary dance. What he saw is described in this letter sent from the fort:

The participants were composed of two bodies of men, thirty-six of whom the body. They bore small rattles in one hand, while in the other was held a It's a powerful general, as well as stick, to which was fastened a couple of

These men made four or five circuits of the small plaza and then took up a position to the west side of it. In the with a single stride.

These dancing men, like their predecessors, made four circuits around a large rock which stands in the center of the place. They then faced the chorus and a song was gone through with. After this ceremony the snake men were divided into groups of three, and one from each three went into the cottonwood shed and extracted a snake from one of the logs, and after putting it into his mouth and firmly fixing it there with his teeth, he started on his round.

A DISGUSTING SCENE. His companion, with his arm around his neck, kept the tail of the snake in position with his left hand, while with his right, in which he carried a stick with two long feathers attached, he kept the hair of the dancer. The snake, after being carried around the circle, was thrown from the mouth, when the third member of the group gathered it up and carried it for the rest of the dance.

At times the serpents would try to make their escape and would make a dash for liberty through the crowds which surrounded the dancers, and the spectators would scatter in all directions until the snakes were recaptured by the dancers and carried back into the circle and more securely held.

The visits to the shed were continued until at least 150 snakes had been WANTED,—Any person having any old brought from the inclosure, and all ap-Mahogany Bureaus or Tables for sale, peared to be in excellent cond ing from the manner in which they resisted capture after they had been WANTED,-Two or three High School dropped from the mouth. This time was spent in sleeping and drinking a weak sort of broth made from the dead snakes which had perished in the ceremony. BAY STATE PROHIBITIONISTS.

In Convention at Worcester-Probable

Make-Up of Their Ticket. WORCESTER, Sept. 9.-There is an unusually large gathering of prominent third party men in this city attending the Prohibition state convention. J. R. Bartlett of this city, editor of The Times, was elected temporary chairman and Augustus R. Smith of Lee permanent presiding officer. E. F. Stevens of the Boston Herald is secretary of the convention. It is likely that Charles E. Kimball of Lynn will be nominated for governor. The remainder of the ticket will probably be made up as follows: Lieutenant governor, Augustus R. Smith of Lee; secretary of the commonwealth, A. W. Richardson of Springfield; treasurer, Samuel Shapleigh of Boston; attorney general, Wolcott Hamlin of Amherst; auditor, William O. Armstrong.

Armstrong is the colored man who was talked of by his friends as candidate for the Republican nomination for auditor, but his name was not favorably received. He is here and will accept the nomination. The evidence of Mr. Scott, bookkeeper for the Dominion Type Foundry company, showed that Senecal had got about $1800 out of their firm. He was always asking for money. When he was not in Montreal and wanted it, he would telegraph that "he was very hungry." The first order for 40,000 pounds of type given by Senecal just after the bureau opened was not acknowledged by the secretary of state who, in a letter, said that Seneral had no authority to give the order and he would not recognize it. Several months later a demand was made on the firm for $1500 to the Conservative campaign fund of 1887. They paid it and shortly after now acknowledged. After that they had no difficulty with the government except when Senecal "got hungry." Mr. Meade, agent for the Babcock print ing press, which he claimed was equal to the Gordon presses bought by the government for $4000 each, said that he had offered his presses to Senecal for $2300 each.

"South Dakota, geographically speaking, is an empire herself, her head in the Rockies, jewelled and bedecked in ice and snow, her feet in the rich, warm valley of the Sioux adorned with summer harvests and fragrant with prairie roses. South Dakota is a country capable of producing from her soil everything necessary for the comfort and the blessing of the human life."

Thirteen years ago not a white man within 125 miles of where I stand; to-day a beautiful city rising, as by magic, from the lap of your lakes and from your virgin and verdant soil.

Everything about your town suggests business and social permanency; your public buildings, your mercantile houses, your pretty homes, your water-works, your electric light and gas plants, your motor lines, are what we might expect to see In a city of 50,000 inhabitants.

While you have done nothing to boom WATERTOWN, but have quietly builded your homes, made beautiful your streets, your parks, and your drives, the wealth of your surroundings and the natural laws of trade and enterprise have done much for you.

Your country has been settled by stalwart and industrious farmers, who are rapidly making your rich Sioux valley, which for richness of soil equals Aguas Alientes of Mexico, and vies with the Nile and the Ganges, a country of incalcuable wealth and of great beauty. Think of it, the infant State of America yielding 22,000,000 bushels of wheat, 10,000,000 bushels of oats, 4,000,000 bushels of barley, 5,000,000 bushels of flaxsced, 25,000,000 bushels of corn, 3,000,000 bushels of potatoes, lesser vegetables in proportion, 10,000,000 pounds of wool, 5,000,000 head of horses, cattle, sheep, and hogs.

CODINGTON CO. COURT HOUSE, WATERTOWN.

You have a great system of railways, and to reproduce them would cost upwards of $210,000,000. You are connected directly by your railroads with Duluth on the north, Minneapolis and St. Paul on the cast, Chicago southeast, Omaha south, the sheep prairies of Wyoming southwest, Bismarck, the Northern Pacific, with its tributaries, northwest, and the Black Hills, the centre of American tin, and the centre of many of the largest gold and silver mines in the country, in the west. So peculiar is your railroad competition that you can ship your products to the East and Europe as cheap as they can be shipped from Minneapolis, though you are 226 miles farther west.

When such great railroad corporations as the Chicago and Northwestern, the Rock Island, the Minneapolis, Manitoba and Northern, kings of travel and trade, pounce down upon your town, it means that you have something worth having; it means that you are to have a city which will direct the trade of the Northwest; a city of mills and factories sufficient to take care of your grain and fibre-woolen mills for your wool, linen mills for your flax, strawboard mills for the million tons of straw you annually waste; shoe factories for your hides, starch factories for your potatoes, sugar mills for your beets; it means mills to manufacture the products you grow as you grow them, instead of freighting them 2,000 miles east to be manufactured and then shipping the manufactured goods back to you.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Sept. 9.—That yacht racing is an uncertain sport and much dependent upon the wind and the weather was never better illustrated than yesterday, when, in the regatta of the Eastern Yacht club, Colonel Hugh Corcoran's 70-foot schooner Œnone, after being a copple of miles astern at the first mark, got favorable shifts of wind and was so close to General Paine's Volunteer at the finish as to save her allowance and win the $400 prize, with something to spare. ORIGINAL HYMN.

BY E. E. WILLIAMSON OF QUINCY.

To be sung to the tune "America," at the reunion of the Old South school in Marshfield, Mass., Thursday, Sept. 10th.

God gave this happy day, O, may its memory stay Long in our hearts! May He who gives it all, Let His choice blessings fall,

On every present soul, Ere we depart. He bore us through these years,-These days of joys and tears,-To this glad hour. And in the time to come,

His welcome words, "well done" Shall gladden every one Who owns His power. We drop a silent tear. With hearts without a fear On graves we mourn. Out from God's lasting throne They view their earthly home

And bid us in our gloom, Be of good cheer. These ancient rocky hills, These meads and leaping rills, Speak loud and long Of golden days of yore, When on this pilgrim short Old ocean's mighty roar Seemed a glad song. God changes not, but we Change as the seasons flee From year to year We'll love this hallowed place 'Til with Him face to face, At close of life's brief race, We all appear.

O, blessed, precious day!

O, wilt thou with us stay

Stay with us every face,

And let naught e'er efface,

The memories of this place

In souls so dear?

> Old Things Are Best. Old things are best. We wander So strangely and so lonely From here to that world yonder, Why not grow fonder and fonder In tried affections only?

Old friends are best. Their faces Each year seem dearer, dearer. And glow with new found graces; Then, ah! these vacant places But bring the living nearer Old homes are best. The laughter That tells of childhood's pleasures Beneath the ancient rafter Surpasses all that's after And all of manhood's treasures.

Old love is best. Its sweetness Makes pleasant sorrow's chalice. And, spite of Time's dread fleetness, It gains in calm completeness And laughs at Age's malice.

Old faith is best; the teaching Of heart enshrined mothers. What profits subtle preaching, Or blind and eager reaching

Amount of Suspicious Bonds LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 10.-The police be G. Levick, for an indecent assault on a woman near the fair grounds, who he first attempt to sell some liniment and then a coat. His grip contained material which may prove the arrest to be an important one. There was a letter from Rufus Ford, MR. VROOMAN OF HERKIMER a Boston lawyer, referring to negotiations with Levi S. Gould in his office in egard to an exchange of a "dead dog for a defunct cat;" also referring to the Farmers' Loan and Trust company.

This is believed to be a cover for pecul iar business. In one grip were seventeen $1000 gold bearing bonds of the Canada Michigan and Chicago railroad made to the National Trust company of New York. 1.50 The bonds were pronounced genuine by 3.00 Judge Hadley and the cashier of the First 5.00 National bank, but investigations found no such corporations as those named. Levick says the bonds are worthless, but he has been selling them. A loaded and an unloaded revolver were found in his grip, also the "Life of Christ," religious pictures, etc. He says he has studied law and medicine and used to belong to the Philadelphia fire department. He is middle-aged, bald and dressed in coarse clothes. Important developments are expected.

Twentieth—We approve the principally a matter of business administration, and the enactment of laws to secure for all the cities of the state genuine home rule, the enactment of a law to require the general and uniform system of accounting, and the adoption of an amendment to the constitution requiring the passage of a general bill for the government of cities.

Twenty-first—The passage of the direct tax refunding bill by a Republican congress and its approval by the Republican president returned this state $2,213,000, which would have been distributed to the several counties as their just due but for Democratic opposition in the legislature.

Twenty-second—We denounce the unpatriotic effort of Governor Hill, through the last Democratic assembly, to place this state in an unfriendly attitude toward the World's Columbian exposition to be held in Chicago in 1883; that we recognize the necessity for an exhibition by the state in keeping with its commercial and industrial supremacy in the nation; and that we favor early action by the next legislature providing for a proper exhibition from this state.

Twenty-third—It is a fundamental principle of Republican policy to reduce taxation and to retrench the expenditures of public money whenever it can be done; therefore, in the promotion of that policy, the next legislature is requested to adopt an annendment to section 13, article 6 of the constitution of this state, expunging therefrom the provisions made for the salary of any judicial officer after the expiration of his term of office.

There are plenty of wrong ways, that perhaps you've found out. They may relieve for a time, but they don't cure.

Worse yet, they may drive the disease to the lungs. You can't afford to experiment.

But there is a right way, and a sure way, that does cure. Thousands of otherwise hopeless cases have proved it. It's with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Mass., Sept. 10. - The held their annual state caucus in ics hall. It was a rather thinly atathering. The report of the comredentials showed 773 delegates en and women), representing and towns. There was a fair at of spectators in the galleries. g was enthusiastic and har-and the election and appointment of officials, executive, legislative and judicial who are in sympathy with, and will enforce, prohibition. These ends we believe are attainable only through a party organized for the purpose. Ninth—We especially look to the young manhood of Massachusetts to overthrow the saloon. We believe this generation is ordained to accomplish this great task. Therefore we heartily endorse the aims of the Massachusetts Young Men's Prohibition club.

Tenth—The press is one of the most potent engines for the advancement of our cause. We therefore commend the Prohibition press to the most generous and liberal support of all Prohibitionists.

Eleventh—We favor an honest civil service law honestly administered. We arraign both the old parties for their insincerity in this matter, for their pledges so freely given before election, and so fully forgotten after.

Twelfth—Every individual of proper age, recognized by the law of our national constitution as a citizen, should have the right of franchise, without regarded sex, subject only to such educational qualifications as the state legislature shall adopt.

Thirteenth—The public common school is a foundation stone of the Republic. We will sacradly guard it from removal or undermining by hostile hands. To this end, and that its power and beneficience may continue unabated, we are against any sectarian interference therewith, and would forbid the appropriation of any public money for the support of sectarian schools or teaching.

Fourteenth—Touching tariff legislation differences of opinion are found in our ranks, but we are agreed that it is more important to protect the home than the factory and manhood than manufactories; and on the other hand that any actual or supposed burden of tariff texation is trivial and in 'unificent in comparison with the burden of ai-oholic taxation.

Fifteenth—We welcome the industrious and worthy toilers of other lands to the heritage of freedom and the highest possibilities of manhood our country offers. But we demand ipal feature of the day was the on of the Armstrong "deal," ex-Representative William O. of Boston, the colored people's for state auditor, received the on nomination for that office. diseased, pauperized and criminal classes of the Old World.

Sixteenth—Labor is the chief factor in the production of wealth, and is therefore entitled to its full share of the product. The massing of enormous fortunes by the few, on the one hand, and the increasing difficulty with which many laborers obtain a decent support for themselves and families, on the other hand, indicate that a fair division of the product of labor does not now obtain.

Seventeenth—We favor a currency, every dollar of which, whether of gold, silver or paper, shall be equal to, or convertible into, the best dollar known to commerce sufficient in amount and elastic enough in character to meet the varying demands of the business of the country.

Eighteenth—All combinations of capital, or devices of whatever character, stock-raising or otherwise, to control and increase the cost of products for popular consumption should be prohibited.

Twentieth—We recommend the candidates this day placed in nomination for the various state offices to the voters of Massachusetts as men every way worthy of their suffrages and who ought especially to receive the hearty and enthusiastic support of every friend of prohibition. Some objections were made to the tariff and immigration planks, but the platform was adopted as a whole.

thildren Should Have Plenty of It and Sleeping Rooms Need Windows. There are very few people who appreciate properly the hygienic powers of sunlight. It is true of people, as it is true of plants, Boston, Sept. 9.—Boston and Cleveland that they cannot thrive without abundance of sunlight as well as abundance of fresh air. The necessity for sunlight is so well recognized that in all the recent lectures to nurses of the sick they are ordered to admit the sunlight freely to the sickroom in all cases, except where the strong light is specially prohibited by the physician. Not long ago sun baths were freely recom-mended for certain diseases, and this treatment has since proved exceedingly valuable. The orientals, who have gardens on the tops of their houses, appreciate the value of sunlight as a tonic and health

> The cases of persons who suffer from actual sunstroke are much fewer than of those who suffer unto death from vitiated air and want of sunshine. The mass of cases reported as sunstroke in the cities are the result of prostration from heat, and occur in close rooms within doors as frequently as out of doors. In most such cases the deteriorated condition of the system of the individual, caused by confinement in rooms insufficiently aired and lighted, is at the bottom of the trouble.

It is especially necessary that children should have an abundance of freedom to romp out of doors in the sunshine, so that they will acquire an abundance of red blood, and with it strength and life. Pale, sallow complexions show a watery condiand your valuables in. This is a pretty sallow complexions show a watery condition of the blood that can only be remedied by an abundance of outdoor exercise. In winter it is always best to give a little child its exercise in the middle of the day; but as the season changes the time for exercise changes. In summer the best time Clarkson put up good ball in the second is usually early in the morning before 10 p'clock and after 3 in the afternoon.

In the morning a rubber sheet, if the ground is damp, should be spread in a suitable place over the grass, and a blanket spread over this, and the little one taken out of his carriage and allowed to frolic about in the mild morning sun. The baby will gain marvelously from such exercise, and it will be all the better off if it is kept under the trees to take its midday nap instead of being taken into the house. Where is there such health as that found among the sturdy peasant children of Germany, who are allowed to roam about in the sunshine innocent of cap or hat till their very hair bleaches lint white and their cheeks turn rosy red?

No room in any house is fit for a living or a sleeping room which has not windows through which sunshine and air can be freely admitted. The family rooms of a house should be built on the south and east sides, so as to receive the health giving effects of the morning sun, which chases away more malaria and miasmic vapors than all the drugs in the world can. -New York Tribune.

> What a Healthy Woman Says. I sat for half an hour and talked, the other day, with a weman who seemed to glory in the delicacy and frailty of her own health. She waxed almost eloquent as she descanted upon her torpid liver and her weak head, She exulted in the fact that her doctor's bills were something enormous and the amount reaped by the corner druggist from the fat meadow lands of her husband's income was a good barvest for a rainy day.

I longed to say to her: "Madam, this is all wrong. You are grossly offending God by allowing yourself to become the recipient of so many drugs. He meant you to be a jewel casket, and you have turned yourself into a pill box and a potion bottle. What would you think of an apple that should find speech on some radiant September morning and challenge the or-chard with the cry, 'I am the wormiest apple of the lot! I defy you to produce a more perfect case of premature and all pervading decay!' If you are sick, keep quiet about it. You have either ignored the laws of health yourself or you are the poor, irresponsible product of a hereditary cursed vine, and in either case you ha letter keep quiet and 'lay low.' To be forever ailing is a disgrace to some one, either to yourself or to your ancestors. "Nature never yet turned out an imper fect specimen from her workshop. The pianomaker is no more careful that each nstrument sent out from the shop should be without fault or blemish than nature is in regard to her handiwork. But if you pound on the piano with a meat ax, and stuff it full of sand, no wonder the delicacy of the original tone becomes impaired. Take care of your piano, if you have one, and it will last for years. Take care of your body, and it will stand you in need until you put on a new one in the robing room of the tomb."—Chicago Herald.

To Carry Money Safely.

You are going away; you have a large sum of money to take with you, and you are just the least little bit worried as to the best way to carry it. If you put the money in your pocket your pockets might be picked. Such things have happened. A bag is not to be thought of; that is lawful prey. While if the precious parcel is hid den away in your trunk there is the possibility of the trunk getting lost or destroyed in some way. Here is a suggestion: Have and sensible way to make it. Take for a model one of your envelopes. If it is not quite large enough to answer your purpose it will be very little trouble to cut the chamois envelope a little larger. Line it with silk of your favorite color and bind the edges with narrow ribbon. For the sake of security have the flap arge and square. This is fastened with hooks and eyes hidden by small bows. A loop of narrow ribbon is fastened to the upper corners of the envelope. Let the loop be long enough to go over the head. This little envelope bag can be worn under the clothing, or even under the corset. The plain face of the bag can be decorated with half moons, disks, irregular lines and an appropriate motto, if you wish it. But if the bag is intended to see much service it is better to have it as plain as possible and without ornamentation .- New York

Advertiser. Women's Wraps in 1866.

At the beginning of 1866 the black silk aletot was in fashion. The back was nuch longer than the front, and was open part of the way up. The trimming was a conglomerate assortment of silk cords, ancy buttons and bugle fringe. At this time the ugly loose sacque was in favor, and certainly there never was a more shapeless and unbecoming garment than this, for all figures were alike when hidden under its disfiguring folds. For summer wear it was frequently of white mohair, with a trimming of black ribbon velvet or of jet beads and fringe. A few years later one of the leading dry goods houses advertised the ortolan, which seems to have been a short talma cape, the back of which was drawn in at the waist by an invisible under belt. A fancy braid and button trimming which simulated a hood covered the space between the shoulders, and a silk fringe finished the bottom. In 1874 a rather more sightly wrap was introduced. It was on the mantilla order. This cloak was bordered with a design in braiding or embroidery.-Mercer.

The stone after being crushed is screened, falls upon a platform and is then handled by manual labor into the carts. This method has been pursued since the crusher was pur chased by the town, and in this age of progress, and with modern machinery adapted for the work, obtainable at a small outlay, these methods of bygone days should be discontinued and a modern plant established. Constipation and Insanity. It is now generally admitted that constipation is productive of serious disorders, that it aggravates other ailments, increases the susceptibility of the system to infectious diseases and produces a state of general physical disturbance.

The nervous system is especially affected, and it must be remembered that the nervous centers are in the brain. The deleterious effects of constipation were formerly explained by the pressure of the hardened mass on the blood vessels and nerves of the intestines. But a different view is now taken. It is believed that they are due to powerful poisons, which have been proved to be developed in the process of incipient decomposition. There is reason to believe that extreme cases of constipation may result in insanity. In some of the worst cases of constipation there is a free passage through the compact mass, the latter

HEALING THE BLIND MAN

LESSON XI, THIRD QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, SEPT. 13.

Text of the Lesson, John ix, 1-11 and 35-38-Commit Verses, 35-38-Golden Text, John ix, 25-Commentary by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Compiled from Lesson Helper Quarterly by permission of H. S. Hoffman, publisher, Philadelphia.

1. "And as Jesus passed by He saw a nan which was blind from his birth." And being full of compassion His heart went out to this poor man, who had now spent over a score of years in darkness, both physical and spiritual (verse 21). 2. "And His disciples asked Him, saying,

3.00 Master, who did sin, this man, or his pa One year, . . . . . . . . . . 5.00 ents, that he was born blind?" In the light of the testimony of all Scripture is the only way to understand any Scripture. From this saving of Christ some might blindly conclude that we have here a sinless man with sinless parents; but what saith the Scriptures? "All have sinned and come short of the Glory of God;" 'There is none righteous, no, not one' (Rom iii. 10, 23) The words of Christ are an answer to the question of the disciples concerning this man's blindness and the reason of it, and He simply says that there was no special sin on the part of the par ents by reason of which they were given a blind son, but, on the contrary, this blind man was going to furnish a special oppor tunity for the manifestation of the power of God. See also the reason why Lazarus was permitted to sicken and die (chapter xi, 4, 15, 40)

4. "I must work the works of Him that sent me, while it is day, the night cometh, when no man can work."

Over thirty times in this gospel Jesus says that the Father sent Him, and He constantly appeals to the works as evidence that he was sent by God (chapters v. 36; x. 25; xiv, 10, xv, 24). 5. "As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world." This also He often repeats, as in chapters viii, 12: xii, 35, 46. He is both Life and Light, and neither death nor dark ness can abide in His presence. 6. "When He had thus spoken He spat on the ground and made clay of the spittle, and He anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay.' Sometimes He made the blind to see with a word, and immediately (Mark x, 52); sometimes by the use of a medium, as the clay and spittle and waters of Siloam, as in this case, and sometimes gradually, as in the case of the man who first saw men as trees walking, and then when Jesus put His hands on him a second time he saw clearly (Mark viii, 23-25).

7. "And said unto him, Go, wash in the pool of Siloam (which is by interpretation, Sent). He went his way therefore, and washed, and came seeing. Jesus was just as able to open his eyes with a word, and on the spot, as in the case of the blind men at Jericho, but He saw fit to do as He did for some wise purpose. There may be a connection between the nce of Siloam (Sent) and the fact hat He so often speaks of Himself as Sent by the Father. 8. "The neighbors, therefore, and they

The change was so great and so clearly nanifest that the people could not help nquiring how it came about. When a work of grace in one's heart becomes so utwardly manifest in the life that people bserve it and inquire about it, then God s glorified.

11. "He answered and said, A man that s called Jesns made clay and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me, Go to the Tom Dewitt-Won't you allow me to pool of Siloam and wash; and I went and washed, and I received sight.'

So Jesus now reveals Himself to this man as the need of his unsatisfied soul; even as after the resurrection He revealed himself to weeping Mary, the sor rowful two, the perplexed women, the fear ful disciples, doubting Thomas, the hungry and disappointed fishermen, and in every case tears, doubts, fears and perplexities all vanished, and there was joy and peace adhering in thick layers to the walls of the intestines, while the patient has no suspicion of his real condition.

That grave diseases do not oftener result from constipation is due to the constant use of cathartics on the part of those affected. But such use is itself injurious. The true course is to establish habits that will effectually remove the tendency to constipation. The muscular vigor of the intestines needs to be increased by invigorating the muscular system generally with proper outdoor exercise.—Youth's Companion.

Watertown South Dakota.

A natural centre and distributing point. The following extracts from a response to an addrass of welcome from Governor Millette, of South Dakota, to a party of Boston business men, presents a vivid picture of the resources of South Dakota, and the future of its destined capital.

"South Dakota, geographically speaking, is an empire herself, her head in the Rockies, jewelled and bedecked in ice and snow, her feet in the rich, warm valley of the Sioux adorned with summer harvests and fragrant with prairie roses. South Dakota is a country capable of producing from her soil everything necessary for the comfort and the blessing of the human life."

Thirteen years ago not a white man within 125 miles of where I stand; to-day a beautiful city rising, as by magic, from the lap of your lakes and from your virgin and verdant soil.

Everything about your town suggests business and social permanency; your public buildings, your mercantile houses, your pretty homes, your water-works, your electric light and gas plants, your motor lines, are what we might expect to see In a city of 50,000 inhabitants.

While you have done nothing to boom WATERTOWN, but have quietly builded your homes, made beautiful your streets, your parks, and your drives, the wealth of your surroundings and the natural laws of trade and enterprise have done much for you. GRANITE BLOCK, WATERTOWN.

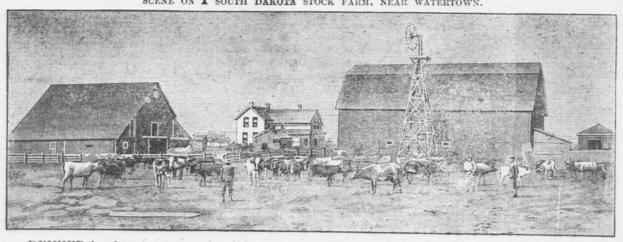

Your country has been settled by stalwart and industrious farmers, who are rapidly making your rich Sioux valley, which for richness of soil equals Agues Alientes of Mexico, and vies with the Nile and the Ganges, a country of incalcuable wealth and of great beauty. Think of it, the infant State of America yielding 22,000,000 bushels of wheat, 10,000,000 bushels of oats, 4,000,000 bushels of barley, 5,000,000 bushels of flaxseed, 25,000,000 bushels of corn, 3,000,000 bushels of potatoes, lesser vegetables in proportion, 10,000,000 pounds of wool, 5,000,000 head of horses, cattle, sheep, and hogs.

You have a great system of railways, and to reproduce them would cost upwards of $210,000,000. You are connected directly by your railroads with Duluth on the north, Minneapolis and St. Paul on the cast, Chicago southeast, Omaha south, the sheep prairies of Wyoming southwest, Bismarck, the Northern Pacific, with its tributaries, northwest, and the Black Hills, the centre of American tin, and the centre of many of the largest gold and silver mines in the country, in the west. So peculiar is your railroad competition that you can ship your products to the East and Europe as cheap as they can be shipped from Minneapolis, though you are 226 miles farther west.

When such great railroad corporations as the Chicago and Northwestern, the Rock Island, the Minneapolis, Manitoba and Northern, kings of travel and trade, pounce down upon your town, it means that you have something worth having; it means that you are to have a city which will direct the trade of the Northwest; a city of mills and factories sufficient to take care of your grain and fibre-woolen mills for your wool, linen mills for your flax, strawboard mills for the million tons of straw you annually waste; shoe factories for your hides, starch factories for your potatoes, sugar mills for your beets; it means mills to manufacture the products you grow as you grow them, instead of freighting them 2,000 miles east to be manufactured and then shipping the manufactured goods back to you.

UNCLE SAM AWAKES

To the Necessity of Naval Action in China.

THE SITUATION IS GRAVE.

Cears That Americans in the Interior Cannot Be Reached-Governor Steele Says Oklahoma Will Be Big Enough to Vote in '96-Squadron (hanges.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The department of state has received a telegraphic dispatch from the minister at Pekin, reporting that a riot has occurred at Ichang, on the Yang-Tse-Kiang river, in the province of Hoo-Pa, and that an establishment of American missionaries there had been destroyed. No further particulars are given.

The gravity of the situation in China increases daily and the navy department s lending its aid to protect American interests in answer to the representations of the department of state. The Charleston Is now on her way to China from San Francisco, and the Petrel, in the neighborhood of New York, is under orders to proceed immediately to the same destina tion to strengthen Admiral Belknap's fleet. Particular concern is felt at the department in this last riot because of its location. Ichang is about 200 miles further up the Yang-Tse-Kiang than Hong Kow, which is as far above the mouth as vessels of war can make their way under prdinary circumstances. In time of high water light draught war vessels may get above there, and in fact the Ashuelot and the Monocach have each succeeded in reaching Ichang. But unless there is high water in the river at present Admiral Belknap will have difficulty in getting a vessel up to the scene of trouble.

A Report from London. London, Sept. 11.—The Standard's Shanghai correspondent says: The foreigners of Ichang, with the exception of the members of the consulate, have taken refuge at Hankow, the foreign gunboats being unable to reach Ichang on account of low water. An attempt was made to cause a riot at Hankow on Tuesday, but a British man-of-war landed a company of blue jackets with a Gatling gun, and the disorder was quelled without fighting.

MAY VOTE IN '96. The Speedy Settlement of Oklahoma

Predicted by Governor Steele. WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Governor Steele of Oklahoma is in the city. He is very enthusiastic about the speedy settlement of that territory. He declares it to be as good as the best of Kansas. The Cherokee strip will soon be added to this domain by the opening of it to the homesteaders. He says that Oklahoma will be admitted to vote in 1896 if a Republican president is elected in 1892. It would have population enough by that time for three representatives and five electoral votes. It would certainly include the whole Indian territory, bringing in the civilized tribes of the eastern part with 75,000 people, and by far the best lands, capable of sustaining milllons of people. There are many white men among these Indians married to squaws, more half-breeds and at least 6000 negroes. A great many negroes from Texas, Kansas and Missouri are going into Oklahoma. They are mostly Republicans. The white emigration is about equally divided between the two great parties, so that the negroes are likely to decide the olitics of the new state. He says the Indians are quite as good material, if not better to work with politically, as were the negroes of the country at the close of the war, and are very likely to be con-trolled by the Republicans if brought into the Union under Republican auspices.

The Money Problem Again. WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The secretary of the treasury has decided to make a further withdrawal of $2,000,000 from depository banks. The call will be made in the first instance upon banks which the secretary thinks have too large an amount of government funds in proportion to the security furnished. In some cities where there are several government depositories one of these will be discontinued and the funds thus withdrawn will go to make up the $2,000,000.

Admiral Walker Loses Two Ships. WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Secretary Tracy has made further changes in the squadrons on the north Atlantic coast. An order issued yesterday transferred the Boston and Atlanta from Admiral Walker's squadron of evolution to Admiral Gherardi's command, the north Atlantic squadron. This leaves the two squadrons equally balanced in numbers of vessels.

Won't Submit to a Cut-Down. FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 11 .- At the Weavers' Progressive union meeting last night the sentiment was in favor of running the mills a less number of days per week rather than submit to a cut-down as proposed. If a reduction of wages is made the weavers will strike. The meeting was largely attended, and the speeches were of a firm but conservative nature. Bark and Crew Missing.

New York, Sept. 11.—The Norwegian bark, Star of India, a vessel of 1049 tons, which sailed from Dundee on June 25 for Quebec, was bulletined as missing at the maritime exchange. The vessel sailed under command of Captain Neilson, and carried a crew of about twenty men. As she is now several weeks ovderdue, it is feared that she was lost. A Worcester Sensation. WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 11.—A stranger who gave the name of James Martin, and his home at Baltimore, was found on Main street, early in the morning, wounded in the breast and arm. He said he was shot at a card table in a quarrel, but he refuses to tell any particulars. Chilian Cruiser to Surrender. KIEL, Sept. 11.—The Chilian cruiser El Presidento Pinto has left Copenhagen for Southampton. Her first engineer arrived here on his way to Paris, where the cruiser will be handed over to the representatives of the new Chilian government.

Cardinal Lavigerie Snubbed. ROME, Sept. 11.—It is said that the pope, influenced by Cardinal Lavetta, has instructed Cardinal Lavigerie, the wellknown leader of the orusade against the slave trade, to return to his seat in Africa without visiting the Vatican.

THE LISTING SYSTEM

and How It Operates in the Collection of Taxes in Maine.

LEWISTON, Me., Sept. 11.—At the meeting of the state board of agriculture at the state fair grounds Honorable Hall C. Burleigh presided, and the vital subject of "Taxation" was discussed. Senator A. M. Spear of Gardiner said that it was generally expected that there would be some legislation during the legislative session that would remove the inequalities of taxation, and he had the honor to be chairman of the committee on taxation. After careful consideration of the matter, this committee adopted the system already in operation in nineteen different states, viz., he much-abused listing system.

Mr. Spear now produced the original oill as he presented it to the senate last winter, and by comparing it with chapter sections 5 and 93 of the revised statutes, showed that the bill requires nothing that the present law does not require, except the enforcement law. wife of a well-known Methodist The remedy to be sought, said Mr. Spear, to the Jesuit college on Twelfth is a better system of assessing and collect is a better system of assessing and collecta few minutes' talk with ing taxes. This the listing system provides. After its adoption in Vermont, the amount of assessed personal property jumped from $15,000,000 before to $45,000, 000 the year after the listing system went

In reply to those who say that property will leave the state if taxed, he said that for ten years following this adoption in Vermont the amount assessed fluctuated threatened her life and declared they from $58,000,000 to $50,000,000. ### A BOOMING BUSINESS.

All through the yachting season we have kept on deck, with an eye to windward, and our hand to the helm. BOSTON-Old Colony News Stand after We have had no vacation, and don't want any, so long as our patrons require our services.

We have had an unusually busy season, dealing with people from every ward in the city; selling them goods and repairing their timepieces.

Visitors to our establishment, as they glance at our repairing department, remark, "How busy you seem to be!" And why shouldn't we? We have every facility for doing first-class repairing, and an experience of fourteen years at the bench, which will fully justify our claim, as a workman to be second to none in this section.

If you have a watch that bothers you, and your watchmaker does not seem to locate the difficulty, bring it to us for examination. If it is past repairing, we will frankly tell you so, and charge you nothing for examination; and if there is any possibility of its being put in order, we will tell you just what it will cost, and guarantee satisfaction or refund the money. Try us and be convinced, and we ason the Old Colony railroad yesterday morning. A train of empty cars was being Boat hauled from the Kneeland street depot to the yard in South Boston just when the Mattapan local was entering the yard near the Broadway bridge.

Through some misunderstanding the switchman left a switch open for the line of the "shunting" train, and it was at this switch that the Mattapan local caught up with the other. The result was that the empty train was badly scraped and the engine of the local derailed.

Fortunately both trains were running at a slow rate of speed, so that the accident did not result in loss of life. Engineer Babcock, who by the way was the driver of the engine in the Quincy disaster, had another experience. THE OLD MILL An old mill, mossy from roof comb to stony base, was rumbling and growling 43 43 beside its brook. A big overshot water 55 75 wheel, seemingly much out of proportion 10 00 to the rest of the building slowly revolved, with the gushing and gurgling 0 00 water filling its slimy buckets

Some wide armed oaks and slender 82 27 pines grew all about. In every direction mountain peaks rose against the blue 66 (0) north Georgia sky. The air had all the freshness and fragrance of the south. The mill fronted eastward, looking 20 43 down a narrow, fertile valley, now just beginning to clothe itself in vernal splen dors of leaf and flower; along the sinu ous channel of the brook grew clumps of willows overtopped here and there by white armed plane trees and gnarled tu

The Power of Love The world is so changed since I knew her! The sky is a tenderer blue, The wood thrush sings sweeter and truer— Yea, all the wide world is made new.

The breezes that blow from the clover And kiss all the flowers on the way. Are whispering over and over A name that is sweeter than they.

O love, thou hast fettered and bound me; I ne'er shall be heart free again, Yet life flows like music around me, And flow'rs are the links of my chain.

Tired Mothers.

A little elbow leans upon your knee, Your tired knee, that has so much to bear; A child's dear eyes are looking lovingly From underneath a thatch of shining hair: Perhaps you do not heed the velvet touch Of warm, moist fingers, folding yours so

You do not prize this blessing overmuch— You almost are too tired to pray, tonight!

But it is blessedness! A year ago I did not see it as I do today,
We are so dull and thankless; and too slow
To catch the sunshine e'er it slips away.
And now it seems surpassing strange to me,
That while I wore the badge of motherhood, I did not kiss more oft and tenderly

The little child that brought me only good!

And if some night when you sit down to rest, You miss this elbow from your tired knee; This restless, curling head from off your breast This lisping tongue that chatters constantly If from your own the dimpled hand had slipped,

And ne'er would nestle in your palm again;
If the white feet into their grave had tripped,
I could not blame you for your heartache

I wonder so that mothers ever fret At little children clinging to their gown; Or that the footprints, when the days are wet, Are ever black enough to make them frown if I could find a little muddy beet, Or cap, or jacket, on my chamber If I could kiss a rosy, restless foot, And hear its music in my home once more;

If I could mend a broken cart today, Tomorrow make a kite to reach the sky. There is no woman in God's world could say She was more blissfully content than I. But, ah! the dainty pillow next my own
Is never rumpled by shining head;
My singing birdling from its nest is flown-The little boy I used to kiss is dead!

Hoboken, N. J., Sept. 12.-About 7000 people paid $5 and $10 each last night to see Jack McAuliffe of Brooklyn and Austin Gibbons of Paterson, N. J., fight for the lightweight championship of the world. Many others could not get into the hall. McAuliffe had the best of it from the start, and the poor showing Gibbons made was a disappointment to his friends. McAuliffe's seconds were Jimmy Carroll of Breeklyn, and his hysthyr, "Con" More of Brooklyn and his brother, "Con" Mc-Auliffe. Gibbons' were Charlie Norton and his brother, James Gibbons. Gibbons made but slight defense, and there was evidently but one man in the fight. Three times more in the round did McAuliffe step in and deliver telling, one, two, left and right, head and body blows, escaping with almost no returns at all. The second round was almost a repetition of the first. McAuliffe, placing himself carefully, hit Gibbons as he pleased, going at him in his corner and sending in telling blows on both sides of his head, banging him about in go-as-you-please fashion. Gibbons tried to counter, but his attempts were futile, and clinching was his only hope. The Paterson man only led at long intervals, never landing when he did lead. A slight tinge of blood showed from beneath Gibbons' left eye as the round ended.

Gibbons did better in the third round, making a determined rally, and actually coming out of his corner after his opponent. McAuliffe, however, had all the best of it, punishing his man severely about the body and face. Twice Gibbons would have been knocked down had he not been so close to the ropes in his corner. Gibbons was punished even worse in the fourth, but took his trials smilingly.

In the fifth round Gibbons made a great effort and rushed McAuliffe across the ring, but was soon backed into his own corner again, where the champion continued to fight him, without receiving any

Were I to attempt an enumeration of the uses to which the product of the woods is put it would be necessary for me to mention all the phases and employments of human life. By distillation are derived from it alcohol and acetic acid, while the barks yield indispensable tanning material, resin and tar for pitching vessels, turpentine, sassafras oil and cork.-Interview in Washington

Francis Murphy Treats.

A short, thick set man, with silver streaks in his hair and bushy mustache, stood in the rotunda of the Grand Pacific and talked earnestly to a group of reporters that encircled him. "Friends," he said, "it is very warm. Let us go to my room and have a long drink." This startled the young men, for the speaker had never said such sweet words before. But recovering quickly they followed the man to his room. He rang for a bellboy, and when the messenger arrived the host said: "Bring us four nice, large sparkling glasses of ice water.' Then all was quiet. You could have heard a couple of pins drop, and each reporter had a different expression on each side of his face. The schooner, with a party of about 100 men, women and children living at the North End aboard, bound on a fishing trip, was leaving the south side of wharf directly in the wake of the schooner. The steamer was at "dead slow" speed, and the bow line was about to be thrown, so as to enable her to swing about and late to avoid a collison, as the two boats were only a few feet apart. it had been an eggshell. there was great excitement, as all the passengers supposed the boat would sink. Fortunately, the police launch Patrol, which lay near, had seen that a collision was inevitable, and when it occurred was side by side with the Fleur de Lis. About twenty of the passengers on the Fleur de Lis jumped aboard the Patrol, and in the meantime the crew of the yacht had stuffed blankets in the aperture. This had prevented a further flow of water, and retored confidence among the remaining passengers. The police boat Protector at about this time put in an appearance, and towed the Fleur de Lis to the north end of Long wharf, where she was grounded, after the passengers had been taken ashore. She was afterward taken to East Boston to undergo repairs, which will be quite extensive.

Mr. Shulz had this to say, last evening: 'Yes, a writ has actually been brought against Judge Wakefield and Sheriff Endicott, in behalf of my client, Philip Hoffman, for $10,000. ## WATERTOWN, SOUTH DAKOTA.

THE MARVELLOUS RESULTS which have been accomplished in the rearing of cities and towns upon the fertile plains of South Dakota, seem, at times, to overreach the imagination of the most visionary mind. Those who are accustomed to the vim, the pluck, the shrewdness, and the far-reaching plans of the Westerner, are sometimes found meditating in wonder at the rapid development on every side of them, while men more accustomed to Eastern environments and ideas, and to less rapid progress, look in awe and amazement at the work of hardly a decade.

Ten years ago, where now stands the city of Watertown, there was nothing to obstruct the vision from a great ocean of rolling prairie in one direction, from the winding and fertile Sioux Valley in another, or from the rivers and lakes on the west; there was not the sign of a tree in sight, save those which skirted the borders of Lake Kampeska, and one could count on the fingers of one hand the white men then here.

Watertown consisted of a straggling little town of 50 or 60 buildings of which the following is a bird's eye view.

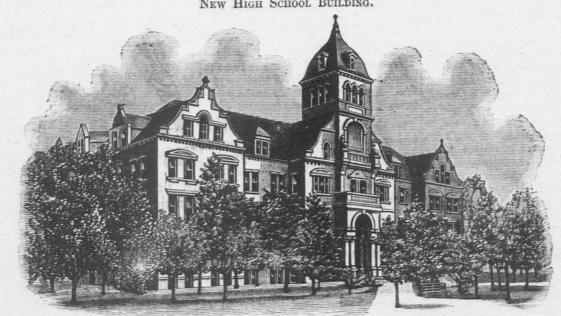

To-day a city of Brick, Stone, and Granite, with 6,000 Souls, eight lines of railway, miles and miles of graded streets and sidewalks, shade trees, numerous manufacturing plants, water works, street-car lines, electric lights, five-story hotels, opera houses, churches, schools financial exchanges, jobbing and mercantile interests, parks and boulevards, neat, cosey, and comfortable homes; a city whose corporate limits extend over an area of four sq. miles, which is but poorly illustrated below.

With unsurpassed R. R. Facilities for business (8 lines now centering there and 2 more already projected) and most delightful residence sites especially cheap and available; adapted to suit the tastes of either rich or poor, it offers inducements to Business Men, Manufacturers, Capitalists and Home Seekers, seldom found. Its Educational advantages are first-class as can be judged from the view below of the

It is from the latter that we quote today:

The question, "What are the rightful shares of labor and capital in the product to which each has contributed?" has been frequently asked and many persons have assumed to answer. Before theorizing upon the subject it would be well if the proportional amounts received by each were definitely known. When these amounts are discovered they may be compared, and whether or not the present relations of wages and profits are just may, perhaps, be determined. The statistics of wages have been quite fully gathered and published in this and other States and in foreign countries. James McClellan in his testimony says, When Clark first came to me he seemed to be quite satisfied that I should pay the money to Furnald," and while the negotiations were going on for the return of the money by James McClellan to N. Furnald's house and asking for the money he 285 ratified in part the action of N. B. Fur-

PARIS. Sept. 15.-A decided feeling of uneasiness has been caused in diplomatic and financial circles here by the receipt of an alarming dispatch announcing that Sigiri, on the west coast of the island of Mitylene, an island belonging to Turkey, near the coast of Asia Minor, and within easy steaming distance of the Dardanelles, has been occupied by a detachment of British troops or marines, landed there from a British ironclad. CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept 15.—A detachment of blue jackets and marines from a British ironclad, accompanied by a battery of light field pieces and several Gattling guns, was landed Sunday morning at Si-gri, on the Island of Mitylene, formally cocupying that place in the name of the Queen of England. There is a good harbor at Sigri, and it is supposed that the British naval officers at Mitylene intend to fortify the island and make it a coaling station and rendezvous for the British Mediterranean fleet. Sigri is on the east coast of Mitylene, and is about sixty miles from the mouth of the Dardanelles. It is stated that the French and Russian ambassadors here have received telegrams from their respective consuls in Mitylene announcing the occupation of Sigri and stating that guns have been landed and that the islet has been surrounded with Probably more trouble will be experienced with the Erie county contingent than any other. The quarrel between Sheehan, who is likely to get the nomin tion for lieutenant governor, and Mr Scheu, is a bitter one. Some of the contesting delegates from that county, it is said, seriously thought of calling out the Cleveland Democracy from the convention and holding another, thus bringing the forces of Hill and Cleveland face to face. This, of course, is improbable, but is given to show the depth of the factional feeling.

After a long and hot discussion, the state committee, by a vote of 24 to 8, decided not to admit a representation from the County Democracy in the convention.

John Carrara's Trial for Nearly Killing The Allen Has Ended. NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The Allen came to court yesterday in a vest of white and orange check. The trial of John Carrara for nearly killing him with an ice pick went on with more testimony from Policeman Kelly, who arrested Carrara. Philip Goodness, the night bartender in Franchi's dive, testified regarding the fight, and

He testified that he is an upholsterer. When he sought to join the poker game at Franchi's, Allen said: "You can't play here." Carrara asked: "Why not?" "Because," replied Allen, "you are a cheat." Carrara answered: "I can't be a bigger cheat than a man who will hide four aces

He left the "office" and stood around the saloon for some time. He then returned to the "office." As he entered Allen lit his cigar, got up from the table advanced toward him, struck him in the face and tried to poke the lighted end of the cigar into his eyes. Carrara warded off hand to his hip pocket. Thereupon C rara sprug upon Allen, and they struggl until they got behind the bar. There h saw Allen catch up the ice pick and heard Allen cry out: "Come on, Eddie, I've got the pick. Come on, and we will do him." Blows from bottles and dishes were rained upon Carrara's head, and blood poured into his eyes from his wounds almost blinding him. He tried to wrench the pick out of Allen's hand, but he was so crazed with pain and blinded by blood that he did not know whether or not he

BURGLARS AND THEIR BOOTY Are Captured by Lawrence Officers and

Taken to Haverhill. HAVERHILL, Mass., Sept. 15 .- The Ha verhill police are considerably disturbed over the last robbery in this neighborhood that of the house of John Howard in Brad ford Sunday night. For some reason they were not notified of the theft, and their first knowledge of it was when District Officer Batchelder and Inspector Libbey of Lawrence arrived here yesterday, with the prisoners and their booty.

The property stolen included a large quantity of silverware and two coats, and it was all recovered. Frederick Chapleau and Frank Sweeney, the two prisoners are thought to have records. Chapleau has been in this city for several weeks. He is known to have served time in Canada, and is thought to have been engaged in some of the recent local robberies. Entrance was obtained to Mr. Howard's house by a key found under a doormat.

ARMY HARD-TACK

Lieut. Bradshaw.

Read at the Recent Reunion of the Old 39th.

Survivors of Co. D of This City and Others Will Find It Interesting,

In the old 39th Regiment which held its 25th anniversary at Lynnfield last week, was Co. D, composed entirely of Quincy men. Many of these attended the reunion and the following, which Lieut. E. Bradshaw of Newton, the author, styles "A Vacation Idyl" amused them greatly Comrade Bradshaw enlisted from Dorches ter in Co. H and has told his experience which the Quincy boys shared, in a decidedly original style.

A Vacation Idyl.

Some thirty years ago, leading a sedentary life, and gradually sinking into a semibituminated condition, my medical adviser, alarmed at the symptoms, ordered trave and change of scenery. Learning that Virginia possessed more travel and change scenery to the square foot than any ther spot on the globe, I decided on visiting that state. Being of a timid nature, and fond of company, I joined myself to about a thousand other invalids The old flinty hard-tack, the iron bound similarly afflicted, and seeking the same remedy. Forming ourselves into a methodical organization, we divided up into groups of one hundred, using the first eleven letters of the alphabet, omitting the letter J, to indicate each group. As a corps of menials seemed necessary to care for our physical wants, each group hired for that purpose six servants, namely: a captain, two lieutenants, a cook, and drummer and bugler to rouse them in the morning. To keep these in order we placed over them a olonel, lieutenant colonel and a major, as head servants or butlers; these added to themselves an adjutant to run of errands, a chaplain, and a doctor and pill driver. To ensure a faithful discharge of duty. twelve supervisors from each company. alled sergeants and corn ointed, and set over all.

Virginia being at this time in a tumultuous state, and the United States Government hearing of our organization, plan of travel, and objective points, invited us, through its Chief Magistrate, to walk over Virginia as Peace Officers, punching the eads of the belligerent and arguing with

We Accepted the Invitation.

When Abraham Lincoln secured our services he loaded us with benefit. First. he massed our groups at Lynnfield, and gave us there canvas houses to protect us from the dew, sweet straw to nestle in, a pretty blue uniform, a belt to keep us from bursting, an iron toothpick, a tube of iron with a wooden handle, a little black bureau to hold collars, cuffs, and bric-a-brac, a black cotton pantry for provisions and plates, and a flat round tin vessel for whiskey. Uncle Abe also gave our servant (the shouldered strapped ones) toasting forks to stick pigs with, and red sashes to gird their loins when running, racing then down. Rendered proud and arrogant by their good clothes and shoulder straps, our servants rose on us and captured the organization, styling themselves on superior officers, and the organization the 39th Regiment of Massachusetts Volun teers, and, to give-their usurpation a flavo of legality, procured from Governo Andrew commissions, indicating officially there rank and authority. They, on the whole, exercised their powers with great moderation and kindness, and, though we suffered them to think to the last that they were our superiors, yet in reality they still continued our servants, caring for ou food, clothing, and morals, and furnishing us clean, airy lodgings, with adequate fire escapes, so that in fact we had nothing or our minds worth mentioning, and all we had to do was to travel and fight, in short, to take our pleasure. They also taught us many pretty and amusing tricks. They taught us to stand up in straight rows, to be show at; to ab stain from whiskey (with quinine in it); to use the pickaxe and spade with the least expenditure of muscular energy, and in the and, and night marches, to say our prayrs without stopping over.

As soon as we could march withou calping each others heels we left Lynnfield for active service, and mighty active ervice on the start it proved, our first engagement being a foot race against time through Boston.

We left Lynnfield with cooked rations,

The Excursion.

Travelling the next three years through Virginia and its environments, we were often obstructed by mud, and other earthen mpediments, and the scenery was much lisfigured and often obliterated by sulphurus clouds of smoke, hence the travelling or health and pleasure was, on the whole, a failure. Speaking for myself, individually, the climate didn't agree with me worth a cent. This I attribute largely to he frequent horizontal metalic showers with which that section was infested, and against which no common cotton umbrella ellets of lead and ragged junks of cast iron hat I must have imbibed about fifty-five rought it home, for on my return I weighed 190 pounds, to 135 at the start from Lynnfield. Comrades, I am glad that this reunion s graced and honored by the presence of vomen. It is eminently fitting that they levotion. But, comrades, although we New York. nonor, admire and love the ladies, yet they ere not perfect They come to us, it is rue, in angelic guise, but they are adorned with the ears of the mule (figuratively peaking). The supple hind foot of the nule may be wanting, but the ears are here just the same, and we must be very careful what we say in their presence. Let me illustrate— Col. Porter, in a speech at Somerville ome years ago, accorded our regiment nineteen battles. Until then my battles nad been twenty-three, and so I told my friends. My wife, being present at that eunion, noticed the discrepancy in the wo statements, and Col. Porter's charicter as a truthful historian suffered, in er opinion, from that date. So, comades, let me wind up with this sentiment:

The ladies, the ladies, God bless 'em, They soothe all our sorrows and fears, But, comrades, when counting our battles Remember they've mighty long ears.

Comrades, twenty-nine years ago we ood here in the pride and flush of youth, n answer to our country's call. We need no professional orations to blazon our deeds in flowing periods of rhetoric; we wish not to be cried over for our heroism and sacrifices; we fought and suffered because it was our country, "our own, our native land." Had we begun our lives at Lynnfield, in 1862, and ended them at Readville three years after, performing F what we had performed, we could have closed our eyes on a well spent life, and those who lived after us, enjoying the fruits of our toils, would say of each and every one of us, "he lived a long and useful life." This is a proud memory-let us cherish it as a rich heritage.

What are the real facts? The increase in the number of children of school age-five to fifteen—is but 18.3 per cent., while the increase in enrollment of children of those ages is 16 per cent. The slight difference is accounted for on the ground that the private kindergartens claim many of the children of five years, and the sentiment is decidedly against sending children to school so early. The test years are now from eight to fourteen, and the statistics show that the increase of enrollment between these years is 27 per cent., which is higher than the gain in population. The fact is incontestable, that in the actual school years the increased enrollment in the public schools is ahead of the increase of population; and the only thing which the census figures show is that children do not go to school so early, which is a matter for propublic rejoicing. The interest and confidence in the public schools was never so great as at present, as these facts prove.—

BAY STATE REPUBS

Begin Their Deliberations at Tremont Temple.

THE RESULT IS UNCERTAIN.

Henry Cabot Lodge Makes the Opening Address, Reviewing What Has Been Done by Republicans and What They Intend to Do in the Future-Strong

Boston, Sept. 16.—The Republican state convention opened at Tremont Temple this morning at 11 o'clock sharp. It was called to order by Chairman Burdett of the state committee. He was elected temporary chairman and Henry Cabot Lodge permanent chairman.

Delegates were seated on the floor and in the first balcony, and the upper gallery was opened to the holders of visitors' tick

It is impossible to tell at this nour (1 p. m.) who will get the nomination.

Chairman Lodge's Address. Whenever in Massachusetts any man or any measure is denounced in certain quarters as partisan you may be sure that that man or the measure is Republican. Whenever any man or any measure is praised by the same voices as non-partisan, you may be equally sure that the man is a Democrat and the measure in the interest of the Democratic party. Nothing the man is a Democrat and the measure in the interest of the Democratic party. Nothing indeed is more absurd than the cant which undertakes to make partisan a term of reproach. Partisans are those who believe strongly. The indifference and the critical the trimmers and the people who see the other side more strongly than their own, no doubt have sometimes an important place in the world, but they do not make the world move. History has been made and mankind led in its onward march by partisans. The creeds of humanity have been preached, the great reforms have been carried, the revolutions and battles of the world have been fought by partisans.

Partisanship may be good or bad, enlightened or unintelligent, but its quality is fixed not by itself, but by the character of the cause in which it is engaged. You cannot overcome evil or promote good by abolishing partisanship. Good can win the victory over evil in this world only by having stanch partisans to fight its battles. We meet here today as members of the Republican party, partisans of its cause and all that cause represents. We do not assert that our party is infallible. We know that like most things of human origin, and we are aware that perfection is only to be found at this precise epoch among those pre-cious few, who for the moment are playing the part of fine veneering on the common wood of the Democratic party. Yet, after all allow-ance is made, we will believe that in Republi-can measures and Republican victory lies the best hore for the progress of the veryle of the best hope for the progress of the people of the United States, so far as that progress is af-fected by wise government and sound admin-istration istration.

It is Liable to Error

When we speak of our party, we mean a great deal more than the mere political organization. Read the history of the United States since 1856 and you read the history and find the traditions of the Republican party. There is no need to dwell upon them. The quality of its membership is the same today as when it rallied to the support of Abraham Lincoln. It comprises the great body of those whom Lincoln called our plain people, the hard-working, enterprising, intelligent masses among the people of the United States. They are the men and women who believe in freedom and honesty, in law, order and progress.

Grievous Peril to the Currency and to our business welfare. The Republican party cannot afford to win any victories by concessions to the friends of unsound and dis-honest finance. Better defeat a thousand times than any yielding on this principle which touches directly the earnings and the incomes of the great mass of the American people. It times of unsettled values the speculator and the capitalist can always make money, but those times bring disaster and distress to the great body of the people, and free silver coinage under present conditions means the coming of such times with all their attendant misfortunes. Let the Republican party stand as it has always stood, for honest money. Every man who believes in honest money and who is opposed to an inflated currency must vote with the Republican party.

The Tariff.

rency must vote with the Republican party.

The Tariff.

We kept our pledges about the tariff. We promised a reduction of the annual surplus, something very different from the accumulated surplus, and we have kept that promise. We have reduced the surplus revenue by the removal of duties to the amount of nearly $60,000,000 yearly. We have taken these duties chiefly from sugar, and today that article which enters into the consumption of every household is more than 2 cents a pound cheaper than it was before the tariff of 1890. We are obliged to import sugar, for we cannot raise more than a fraction of what we consume. The sugar duties were not protected, and their removal as a tax was the greatest and most general benefit that could have been devised. Do the 10 mocrats propose when they wipe out the protective duties to replace them by restoring the sugar tax? As to the tariff at large, we promised to revise it, to readjust and equalize duties, and to stop frauds upon the revenue. These things we have done.

The measures we passed must be judged by results as a general policy and not by details. In articles not produced in this country, the tariff of 1890 has given the people the largest free list they have ever had and more imports in value come into the country free today than ever before. The law sought to give sufficient protection to growing industries and to develop new ones. It is too soon even now to state the full results of the new tariff, but these results are beginning to appear. Large numbers of new industries are springing into existence. Even under the clause most bitterly attacked, great tin mines are being opened, tin plate is being made by improved methods and the Welsh monopoly, which fixed the price for the United States in the presence of American competition.can regulate the price no longer. The high-price panic so skilfully wrought at the last election is seen now to have been the creation of the false prophet and will recoil upon those who devised it.

If defects exists in the Presence of The Tariff.

Can and Will Be Remedied

Can and Will Be Remedied by the friends of the protective principle, but the purpose of the Democratic party is not to modify an existing law, but to tear down an entire fabric of policy. As we stand for protection to the ballot-box and protection to the home.so,as a matter of principle, without reference to percentages or schedules, we stand for the protection of American labor, American industay and American markets.

With protection, we have united as part of the system, reciprocity, for we are enabled by protection to offer substantial values for corresponding commercial adventures to other rotection to offer substantial values for cor-esponding commercial adventures to other ountries. In this way we have new markets o American trade and have alarmed our great ival, England, by our rapid progress in these irections. We have made already two suc-essful treaties with Brazil and Spain, and thers still will follow the skillful guidance of ftr. Blaine.

others still will follow the skillful guidance of Mr. Blaine.

We promised to extend commerce, and with protection and reciprocity we coupled the bill offering mail subsidies to American steamships. Five ships of 5000 tons each are already building under this act for the South American trade. They mean American labor in their construction and American profits in their earnings. They also are required by law to be built as auxiliaries for our navy. In case of war, each one of those five ships and all others built on the same conditions becomes part of the American navy when the first hostile gun is fired. In this legislation we have kept our promise to develop American commerce, and we are adding a new class of fast ships to our means of defense.

So much for the legislative work of the Fifty-first congress.

The "Billion-Dollar Congress."

The "Billion-Dollar Congress."

One word as to a charge that has been made against us. Every Democratic newspaper and every Democratic orator has been declaiming against the billion-dollar congress. One would imagine that when the Democrats had control of congress they paid all the expenses of government out of their own pockets. But in reality if is only a question of increase, and the issue is one which I welcome. I believe not only that the increased expenditures were wise, but that the Democratic party ought to be held responsible for its failure in many cases to make these increases before. In round numbers, the Fiftieth congress, where the Democrats had control of the house, appropriated $818,000,000, while the Republican congress, the Fifty-first, appropriated $938,000,000, while the Republican congress, the Fifty-first, appropriated $988,000,000, while the Republican congress, and the results of the Republican Party in Administration.

We pledged ouselves to the extension of civil service reform. How have those pledges been kept? Congress increased the clerical force so as to add to the efficiency of the commission. That increase should have been larger, but congress did its part and defeated several schemes to break down the law and impair its efficiency. But this is a matter which lies chiefly with the administration. Under the last administration the commission was an inefficient one and the law weakened in its hands. It devolved upon President Harrison to reorganize the commission. In the Republican vacancy he put Theodore Roosevelt, who has enforced the law, defended it and fought its battles as has never been done before. With him, in the Democratic vacancy, the president associated Governor Thompson of South Carolina, a most admirable selection. President Harrison put in force the extension of the reformed system to the railway mail service, covering over 6000 clerks. Still more recently he has put some 700 employes of the Indian bureau under the civil service commission, rendering thereby the greatest possible service to a department where incalculable injury has been done by political appointments. He has also amended the rules so as to bring promotions under the law.

But the greatest advance has been made by the secretary of the navy who, with the support of the president, has devised a system which takes the navy yards of the country out of politics and converts them from political bureaus into great and productive shops where hundreds of working men may find lucrative employment, and where the government may benefit by their labors. I hope that the next congress will put into law that which today is only an order of the department and which has been demanded by the legislature of Massachusetts. No such an advance in the extension and enforcement of the civil service law has been made by any previous administration. I invite comparison and discussion on this point, and if the men who are devoted to their cause vote in its interest at election, they will sustain the Republican administration.

Another matter that lies within the province of the administration is that of Another matter that lies within the province of the administration is that of

I will not detain you with a contrast between our foreign affairs as administered by Mr. Bayard and as administered by Mr. Blaine, when he took the department, found our relations with Germany embrolled and unpleasant complications existing with England. The Samoan treaty, which came within six months after our return to power, is one of the triumphs of American diplomacy England. The Samoan treaty, which came within six months after our return to power, is one of the triumphs of American diplomacy which no one can dispute. Three months ago, after long negotiations, the Behring seatroubles were left to arbitration, a close seatrouble with the seals has been stopped. We had recently a difficulty with Italy. Is there any intelligent man who would deny that in that difficulty Mr. Blaine manifested the firmness and dignity which the people demanded and kept the United States in the position which they ought always to occupy?

Time fails me to go into details of every department, but the general conduct of the public business has been clean and honest, and we challenge comparison in any field with the preceding administration.

One of the great issues of the future is the restriction of immigration, and it is to the Republican party that the people must look for decisive action. This is a great and growing evil. We welcome honest immigrants, but the time has come to exclude the vicious and the ignorant. To that work the Republican party is ready to address itself.

State Issues.

State Issues. This election is not concerned with national questions alone. The immediate object before us is the control of the state of Massachusetts, us is the control of the state of Massachusetts, and the situation is one which demands careful consideration. Let us see of what advantage Democratic success has been during the past year. Two Democratic state officers were elected, the auditor and the governor. If I am not mistaken, Mr. Trefry is the first Democratic auditor Massachusetts has had for thirty-five years. This new auditor is an honest and capable man. If errors or wrongdoing existed, he would have told us of them. They are not there. What a tribute this is to honest administration. After one year of Democratic rule in Rhode Island, their successors found many mistakes in the books and accounts to rectify. In the past six years, there have been nine defaulting state treasurers in southern states controlled by the Democratic party.

Democratic party.

The other state officer elected by the Democrats was the governor. Governor Russell is a gentleman of education and character, a respected citizen and an agreeable speaker, possessing the same remarkable faculty as his great exemplar, ex-President Cleveland, of saving "an undisputed thing in such a solemn war"

Mr. Lodge made quite a lengthy criticism of some of Governor Russell's appointments, and continued: They (Democrats) try to say that we have no state issues, and that a vote for governor is purely personal. This is false, for we have two questions of the gravest importance with which the state government is concerned. The first is

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.-A cablegram was received at the navy department from Admiral Brown, dated Valparaiso, Sept. Admiral Brown, dated varparaiso, Sept. 14, saying that the Baltimore, which took the refugees north to Peru, returned that day to Valparaiso, and that he would sail for Callao, Peru, immediately, on his flagship, the San Francisco.

Admiral Brown did what all other for eign admirals would have done under similar circumstances. In the name of humanity he consented to afford Balmaceda the shelter of his ship and the protection of the Stars and Stripes. How to effect the ex-president's escape from the shore was the next question. Finally an ingentious plan was decided upon. This was to have Balmaceda disguise himself as a drunken United States sailor.

Nightfalli favored his disguise, and he had studied his part so well that he feigned a drunken tar to perfection. At the water front he found a boat awaiting him, which soon carried him to the cruiser. He went at once to one of the cabins aft and did not again show himself above deck. The officers of the San Francisco were questioned about the matter, but resolutely n fused to discuss it. The San Francisco left Valparaiso Monday night for Thence it will sail for California. probable that Balmaceda will land a Callao. Admiral Brown's action will undoubtedly increase the bitter feeling in Valparaiso toward the United States government.

ALLEN OF LOWELL.

The Republican Nominee for Governor.

John W. Kimball of Fitchburg for Auditor.

An Enthusiastic Convention—The Platform Adopted.

Boston, Sept. 17.—The Bay State Republicans have reminated this ticket:

For governor-Charles H. Allen of Low-

For lieutenant governor-William H. Haile of Springfield. For Secretary of the commonwealth-William H. Olin of Boston. For treasurer and receiver general-

George A. Marden of Lowell. For auditor-John W. Kimball of Fitc!

For attorney general-Albert E. Pills-With the exception of Allen and Kimball the above were all renominations.

The Ballots. FOR GCVERNOR. FOR AUDITOR

An Enthusiastic Gathering. The Republican state convention held in Tremont Temple yesterday was one of the most earnest and enthusiastic delegate Special meeti assemblies that has been seen in Massachusetts since the days of the war. In many respects it was similar to the Music hall convention, at which George D. Robinson was nominated for governor, eight years ago. It differed from that in having to make a choice between two candidates for the first place on the ticket, instead of finding the nomination generally conceded to one man when it met. The moment the choice had been made, that difference was time. forgotten.

Business was the watchword. With this business there was enthusiasm and plenty of it. Beginning very vigorously when Chairman Lodge grasped the gavel, it continued until he declared the convention adjourned. It broke out when the names of candidates for nomination were presented and when the outcome of the balloting was declared. It resulted in cheers for New Bedford when Mr. Knowlton suggested making Mr. Allen's nomination unanimous, and in tremenduous cheering when the nominee entered the

The most significant thing, after the nomination had been unanimous, was the impression which Mr. Allen gave to the Republicans in addressing them. He took with them. It was not his words or his The Platform.

The Platform.

1. The Republicans of Massachusetts, in convention assembled most cordially congratulate President Harrison on the vigor, wisdom and purity of his administration, which has won the esteem and confidence of our own people and the good will and respect of the other nations of the world. The great qualities of courage, firmness and judgment which have marked his course are implicitly relied upon by the country for deliverance from the impending perils of crude and reckless projects of legislation.

3. It is a cardinal principal of the Republican party that full and adequate protection should be given to every citizen in every state and territory of the Union in the enjoyment of his civil and political rights; and it is essential to the safety of our government that the right of ballot and the purity of elections should be maintained sacred and inviolate.

Section 4 advocates a sound financial basis, every dollar issued by the govern-

Section 6 condemns the charge of extravagance in pensions, friendly feeling toward the Democratic but that they simply fulfilled pledges party of our colored fellow citizens in this made to the loyal soldiers of the country, state, and they are welcomed to our ranks, tion laws and the absolute necessity for a discrimination on account of race or color

8. Conceding all latitude of individual opinion and choice in the training of youth, we regard our present system of public education as the strength and glory of Massachusetts, as the institution of all others which ensures the safety of all our institutions, and promotes, by the association and common experience of the children of Massachusetts, the formation of patriotic character and the unification of our people in patriotic sentiment and purpose.

9. The Republican party of Massachusetts has repeatedly declared itself in favor of pronounced and progressive temperance legislation, and its policy as outlined in the past should in the future be vigorously in aintained and preserved; we therefore favor the most efficient legislation for the restriction, prevention and suppression of the evils arising from the sale of intoxicating liquors, and we demand that all laws for the promotion of this desirable result be faithfully, diligently and vigorously enforced.

10. The standard of living and education among the working people is the true test of the prosperity of a country; their welfare is the welfare of the state, and all just and reasonable legislation calculated to maintain and advance the present high standard of Massachusetts in this regard, and to insure to all the full enjoyment of the fruits of their labor, should receive our earnest approbation and support.

Democrats to Victory. SARATOGA, Sept. 17.-When the state Democratic convention was called to order, the committee on resolutions presented the following platform, which was unanimously adopted:

The Den.ocratic party of the state of New York, in convention assembled, renews the pledges of its fidelity to Democratic faith and, as regards national issues, reaffirms the doctrine of the national platform of 1884 and 1888, indorsed by the popular votes in those years, and so overwhelmingly ratified by the popular verdict in the congressional elections of 1890.

indorsed by the popular votes in those years, and so overwhelmingly ratified by the popular verdict in the congressional elections of 1890.

We now, as then, steadfastly adhere to principles of sound finance. We are against the coinage of any dollar, which is not the intrinsic value of every other dollar of the United States. We therefore denounce the new silver law, under which one-tenth of our gold stock has been exported and all our silver output is dammed up at home, as a false pretense, but artful hindrance of return to free bimetallic coinage and as tending only to produce a change from one kind of monometallism to another. We therefore unite with the friends of honest money everywhere in stigmatizing the Sherman progressive silver basis law as no solution of the gold and silver question, and as a fit appendix to the subsidy and bounty swindle; the McKinley worse-than-war tariff; the Blaine reciprocity humbug; the squandered surplus; the advancing deficit; the defective census; the falsified representation and the revolutionary procedures of the billion congress—all justly condemned by the people's great uprising last November, a verdict which, renewed next year, will empower Democratic statesmen to guide the people's councils and to execute the people's will.

The platform goes on to congratulate the state upon the beneficant results.

He was a keen, thoroughly sophisticated, self poised man of the world—a narrow world, maybe, but the world all the same. She did not like his restless eye, his startled glances as of a hunted man, and she recoiled from his big pistols, his gun and his bowie knife. He looked to her like a bad man, who could nearly hide his badness under a veneering of suave politeness. His voice had false notes. And yet she could see how easily he might have been a good and perhaps even a great man. His large head, his strong, dark face, his air of imperiousness, his firmly rounded jaws, were the exponents of a high order of ability.

"How well such a dress as that would become you!" he said to Rosalie, pointing out a blue silk robe ruffled and flounced in the then prevailing style; "your complexion and your pale, bright hair would

The census bulletin No. 100 of social statistics of cities is valuable and instrucive. There were in 1890, says the report, 345 cities and towns of 10,000 inhabitants and upwards. It is reasonable to estimate that there are about 250 larger than Quincy. The 345 are distributed as

The demonstration of last evening was witnessed by fully 75,-000 people, and not only was every boat on the river elaborately illuminated and filled with people, but the two bridges over the side was occupied for the accommodation point of observation was occupied. The procession of fantastically arranged craft, the voices of the occupants as they were wafted across the water, the brilliant illuminations of the private residences on either shore of the river, and A Pair of Ladies' Kid Slippers, the multitude of cheering people as the head of the line passed the judges' boat and the observation train, together with the added picturesque effect, as the moon shed its refulgent rays over the whole,

Early in the evening the river banks and the river surface began to be quickly dotted with illuminations and the distribution of the control ted with illuminations, large and small, and soon after, when the sight-seer had gained a good point of observation, the en-tire river seemed ablaze with light and

1. "Verily, verily, I say unto you." These great and most emphatic words occur so often (some twenty-five times in this gospel) that the careless reader is apt to slight them instead of attaching to them the importance which they deserve "Verily" is "Amen," and carries us back to Isa. lxv, 16, where we read of of Truth" or "the God Amen" (R. V., margin). "I say unto you" is equal to the

As to calling His own sheep by name, see Ex. xxxiii, 12, 17 and Isa. xliii, 1, and remember how He spoke to Simon and Nathaniel and Laza rus and Mary, calling each by name (John i, 42, 47; xi, 48; xx, 16) 4. "And when He putteth forth His own sheep, He goeth before them, and the sheep follow Him, for they know His voice.1 He does not drive them out, but He lead. th them out. He does not ask His sheep o go where He has not gone Himself, nor o do what He Himself has not done 5. "And a stranger will they not follow. out will flee from him; for they know not the voice of strangers." The stranger is the thief and robber of verse 1, the shepherds that feed themselves of Ezek. xxxiv, 2, or the idol shepherds of Zach. xi, 17.

6. "This parable spake Jesus unto them. but they understood not what things they were which He spake unto them. Even the disciples understood not f His sayings (John xii, 16; Luke xviii, 34; dark ix, 32), so that He had to say to them. Are ye also yet without unders o not ye yet understand?" (Math. xv. 17). The secret of understanding is hearing and believing (Math. xv, 10; Heb xi, 3) without reasoning or questioning.
7. "Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door

He is the door by which the sheep enter the fold, for no one can come to the Father but by Him, and there is none other name given under Heaven among men whereby ve must be saved (John xiv, 6; Acts iv, 12 8. "All that ever came before me an thieves and robbers, but the sheep did not

9. "I am the door; by me if any man enter in he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture.' He is not only the entrance to Life and to the Kingdom, but He is the only en trance, and He is an entrance wide open nviting and entreating all to enter in Any one, whosoever will, may enter with the assurance of being made welcome (John vi, 37; Rev. xxii, 17). 10. "The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy; I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly. The thief or stranger or false prophet is well described in Ezek. xxxiv, and elsewhere in the prophets. His aim is always selfish; he speaks to please the king an the people, that he may have their favo and receive their wealth, or he oppresses that he may enrich himself. 11. "I am the good shepherd. Hireling and wolf are all one with thic and robber-that is, they are all on the sid of the enemy, and against the sheep and the Good Shepherd. "He that is not with me is against me, and he that gathereth no with me scattereth abroad" (Math. xii, 30)

13. "The hireling fleeth, because he is an ireling, and careth not for the sheep He cares only for his hire, as if a minister should think more of his salary than of the souls committed to his care 14. "I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep and am known of mine. This is the essential theme of the whole discourse. At another time He said, "No man knoweth the Son but the Father; neither knoweth any man the Father save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son Him" (Math. xi, 27). He dwells the oneness of the Father a and also upon the oneness with the Father and Himse grasped this great truth would be more ready to lay d for the brethren, as we are taug iii, 16. Much stress is laid on the fact that Louis XIV. George Washington, and even preachers of the gospel have, in times past, believed in and profited by lotteries. EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS

Expected to Be Made at the Meeting on the Cabinet Today.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 .- It is generally believed that at the cabinet meeting this afternoon some at least of the vacant circuit judgeships will be filled. There seems no reason to doubt that Attorney General Miller will be appointed to the circuit that includes Indiana. It is equally probable that the Indiana place in the cabinet thus vacated will be taken by General Lew Wallace as secretary of war, | in place of Mr. Proctor. The only other of the important pending appointments which is confidently spoken of as settled is the designation of ex-Congressman Clements of Georgia to the Democratic vacancy on the interstate commerce commission in the place of General Bragg of Alabama. Mr. Clements, when in congress, served on the committee on backing of many of his fellow members, irrespective of party. He was also chairman of the committee on reform in the civil service

CITY ENJOINED

by P. J. Cunniff.

The supreme judicial court has extended ts powerful arm and stayed an act that the city of Quincy thought it had a perfect right to do. A temporary injunction was ssued Friday by Mr. Justice Morton, upon the petition of Mr. P. J. Cunniff, who claimed that the city, in widening one of its streets, was about to cause damage to Michael Burns, George Cahill.

At the same time that the temporary injunction was issued, Mr. Justice Morton ssued a notice to the city authorities ordering them to appear in court on Tuesday morning next, and show cause why the inunction should not be made permanent. P. J. Cahill, P. T. The authorities claimed that Mr. Cunniff's house projected two feet over his line. Last year the fence in front of the house was torn down to make room for the road, and, as the work pro- J. It is a very peculiar case. Mr. Cunniff Shea, W. F. Powers, Daniel C. Little. owns only half of the estate and this is he front half, a line parallel with the street divides the house and land. Should Mr. Cunniff move his house back it will be John Shaw Elected Permanent President onto the other man's land. The city's claim is believed to be good. The street is not being laid out wider, but is being in the formation of a Republican club met built wider to the lines laid out many years last evening in the headquarters over the ago. PRICE AND EMERY WIN.

They Had a Close Call in the Preliminarie with Swift and Badger.

The matches in doubles postponed from Labor day have been played this week upon A. W. Sprague's dirt court. The playing was very good indeed, considering the fact that but two or three of the teams had ever played together before. The preliminary match between Swift-Badger and Price Emery, won by the latter, was very close and won chiefly by Swift's unfortunate drives into the net. COMPLAINT FROM ENGLAND

Violated the Behring Sea Agreement. A Minnesota Man to Receive the New Circuit Judgeship.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The president's first cabinet meeting since his return from "the summer capital" at Cape May Point was marked by uncomfortable heat of temperature and an unusual crop of embarrassing perplexities. Chief among these was a somewhat acrid protest from Lerd Salisbury's government, practically charging upon the United States a violation of the agreement entered into at the commencement of the present sealing season in Behring sea, in which her Britannic majesty's government agreed to cooperate with the revenue cutters of the United States in preventing the destruction of seals on the seas for a specific time, and the United States agreed to restrict the North American Commercial company, to whom the United States leases the sole right of slaughtering seals on their breeding islands, to the slaughter of 7500 seals during the current season-just enough, as was explained, to supply the natives with food for the winter.

The granting of this stipulation was opposed by the British government and was acceded to only with an earnest protest. It is now claimed by the British ministry that it has been violated by the company; that they have slaughtered more seals than the agreement allowed. This accusation, if sustained, would place the United States in A Somewhat Embarrassing Position. The complaint of the British government was received by the state department some days ago. Thereupon a request was sent over to the treasury department to be furnished with such information as might have been received from the treasury department agents. The old difficulty of divided jurisdiction in Behring sea between the state and treasury departments came into the play. The acting secretary of the treasury sent over to the depart-ment a report of Special Agent Williams in regard to the destructive character of as to the condition of affairs on Pribiloff islands. This being forwarded was found, born, a Minnesota Man. WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—It is definitely nderstood that the president will confer one of the new circuit judgeships upon Minnesota. Judge Sanborn, son of Gen eral John B. Sanborn of that state, is said to be the selected official. Missouri strongly expected to obtain the nomination, but when the president made up the court of private land claims a few months ago, he said that those appointments would have a bearing on the circuit judgeships. This is to say, such states as received recognition in the make-up of the land claims court would be left out of consideration when the circuit judges were selected. There is good reason for saying that the president thinks the claims of Missouri were recognized in The Watertown (Mass) school board re- the appointment of Matthew G. Reynolds to be United States attorney for the land claims court. Kansas and Iowa received judgeships in the land claims court. This gives the circuit judgeship to the north and of the circuit and leaves Judge Sanborn in possession.

WATERTOWN, SOUTH DAKOTA.

THE MARVELLOUS RESULTS which have been accomplished in the rearing of cities and towns upon the fertile plains of South Dakota, seem, at times, to overreach the imagination of the most visionary mind. Those who are accustomed to the vim, the pluck, the shrewdness, and the far-reaching plans of the Westerner, are sometimes found meditating in wonder at the rapid development on every side of them, while men more accustomed to Eastern environments and ideas, and to less rapid progress, look in awe and amazement at the work of hardly a decade.

Ten years ago, where now stands the city of Waterrown, there was nothing to obstruct the vision from a great ocean of rolling prairie in one direction, from the winding and fertile Sioux Valley in another, or from the rivers and lakes on the west; there was not the sign of a tree in sight, save those which skirted the borders of Lake Kampeska, and one could count on the fingers of one hand the white men then here.

IN 1884,

Watertown consisted of a straggling little town of 50 or 60 buildings of which the following is a bird's eye view.

To-day a city of Brick, Stone, and Granite, with 6,000 Souls, eight lines of railway, miles and miles of graded streets and sidewalks, shade trees, numerous manufacturing plants, water works, street-ear lines, electric lights, five-story hotels, opera houses, churches, schools, inancial exchanges, jobbing and mercantile interests, parks and boulevards, neat, cosey, and comfortable homes; a city whose corporate limits extend over an area of four sq. miles, which is but poorly illustrated below.

THE NEW OKLAHOMA

A Proclamation Declaring It Open to Settlers.

STAMPEDE HAS BEGUN.

Frouble Likely to Occur Between Indian and Negro Settlers - Cherokee Strip Cowboys Have Already Succeeded in Starting a War.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The president yesterday issued a proclamation opening the eastern part of the Territory of Oklahoma to public settlement at noon on Tuesday, Sept. 22. The paper is a long document and recites the different treaties with the Indians of the Indian Territory who ceded their lands to the United States The proclamation sets forth that each settler on lands shall, before making a final proof and receiving a certificate of entry, pay to the United States, in addition to the fees, and within five years from the date of original entry, the sum of $1.50 per acre, one-half of which shall be paid within two years; but the rights of honorably discharged Union soldiers and sailors shall not be abridged excepting as to the sum to be paid, and all the lands in Okla homa, the proclamatian cites, are declared to be agricultural lands, and proof of their non-mineral character shall not be required as a condition precedent to final entry. Each entry shall be in square form as nearly as practicable. The proclamation then technically de

Outline of the Provisions Governing the Allotments. Washington, Sept. 19.-In conversation with an Associated Press reporter regarding the conditions governing the opening of the ceded Indian land in Oklahoma, Secretary Noble spoke substantially as follows:

'The conditions under which the procla nation of the president, opening the Indian purchases in Oklahoma territory on Sept. 22, while similar in some particulars to those existing when Oklahoma itself was opened, are yet very materially different in others. Each of the Indians of the tribes selling to the United States had the reserved right by contract to take an allotment, and this right has been exercised fully. The allotments have all been made and the same have been approved in the department of the interior, and to the Sac and Fox Indians the patents have been issued.

"The Sac and Fox took 548 allotments of 160 acres each. The Iowas took 109 of 30 acres each, the Pottawatomies 1378 of 160 acres each, and the Absentee Shawnees 568 of also a quarter section each. These selections were made under supervision of alloting agents of the government, and are scattered broadcast over all the lands purchased. The Indians are not on these allotments yet, nor is there any mark on the ground showing that that tract is alloted. The settler is therefore liable to get on such piece of land unless he has a guide, such as the list will be.

"So it is absolutely necessary the settler should know what part of clear sections and quarter sections are left outside the allotments that he may make no misake. If he ignorantly may settle on an Indian allotment he would lose his opportunity and be defeated. It has there fore been absolutely necessary to put the opening a few days ahead to get the lists ent to the territory and published there and distributed."

Reported in Connection with the New Land to Be Opened.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 19.-The long de layed news from Washington announcing the opening of the ceded Indian lands for next Tuesday was received here yesterday and caused intense excitement. Now will come a rush of home-seekers almost as great as that which followed the opening of Oklahoma territory, and many of the stirring scenes incident to that event will be repeated. Companies A and D of the Thirteenth infantry and a troop of the Fifth cavalry, are in the new territory driving out the boomers and assisting in maintaining order. The Oklahoma and Guthrie business houses will be sadly crippled by the great exodus from these two cities that is now taking place. Many of the merchants are closing their stores and oining in the general rush.

The receipt of the news from Washingon was the signal for the exodus te com ence. Thousands of people swarmed the treets. The news spread rapidly. The intelligence was the signal for the big baravans of the home-seekers to commence to move. Everybody is now making the best possible time in getting in the line to join the crowd that is already waiting for hext Tuesday. The new country is well watered and well timbered. It is very desirable for homes

Indians do not object seriously to the occupation of the lands by the whites, but they hate the negro. In the treaty with the Sac and Fox Indians the words "open to white settlement" occur. These words are apt to cause some trouble. The Indians say they will insist on the stipulation and will not permit negroes to take lands in their country.

COWBOYS VS. NEGROES.

A Serious Race War Has Broken Out Over Prospective Settlements.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 19.-A deputy theriff has just arrived from the line of the eastern Indian lands, bringing news of a race war in progress there, just on the line of the Iowa's reservation. The town of Langsdon was founded several months ago and is inhabited solely by negroes. There are several thousand of them there and more are arriving daily on the line of the new lands. The negroes contemplate settling in a body in the Cimmaron valley as soon as the lands are opened. A number of cowboys from the Cherokee Strip also have their eyes on the locality and say that any negro who attempts to settle there will be killed. Yesterday the cowboys visited Langslon, got into a row and attempted to shoot Eggleston, editor of The Herald. Last night they returned, all drunk, and fired a score of shots into a crowd of negroes on the streets. Several received slight wounds. The cowboys left swearing they would return and wipe out the town. The negroes have all armed themselves and if they do return many will likely be killed. A force of officers have left for the scene.

Jose Manuel Balmaceda was the dead man's full name. He came of an ancient family, rich, well known and of high standing in Chilian affairs. He was born 52 years ago. It was the intention of his parents that he should become a priest, and to that end he was carefully educated at the Seminario Concilias of Santiago. But the young man had other ideas for himself. His youth is described as turbulent and full of action, and as soon as his academic studies were completed he years old into the river, burl an 18-months plunged into politics.

There was at that time a political society in Santiago called the Club de la Reforms, composed of hot-headed young men who wanted to change or overthrow the constitution by which Chili had been governed since 1830. Balmaceda joined it. At school he had developed a natural talent for oratory, and being much the most eloquent member of the club, he soon became its foremost leader.

In Chili presidents are ineligible for reelection. As the last year of Balmaceda's term began a gradual change came over his demeanor. His old friends and counselors he treated with a growing coolness. New men who had no name in public matters received his favor. He retired from participation in public affairs, except through Sanfuerte's agency. It is hardly possible to doubt that Balmaceda had d termined, instead of retiring to private life like his predecessors had done when their terms had expired, to make himself mass ter of Chili by a coup d'etat which would have rivaled Cæsar's had it succeeded That it failed, though in its failure drenched Chili in blood, is now known to all the world.

"One of the best marks of approval set upon the course of Senator Cyrus Savage, during all his career in this city, is that his townsmen, almost to a man, of whatever political faith have implicit confidence in him as a man, a friend and a good citizen. His legislative record is a good one, he having served the city in the lower house during the years '74 and '75 and '86 and '87, and the district in the Senate in '90 and '91. Not a flaw can be be found in the performance of his duty, as understood by him. His war record of twenty-two months as captain of the 42d Massachusetts regiment (a portion of the time laid by in a rebel prison) is one of which he has a right to be proud and his subsequent work has in no wise dimmed the lustre of that record. The people of his adopted city know him, trust him, believe in him, and will strive to place him where they believe he belongs; the people of Bristol County have shown by the delegates already chosen that aside from the feeling of local pride in striving for the position they are not ashamed to make an effort to send such a man as Senator Savage to represent them in the council chamber."

This forenoon about ten o'clock an old barn and contents situated on Washington street, South Braintree, owned by Nehemiah T. Dyer, were completely consumed by fire. The alarm was given by the ringing of the bell on South Congregational church, and promptly responded to by the M. A. Perkins' Hose Company, the N. F. T. Hayden Hose Company and the Wampatuck Hook and Ladder Company, but from some misunderstanding occasioned by the foreman of the latter paying attention to a report and not waiting to take instruction from his engineer, the company returned when midway, not having gone to the scene of the fire at all. The others went however and although the barn in which the fire originated was completely destroyed, as we have Monday evening, Oct. 5. already said, the two hose companies mentioned did excellent work in saving the dwelling house and other buildings connecting the former with the barn. The barn contained a pig of about 200 pounds weight which was partially roasted alive and had to be killed, also a quantity of hay all destroyed. Loss five hundred dollars, insured for two hundred.

Councilman Jones believed it a mistake o widen to only forty feet, and moved that the whole matter be recommitted to the Committee on Streets that a hearing might be given on widening to forty-five feet. Washington street was from 40 to 100 feet, yet barely wide enough. It was suggested to put the street railway in the centre of Water street, yet there was hardly room with street forty-five feet. No street where there is a railway should be less than fortyfive feet. In the award of damages, the betterment to the estate had been taken guilty. into consideration. This Council should Inspectors, Luke J. Coyle, D., Daniel widen the street to forty-five feet and leave McCarthy, D., Francis A. Spear, R., Ed. it for future Councils to pave if they saw fit. BANK BILLS SPIRITED AWAY.

A London Concern Robbed of Money Which May Amount to $1,250,000. LONDON, Sept 22.—The banking world of this city has just been startled by the announcement that an important bank robbery has just taken place in the city. The police and bank officials are trying to keep the matter as quiet as possible so that the entire facts in the case are not obtain- | $4; two in family, $7. able at present. It is known, however, that the institution that has suffered is the London and Westminster bank (lim- tion in the DELSARTE MOVEited), an important establishment, having MENT over fifteen branch houses in this city. The money stolen consisted of a large parcel of bills remitted from the country The thief or thieves must have cleverly $ .50 watched for the proper opportunity to accomplish the robbery and to have gained access to an apartment near the main entrance to the bank. This apartment was easy of access from the street, and the parcel of bills is supposed to have been stolen while the bank officials were busily en-Single cepies 2 cents, delivered daily by gaged in another apartment, in going over the accounts of last week's settlement.

It is currently reported that the amount stolen is not less than $750,0000 and that it may amount to as much as $1,250,000. The bank officers, the city police authorities and the criminal investigation department of Scotland Yard are putting forth the utmost exertions in order to effect the capture of the thieves.

Notice of the robbery has been sent to police centers throughout the British isles and on the continent, and the sailing of every passenger vessel is being watched. Notice of the robbery has also been sent to all the banks upon which the bills were drawn, but the police theory is that no attempt will be made to change the bills in this country, but that the thieves will have recourse to the continent, where the presence of so many wealthy travelers from England and the United States make such transactions easier than here.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 22.-Attorney General Jones has just completed, for the purpose of mailing to the state superintendent of public instruction, an exhaustive opinion on the constitutionality of Bi ble reading in the public schools. The opinion was called out by a note of inquiry from the state superintendent. Attorney General Jones finds that the Bible cannot be read in the public schools without violating certain provisions of the state constitution, and says that from an examination of the provisions on the subject of religion found in the United States constitution and in the constitutions of several states, that the people of this country declare with unanimity against the union of religion with government, and that the first congress declared that congress should make no law respecting the establishment of religion or prohibiting a

Some Russian Merchants Find It Profitable for the Adulteration of Bread. St. Petersburg, Sept. 22.-An analysis of the bread sold in many places by unscrupulous merhants reveals the fact that absolutely poisonous mixtures are sold. Several merchants have been arrested at Morshsusk and will be summarily tried. Many specimens of such bread consist of 70 per cent. of earth and sand and 30 per per cent. of refuse farinaceous products. Among the many conjectures regarding the causes of the failure of the crops it is suggested that the drainage of hundreds of versts of the vast swamp of Pinak resulted in flooding the Dnieper in the spring and lowness of water late in the summer, thus causing dimunition in the rainfall in the eastern provinces. Almost all of the government officials have voluntarily contributed a portion of their salaries to the famine fund. The public talk of bringing bread from America and Egypt.

A Waste of Time. NASHVILLE, Sept 22.—The extra session of the Tennessee general assembly adjourned after a twenty days' sitting. Outside of the passage of the apportionment, by which the Democrats gain several adlitional seats in both houses, and the adoption of some local laws, the session has not been fruitful of important results. The convict lease system and the question of arranging for the building of a new penitentiary were left in statu quo owing to the stubbornness of both houses. The people generally look upon the work of the ession as a failure.

St. Louis, Sept. 22.-Yesterday was the first day of the twenty-second conclave of the sovereign grand lodge, I. O. O. F. #### JOHN MORLEY'S OUTLINE

Of the Issues Upon Which the Coming English Election Will Turn. LONDON, Sept. 22. - John Morley delivered

speech at Cambridge last evening. He aid that the next general election would be a straight fight between Liberals and Tories; there would be no dissident Liberal party. He disputed in detail the claims whereon the Conservatives would base their appeal to the country-namely, their foreign policy, constructive states-manship and pacification of Ireland. The whole cost and risk of England's indefinite and persistent occupation of Egypt should be recognized. The local government and free education bills were merely skeleton bills. The Irish land purchase bill was a nonument of destruction rather than of onstructive statesmanship. The extreme safeguards and restrictions which he predicted would accompany the Irish local overnment bill would only prolong and mbitter Irish controversies in parliament. Though he differed with the majority of the Newcastle congress on the eight-hour question he hailed the discussion with ope and satisfaction, having every confilence in the soundness of the ultimate judgment of workers seeking to improve their own welfare. He advocated that village councils manage all their local affairs before tackling social reforms. However, the Liberals must fulfil their home rule pledge. ACCIDENTS TO WORKMEN.

An International Congress Meets at Berne to Consider the Remedy. BERNE, Sept. 22.—The international congress called to discuss the causes of accidents to workmen; the employers' liability in such cases, and the best means to be taken to prevent such accidents, opened here yesterday. Among the delegates who have arrived are four Americans. The inister of foreign affairs welcomed the lelegates on behalf of the government of witzerland. During the couse of his address M. Droz said that he hoped that the deliberation of the congress would result in an improvement in the condition of the existence of working people throughout the world. M. Bodenheimer, an ex-member of the

Berne state council, read a paper on the German state insurance laws from 1883 to tandem record from 2:27 to 2:24 1-5. In the 1889. He said that a quarter of the population of Germany was insured against in firmity. Employers contributed £5,000,-000 annually. The fixing of indemnities originated much contention. In 1890, 14,-579 out of 50,175 decisions were appealed against in the arbitration courts. Mr. Bodenheimer declined to express an opinion whether the disadvantages of the system outweighed the advantages. The raid had been quite successful. The dis-tillery was demolished and a considerable amount of spirits seized. of Wheat and Rye. New York, Sept. 21.—An exhaustive study of the world's food supply, in the forthcoming number of The American Agriculturist, emphasizes facts of grave importance to both America and Europe. It declares that the half has not been told about the European shortage in breadstuffs, which not even a bountiful crop this year would have relieved. Continental powers, especially Russia, suppress the facts so far as possible. In many Russian provinces the scarcity of food became pronounced as far back as February last. In the Konstantinovka district many families have not cooked a meal since Easter, but subsist on bread, soaked rye, grain, etc., bestowed in charity. The prohibition of rye exports is followed by a ukase forbidding the shipment of bran and other cereal cattle foods. The astounding shortage in Russia's yield of rye, announced a month even greater than the most extravagant estimates, and effectually obliterates all possibility of Russia exporting any of her scant wheat crop. That eastern Germany is practically in the same plight admits of no doubt. The European reserves that have heretofore eked out insufficient harvests are everywhere exhausted. The parade made by Russia of the existence of such stories in the Baltic provinces is done for effect, to convey the impression that alarming stories are abundant. Such reserves are of small importance. Indeed, the danger of famine is destined to spare Europe the horrors of war for fully a twelve-month

Accepting the largest estimates of production both at home and abroad, and even assuming that the United States and Canada can export 225,000,000 bushels, The American Agriculturist still finds a deficit in the world's food supply of at least 200,000,000 bushels of wheat and rye, with a possibility of the shortage being twice as great. Added to this is the almost total failure of the potato crop in can maize, grave distress is be masses of Europe.

The American Agriculturist says the enormous exports of wheat and flour from the United States in August proves that Europe regards the situation as worse than it has yet been painted. Otherwise why should she have in a single month close upon the harvest nearly half as much wheat as she took from the United States during the entire eight months of the year following one of our largest wheat crops and a period of bed-rock prices? Indeed, August wheat exports were almost treble those of the same month last year, and over four times as much as the average exports at this season of late years. For the first the season. The Agriculturalist accepts these circumstances as the strongest possible reason for believing that prices of wheat have today become unnaturally low. It looks for a sharp advance in all cereals as soon as the demand realizes the extent of the world's actual supply. Although noted for its conservativeness The American Agriculturist renews its judgment that every bushel of high grade wheat is today worth fully $1 on the farm where it grew.

WATERTOWN, SOUTH DAKOTA.

In previous advertisements we have said little of what nature has done in providing Watertown with pleasant and picturesque surroundings; it is, however, a magnificent setting for the two jewels-Lakes Kampeska and Pelicanwhich the Creator has placed in this prairie crown.

LAKE KAMPESKA is a body of pure spring water, covering an area of eighteen square miles, mostly surrounded by high embankments. A clean, gravelly beach from twenty to thirty feet in width skirts the entire lake, except where broken in a few places by large boulders extending to the water's edge. It is fed by numerous large springs, insuring a continuous and inexhaustible supply of

The bottom, like the shores, is of sand and gravel, the water clear and cool. Fish abound in great quantities, affording plenty of sport for those who enjoy angling. Situated three and one-half miles west of Watertown, it is the source of water supply, and thus is Watertown doubly fortunate, having so lovely a pleasure resort at her very door, and such an inexhaustible supply of pure water for domestic purposes. Being connected with the city by a motor line, safe and rapid transit is

The attractions of these two bodies of water are features of which no other city in South Dakota can boast.

But, examining dates, finely cut features, black hair, mustache and imperial, a refined, haughty bearing of the regicide cannot be dislodged from and a voice possessed of all the passionate music of the low country, he was a representative of the long boasted chivalry which in the proud days of slavery kept alive the mediæval fires and enthroned physical courage and literal pur-

"Oh, I cannot compare the two, they are so different. But I am charmed with everything here. Our life in the 'pocket' is sweet and drowsy, much as it is here; but there we have no society, no beautiful homes, no tropical things, no churches, no theaters." She said this in a voice indicative of retrospection. A vision of the old mill was hovering before her. She heard the water bubbling

THE RUSH FOR LANDS

Two Out of Every Three Seekers Left in the Cold.

A DEFICIENCY OF TROOPS

the border of the lands opened to settlement yesterday proclaimed when its hands pointed to the hour of noon. Simultanehome-seekers gathered on the border, made a headlong rush over the line into the coveted country and on to the quarter-sections upon which their eyes had been feasting, some for days and others for weeks and months. The rush was a mad one and was made so by the fact that the number of home seekers greatly exceeded the number of quarter sections of land available for settlement. "First there, first served," was the motto of every racer. There was room in the new lands for about 5000 settlers, allowing 160 acres for each. There were on the border waiting to claim the available land fully 15,000 people, so that there were three persons for each section. It was no wonder that the rush was a mad one, for in this case, at least, the race was invariably to the swift. Like scenes have never been witnessed before, except when Oklahoma became the people's two years ago.

The Government Supervision of the opening of the lands seems to have been sadly deficient. The entire government force was composed of two com-panies of United States troops, or 200 men under Captains Hayes and Styles, and the forces of three United States marshals, numbering about 250 men. Of these latter fifty were sent to Langston to preserve the peace between the cowboys and negroes; fifteen were required at each of the three land offices and twenty-five at Tohee. Of the regular troops a squad of men were stationed at each of the two county seats. This left only some 300 men to patrol the borders of about 200 miles in extent. The men, however, were not stationed at regular intervals. In some places there were ten and fifteen men to a mile, while at others there were stretches of five or ten miles entirely unguarded. Under these conditions it might have been expected that numbers of boomers would enter at the appointed time, and they did.

Two miles north of Tohee about 200 boomers had gathered in a secluded spot, knowing that the government's forces would be massed at the border town. They had all set their watches three hours ahead Monday night, so that their testimony would agree if ever their claims would be contested on the ground of their being "sooners." At 9 o'clock their watches indicated the noon hour, and

They Rushed Over the Border and began to race for choice sections. The 'sooners" at other unguarded portions of before the legal time was fully 3000.

Near Tohee a woman crossed the line before the appointed time and one of the rested here and forced her back over the line. Soon afterward she again crossed the line prematurely, and when the deputy a second time drove her back she drew a revolver and opened fire upon him. The marshal returned the fire and shot her in the left leg, just below the knee, shattering

Mr. Robertson, a photographer, who is just in from Landgston, says: "Two negroes were killed there yesterday. One of them was dead when I first reached there, and the other died a few minutes before I left." No Rioting at Langston.

The story of every arrival from Langs-ton agrees that there has been no rioting between the negro settlers and the cowboys. All arrivals from Langston confirm the report that two negroes were killed in the new lands south of the negro colony, but no one seems to know how they met their death. Some say they shot each other in a quarrel over a claim; others that they were thrown from their horses and killed in the stampede, while others say they were shot by the cowboys. Two negroes, women, secured the quarter sections immediately adjoining Langston. The news from Chandler is reassuring The Guthrie news courier from that place

Minneapolis Gives Herself Over to Grand Industrial Display.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 24.—The harvest held in Minneapolis yesterday, was proounced the most magnificent affair of its kind in the history of America. The decora-tions were on a most elaborate scale. Grains and grasses of all kinds of course predominated, though there was a profuse display of bunting.

The line was nearly five hours in passing a given point, and was many miles in length. Many allegorical features were in the floats, while the various phases of business as well as agricultural life were shown in splendid style. There were fully 1000 floats in line. Harmony with God is the solution and we may say the only solution, of all life that we should follow. We listened asking, "What work ought I to take up Boston, Sept. 23.—The Brooklyns hit in life? The uppermost thought with was some work to which he judged that he was specially adapted. He came seeking our advice; his whole demeanor evinced genuine sincerity and manly frankness

Our answer startled him. It was this, Be sure that you are in harmony with God before the subject of what should be your life work is even considered. We quoted in this same connection the words of Jesus, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all things else shall be added unto you."

Too great emphasis cannot be placed upon the thought that there are higher values than those that pertain to mere worldly successes-moral values that determine the soul's standing in the hereafter; values which dignify our whole life when that life is molded after the perfect pattern furnished by our blessed Lord. Put these values in the balance final and irreparable. He who stands questioning what he ought to do in life depreciating the spiritual and exalting mere earthly position or emolument, is most deplorably mistaken. It may be that honesty is not a Christian grace, but it is a moral quality which is essential to all Christian char acter. It may not constitute the Christian, but he is a sorry Christian who is without it. Evidently there is a growing demand for this homely but valuable quality, the absence of which is bring ing reproach on so many names and wrecking so many institutions. Sternness in inflicting penalties is also grow ing in favor. We noticed a few days ago in an English paper that a man was had failed and paid only seven shills and six pence on the pound, and who le been suspended from the church, app ed to be reinstated. He pays tribute, and is a king, prays, and hears prayer; weeps, an dries our tears; is sold for thirty of silver, and redeems the world; as a sheep to the slaughter, and is the good shepherd." Killed by Preacher, Skinned by Deacon. Dr. Harmon Jones tells a good story which actually occurred in the early in these woods, and bears, panthers and wild cats were plentiful. It was the custom to carry a gun most everywhere. There was always a few who carried their guns to church on Sunday mornway back in the 20s. While the Rev. The Antiquity of Geese.

There is much curious amusement to be had in tracing where the foodstuffs we use and the domestic animals we eat or use, originally came from. Professor Max Muller, reasoning through his science of words, finds that the goose was domesticated very early, or at least some bird like it.

Goose in English, ganse in German; dropping the g according to the laws of language, the word becomes anser in Latin and correspondingly in Greek, with the aspirate that marks the Digamma was dropped, and so back to ansa in the Sanscrit. Our prehistoric Sanscrit ancestors of the Indian fable lands, had geese. Professor Muller, therefore, concludes birds resembling them closely, though thousands of years the name has remained, varying only according to the known laws of the change of pronunciation, and probably the Thingston throughout behind the name. Such is the antiquity of geese.—New York Evening Sun.

The Blarney Stone. The village of Blarney is in the south of Ireland, about four miles from Cork. Blarney castle was built by Cormack MacCarthy, the Strong, fourth lord of Muskerry, about the middle of the Fifteenth century. The ruins of the famous old fortress are visited by thousands of tourists every year. This is largely on account of a tradition which has been attached for some centuries to one of the stones used in building the gift of gentle, insinuating speech, and that has given rise to the accusation accent that he or she has "kissed the

WATERTOWN, SOUTH DAKOTA.

In previous advertisements we have said little of what nature has done in providing Watertown with pleasant and picturesque surroundings; it is, however, a magnificent setting for the two jewels-Lakes Kampeska and Pelicanwhich the Creator has placed in this prairie crown.

LAKE KAMPESKA is a body of pure spring water, covering an area of eighteen square miles, mostly surrounded by high embankments. A clean, gravelly beach from twenty to thirty feet in width skirts the entire lake, except where broken in a few places by large boulders extending to the water's edge. It is fed by numerous large springs, insuring a continuous and inexhaustible supply of

Situated three and one-half miles west of Watertown, it is the source of water supply, and thus is Watertown doubly fortunate, having so lovely a pleasure resort at her very door, and such an inexhaustible supply of pure water for domestic purposes. A Probability That Mr. Blair Will Receive the Appointment - Our Navy Possesses the Most Rapid of Rapid-Firing Guns-The New Army Tactics.

A good deal of legislation regarding shipping matters was urged upon the last ongress, but the only measure which actually became a law was that providing for the marking of the names of vessels on the bows. Captain Bates will probably recommend again the bill providing for changing the names of vessels when they meet the tests set forth in the bill. This was favorably reported in the last other change in the law which was before the last congress provided for giving American register to foreign-built vessels neeting certain tests and repaired to the amount of two-thirds of the value before the disaster. Captain Bates will probably recommend this legislation again.

THE ART OF WAR

Has Almost Reached the Topmost Pinnacle in the United States Army. WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.-General Schofield has approved the new army tactics, and when they receive the approval of the secretary of war, steps will be taken at once to put them in operation. The adoption of the new tactics will mark a signal advance in American military practice, and if the opinions of the officers at headquarters here are of value, will place us in he van of all military powers so far as the scientific handling of armed forces is concerned. Briefly described, the general scheme is a development of the skirmish drill to its highest point. Every man in line of battle belongs to a squad constituting a unit of force to be handled, with many others as a whole. There is to be no such thing as "driving in the skirmish ine," but, on the contrary, with every increase of the opposing force the skirmish ine is to be strengthened, the line of battle is to grow by acceleration, and the advance at all lines until the whole army is ngaged. The result is expected to be short, sharp, decisive engagements, and attles are to be won by the first onlaught.

Army officers generally are enthusiastic dvocates of the new system, and the adutant general said that with these tactics and new rifle and powder, the art of war would reach its culmination in the United States army.

THE CHILIAN MISSION.

Ex-Senator Blair is Said to Be Slated to Succeed Minister Egan.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—There is strong eason to believe that the next batch of appointments announced from the White use will include the name of Minister Patrick Egan's successor as representative of the United States to the Republic of This does not rest on mere rumor, but on authority which seems entitled to fullest credence. It is more than half intimated as fact that Mr. Egan was emoved by a cable dispatch transmitted iome days ago, and that he is simply hold-ng over in the traditional way until the lepartment notifies him of the selection of ais successor and directs him to turn over the conduct of affairs to the next in rank. Ex-Minister Blair, who has a few more lays to run, during which, under law and regulations, he is still entitled to draw pay as minister to China, was at the White House yesterday and had a long onversation with the president. Mr. Blair, on emerging, dropped mysterious aints of important diplomatic changes in prospect, but of course did not say whether e had been tendered the mission to Chili.

A Very Pretty Home Wedding at Residence of Mr. C. W. Guy. One of the most brilliant gatherings seen in this city this season was that of last evening at the beautiful new residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Guy on Butler road, the occasion being the marriage of their eldest daughter, Miss Annie E. Guy and Mr. William G. Shaw. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. Francis Perry of Hyde Park.

The nuptials were solemnized in the parlor which was made bright by baskets of flowers and groups of choice potted The Assessments to Constitute a Potatoes Cheap.

Most of the guests were from out of town and arrived on a special car shortly after 7 o'clock.

At 7.30 o'clock Miss Katherine E. Phelps of North Hampton, who presided at the piano, struck the first notes of Lohengrin's wedding march, and the bridal party entered.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white China silk, with a tulle veil caught up with white roses and carried white roses in her hand.

Miss Alice L. Guy of Worcester, a cousin of the bride was bridesmaid, and she wore a costume of white cashmere, carrying pink roses in her hand.

Mr. Frank A. Perkins, also a cousin of the bride officiated as groomsman. A reception was held after the ceremony

SOME MORE ABOUT EGAN.

The President is Investigating Certain Charges and Will Give Him a Fair Show-How a Washington Newspaper Figures Up the President's Plans.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The annual report of Commissioner Raum of the pension bureau, submitted to the secretary of the interior yesterday, shows that on Jane 30, 1891, there were 676,160 pensioners borne upon the rolls of the bureau, being 138,216 more than were carried on the rolls at the close of the last fiscal year. There were 222,221 first payments of every description, requiring $38,552,274, being $69,-592 less than was required for the 130,514 first payments made during the last fiscal year. At the close of the fiscal year there were 38,574 pensioners on the roll who remained unpaid for the want of time, and who were entitled to receive $4,883.242, which will be paid out of the appropriation for the current fiscal year, and there remained at the close of the year in the hands of the several pension agents the sum of $5,713,852, which has siuce been covered into the treasury.

There will be a deficiency in the appropriation for the payment of fees and expenses of examing surgeons of about $300,-000. The total amount disbursed on account of pensions, expenses, etc., during the fiscal year was $118,548,959, as compared with $106,493,890 disbursed during the last fiscal year. The report shows that the pensions now being granted are not to persons whose terms of service were short. The great majority are to veterans, many of whom would have gone to their graves in want but for the just, humane, and timely enactment of the law of June 27, 1890. There are 1,208,707 soldiers of the Union now living, and of the survivors 520,158 are now on the persion rolls. There are, therefore, 688,549 survivors who are not pensioned, and 879,908 deceased soldiers not represented on the pension rolls. The commissioner closes his report by suggesting increased salaries for clerks in his bureau who are paid less than clerks in any other department, paying them at the same time many compliments for their faithfulness and laborious work. NEWSPAPER CONJECTURES

Regarding Important Changes Said to Be Contemplated by the President. WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 .- The Star says that the president is not disposed to recall Minister Egan from Chili upon mere report, but wait until the department of state has some official information to indicate that he has not been a discreet representative of this government. The department, it says, has begun investigation of charges that Mr. Egan took sides in the contest recently terminated, and that, while failing to inform our government of the progress of events in Chili, he communicated the facts to others. The Star also says: It is learned on the best authority that everything now points to the selection of Judge Butler of Indiana to succeed Judge Scofield on the bench of the court of claims; and it is said that the president will probably permit the secretaryship of war to remain vacant un-til congress meets, Gen. Grant acting as secretary after the retirement of Mr. FREE DELIVERY. Proctor. When congress meets Attorney General Miller will be appointed to one of the circuit judgeships, and the two vacancies in the cabinet may be filled at the same time. The appointment of Mr. Clements as interstate commissioner is believed to have been decided upon. Since Mr. McComas has again declined the appointment of civil service commissioner the president is at a loss to find some one to succeed him for the place.

LATEST ABOUT EGAN. Held Back News from the Government for the Benefit of a Newspaper. WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 .- A semi-official statement is given out from the state department in regard to the Chilian situation as follows: The department has begun the investigation of charges that Mr. Egan took sides in the contest recently terminated and that he was the correspondent of the New York Herald, keeping that journal informed as to the situation in Chili, while the department was in ignorance and could learn nothing from him. It will take some time to make this investigation, and upon its results will depend whether or not Mr. Egan is to be re-

The very fact that such an investigation is admitted to be in progress would appear to confirm the impression that Mr. Egan for all practicable purposes has been suspended. It is added, however, that the president is said to be not disposed to recall Minister Egan from Chili upon mere report, but will wait until the a discreet representative of this government. The events of the next few days, it is believed, will disclose whether there is any suppressed history in the diplomatic wording of these announcements.

REVIEW OF THE QUARTER

LESSON XIII, THIRD QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, SEPT. 27.

The Gospel of St. John from the Beginning to and Including the Tenth Chapter-Specific Objects of This Gospel. Its Date and Authorship.

For the diligent student this Gospel is full of interest. It is the final gummary of one who had personally known Jesus among the first, had been an eye witness of His ministry and then both a witness and a partaker of the labors and sufferings of the apostles, who had seen Christianity 1.50 ganization, and had also been a sorrowful witness of the spread of many errors in the 5.00 infant church. With all these matters present in his mind, he addressed himself to the composition of a Gospel which Single copies 2 cents, delivered daily by should at once confute the prevalent here sies and set the true mission and personal ity of Jesus Christ clearly before the minds of the converts.

Such being the object of this Gospel, it was but natural that it should be subject ed to the most merciless criticism. Every word or phrase on which a doubt could hang has been seized upon by the so called critical school and every hint or quotation of it by the early fathers has been studied by critics of all schools. The result has been to prove to a reasonable certainty that the Gospel was generally known in the church as early as A. D. 115-at least so well known that Christian writers assumed a familiarity with it on the part of converts. It is also almost, but not quite absolutely, proved that it was the last book of the New Testa ment to be written. As to the anthor, "The Beloved Disciple," the testimony generally goes to show that he was a few years younger than Jesus, and that he died at Ephesus about 100 A. D. at a very advanced age. Also that he was banished to Patmos in the year 95 during the persecution by the cruel Domitian, that on the death of that emperor he was released and lived in quiet during the peaceful reign of Nerva, and died in the eign of Tragan just before the lighter per secution of that reign began. These facts enable us to see why St. John began by as suming a general knowledge of the previous gospels, and of the commonest terms of Greek philosophy on the part of the Christians, and then goes on to treat of the teachings of Christ. The opening is singularly beautiful. The first words are the same as those of The Greek word "Logos" may be trans lated Word or Wisdom. Among the Platonic philosophers it had a somewhat fan ciful signification, as they held that the material universe was created by an eon or emanation from an Eternal God. St. ohn took their own word and recoined it. He means by it all that they meant and a great deal more. With him it means not only the power of God, not only the Eter nal Thought, not only the Eternal Design as to this world and mankind, but far be yond that the Essential Divine Personality. Having declared this basis truth, he pro Miss Evelyn Burrell of Hingham is visit ittee of the Jewish Sandhedrim.

Therefore He implicitly says to Nicodemus, take your place with the publican and sina pleasure to hear of this Nicodemus twice more, and each time more favorably. Business All Over the Country is Prospering.

A GENERAL IMPROVEMENT

At the Leading Centers of Trade-Big Week for Cattle Shipments-Clothing, Woollen and Boot and Shoe and Other Industries Doing Finely.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The reports from all quarters indicate a con-tinuance of the general improvement in trade. At Boston business is good, with more activity and a firm feeling in boots and shoes, more buying of leather; wool firm, with sales of 3,287,000 pounds; dry goods in better demand and quite active, and lumber quiet. At Philadelphia the iron market improves, and the demand for tin plate is especially increased; coal is dull, but jewelry is fairly active, and do-mestic tobacco improved as well as liquors, while there is a fair demand for chemicals, and the volume of trade in paints is good. At Cleveland, good trade is seen in dry goods, hardware and groceries, though clothing and boots and shoes are dull. At Detroit trade improves, with good manufacturing demand for iron, and funds going into the country for wheat. At Cincinnati trade is fairly ac-

At Chicago the week was one of the largest on record in cattle receipts, which were over 95,000 head, and while some increase appears in flour, oats and corn, dressed beef, hides and wool, receipts of wheat and rye were nine times last year's, though in barley, cured meats, lard, cheese and butter there was some decrease. Sales of dry goods, clothing and shoes exceed last year's, and while collections are not quite satisfactory, there is some improvement. At Milwaukee, the hot weather, which secures corn and tobacco, retards trade in woollens, but general business is good. At Minneapolis trade is especially brisk in flour, the output being 180,000 barrels against 160,000 last year, and wheat receipts 1,800,000 against 1,000,000, while lumber is strong and

Improvement is seen at Galveston and New Orleans, where cotton slightly advanced and rice is steady; and at Savannah, where cotton receipts are heavy. Reports as to the money market are gen-

BOTH OF VIOLENT TEMPER. Domestic Tragedy in Which a Woman Fatally Shoots Her, Husband.

shoe factory, Brockton, was shot and danerously wounded by his wife yesterday. Makepeace wished his wife to get break-fast for him, when he words followed. He threw a lamp at her. She ran to her oom, seized a gun and as he put his head nside the door she fired, shooting off one side of his face so that if he lives he will be disfigured for life and partially if not totally blinded. The cause of the trouble is due, it is said, to jealousy. Mrs. Makepeace and husband were continually quarreling, and it was not uncommon to see them fight out their domestic troubles in the public thoroughfares. She has more than once made an attack on her husband with some dangerous weapon, and he has an equally vicious temper. Officer Doyle placed her under arrest and took her before Judge Marden at Stoughton, who ordered her committed to Dedham to await the result of her huspand's injuries. Medical Examiner Paine of Brockton and Dr. Linfield of this town were called to Makepeace's assistance, and they say he has no possible chance of recovery. His wounds are of a serious nature. Mrs. Makepeace said she had no intention of shooting her husband, and did not know the gun was loaded.

Closing Performances at Worcester's Great Music Festival.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 26.—Franz Rummel, pianist, made the hit of the season at the festival concert yesterday afternoon, playing Rubinstein's D minor conerto. The people imperatively demanded his return, when he played Brassin's nocurn. Dr. G. R. Clark sang an aria from the "Queen of Sheba," and Mrs. Seabury C. Ford sang the Bolero from the "Sicilian Vespers," and both were well received. The festival closed with a rousing perormance of Handl's "Israel in Egypt." The choral work was by far the best of the week and the soloists were admirable. They were Mrs. Jennie Walker, Mrs. Carl Alves, Herbert Johnson, Carl Dufft and Myron W. Whitney. "Israel in Egypt" was preceded by the martial overture to Handel's "Occasional" oratorio. This completed Carl Zerrahn's twenty-fifth year as festival conductor. At the internission President Davis presented him in behalf of the association with a purse of $1500. This week has been the greatest artistic success and the largest audiences ever known at a Worcester festival.

Details of the Catastrophe Which Ba-fell Italians at Newark. NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 26.-Eleven people are dead and thirty wounded as the result of the bomb explosion at the Italian celebration Thursday. The Italian colony had for several days been preparing for the celebration of the feast of St. Rocco. Alfonso Illario, a saloon keeper, who, on account of his wealth, is known as "King" Alfonso, was the chief mover in the arrangements. A platform for musicians was erected in the street, next door to the saloon. A statue of St. Rocco was next to the platform. The houses were decorated and, at nightfall, Chinese lanterns were lighted. The band played, fireworks were street. A big copper casing mortar was used for the bombs. These were filled with colored fire and shot into the air, where they burst, throwing out a shower of vari-colored sparks. It was this mortar that exploded and caused all the harm. The bomb casing is about five inches in diameter and thirty inches long. About 11 p. m. a large bomb was put in the mortar and lighted. It is supposed that the bomb exploded in it. There were hundreds of men, women and children standing around watching with great expectancy. When it exploded the air was filled with the shrieks of the injured and dying. Intense confusion followed. A platoon of police were on the scene and they had great difficulty in preventing the frightened multitude from trampling the injured to death. The explosion is supposed to be due to an over-charge of powder. Nearly all the dead and many of the injured were children, and with one or two exceptions lived in Newark. The wounds of some of those yet living are of a frightful character-legs, feet, arms or hands torn off, eyes blown out, or bodies horribly lacerated. The death list will probably be swollen further.

Mayor Henry O. Fairbanks the Presiding officer.

The Republicans of this city held a well attended ratification meeting Saturday evening at Hancock Hall. John F. Merrill, chairman of the city committee, opened the meeting and introduced Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks as president of the evening.

Mayor Fairbanks, in accepting the office. spoke briefly, saying they had met to ratify the nomination of those whom our delegates have selected for our standard bearers. We have a clean ticket and back of it the Republican party. Protection to American industries is inscribed on our banner, and under the leadership of these will lead us to victory. The question has been asked, why not vote for Gov. Russell? I would not vote for Gov. Russell because he is a Democrat, and no Republican has any business to vote for him.

The Republican party is a national party and national politics effect the working man more than anything else, and you can not keep up the national party if every other year you turn round and say it does not make any difference whether you are a Democrat or a Republican, no party can be held together without a bold front. You have fifteen hundred Republican voters which you should turn out at the polls next November. It is easier for you to get them out than for one individual. We are told that it is a question of men this year. Gov. Russell has attended the fairs and made himself solid with the military man to get more votes. It is a question of politics and not of men. Does James Blaine? He has given us one of the to every one that he is a patriot and people can give him, (applause).

TODAY'S ELECTION.

"No" Majority Predicted.

But Little Interest.

the Polls—The Flection Officers Find It Wearisome,

The most important question which the people shall be worth one hundred cents voters of Quincy were ever called upon to Shall an act passed by the General ballot box or the bayonet. The Democrats believe in the bayonet.

Tariff is not to make things cheap but to allow the people to raise manufacture.

Shall an act passed by the General Court in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-one, entitled—"An act to authorize the City of Quincy to construct a system of Sewerage," be accepted?

There is a surprising lack of interest in the matter, and it is thought that less than fifty per cent. of the voters will go to the polls. Some set the total at less than 800 which is only thirty per cent. An affirmative vote means that the voters sanction the expenditure by the city of $400,000 for a sewerage system, which amount the City Council would feel called upon to appropriate.

Indication point today however to a large "No" majority. The vote will be bulletined at the LED-GER office tonight as soon as compiled. A visit to the polling places has been made by the LEDGER representatives:

erilous Journey of Men Imprisoned in a Coal Mine. SHAMOKIN, Pa., Sept. 28.-For eight nours Saturday sixteen men were mprisoned in an old chamber in the Hickery Ridge coal mine, not knowing what When they entered the mine at 7 o'clock a the morning Inside Foreman William Reinhardt directed them to "rob" the pilars. This is considered the most dangerous of inside work. A pillar divides one breast, or chamber, from another, and after all the coal is taken from the champer, then the pillar is usually removed. A chain pillar divides the levels.

At the ridge the men were working on the first level, and 100 feet of rock and coal lay between it and the second lift, which had been well worked out. About an hour after the first pick had been sunk the bottom of the gangway cracked in hundreds of places, while through the fissures came Single cepies 2 cents, delivered daily by blasts of air and dirt. "Are you alive?" cried Foreman Reinhardt, who, with Tom Llewellyn and retirement from public life. David Williams had gained the entrance of the gangway as soon as the rush occurred. The rescuing party were overjoyed on learning that the men were safe. How to get the miners across the abyss was next in order. A rope was procured, and for four hours Reinhardt and his men tried to cast an end across.

Sometimes it would land on a treacherus ledge almost within reach, and then it would go whistling down in darkness and dust. Once it fell on a rock which seemed solid, but as Dan Oyster was about to seize it the rock and rope went down. But finally the rope was caught. Once securely tied about a post, the men conulted as to who would make the attempt to cross the chasm, hand over hand, suspended from the rope. It was a perilous undertaking, but, as the way led to liberty, it did not take long for Carson DeLong to make up his mind to try it. Bidding his comrades good-by, the intrepid fellow flung himself into space and went hand over hand. The rope cracked and swayed. Several times he thought he would fall, but with strained muscles and tout heart DeLong went on and on and at last was safe. The others followed, and

Forgot the Boy.

Occasionally a very nervous man will make a public exhibition of himself. Such an instance occurred in a Nassau street restaurant Friday noon. A gentlemanly appearing man was observed by one or two patrons of the place to leave his table abruptly, hasten to the cashier's desk, pay his bill and to almost run out of the restaurant. Beyond indulging in the reflection that it was pretty warm weather to travel under such a full head of steam, the observers paid no attention to the man's behavior at the time. After a lapse of eight or ten minutes, however, the same man came back into the restaurant breathless and

The nervous man fidgeted about until the boy finished his melon, and then he would have gone away without paying for it had not the boy reminded him in a high soprano voice that he owed the res-

VITALLY IMPORTANT TO MANUFACTURERS.

Within a radius of 850 miles, just one-half the distance to New England, the manufacturer of WATERTOWN, SOUTH DAKOTA, reaches a population of 26,000,000 people. He is nearer to St. Paul, Chicago, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Louisville, Memphis, St. Louis, and the adjacent countries than the Eastern manufacturer; besides having the West and Northwestern cities and countries at his door.

The Eastern manufacturer has his drummers all over the West selling his manufactured products. The FREIGHT alone on raw materials to the East, and on the manufactured goods back to the West, would be in itself an immense profit; all this freight on goods, sufficient to supply 26,000,000 people, would be clear profit to the manufacturer in Watertown over the manufacturer in New England. With the advantages of cheap living and cheap local freights, it would seem that those who come first to this great railroad distributing centre would soon become the leaders in their respective branches. Look closely at following Map and see the unparalelled advantages of location.

A heavy storm passed general as an example to the army, he over northern New England on the 18th, traced the phases of the republic since its giving but little rainfall but doing some foundation and said: "Henceforth she is the mistress of her own

You know how well these sentiments are reciprorated. The Cronstadt incidents found an echo in the smallest of our hamlets as much as our government spheres. Nevertheless they have not caused us to forget what went before and what fol-

Our hearts have been touched by the sentiments of friendship extended to the French sailors. Wherever they went they found France respected, as was seen in the demonstrations in their honor in Denmark and Sweden, and finally at Portsmouth, where Queen Victoria received them in person and accorded them an imposing and courteous welcome. These events have made an impression on the whole world that will not be effaced. France has felt that she is becoming herself in re-entering the European equilibrium as an indispensable factor, offering an additional guarantee of peace.

From this state of things a new situation has sprung, but it does mean a new policy. It is not a moment when we are in a position to cultivate peace with dignity. We shall reexpose ourselves in making a compromise. qualities of prudence and sang froid whereby she has gained the esteem of other people."

At a subsequent banquet M. Ribot, in alluding to the entente with Russia, said that the government had completed a work begun by its predecessors upon a point of the highest importance to the future destinies of France, effecting a change in the position which the nation occupied in Europe. It was a great honor to the ministry to have shared in such events and to have paved the way for them in accord with Parliament and public opinion. The time for the collaboration of the chambers and the government, he added, is approaching. Whatever happens, we have the knowledge that we have worked well and placed ourselves heart and soul at the service of the republic.

THE STEAMER CIRCASSIA

Collides with the Schooner Daylight, and is Disabled.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 .- The Anchor line steamer Circassia, which sailed from here Saturday for Glasgow, came into port with a large hole in her starboard bow. She had collided on Saturday night, about 10 o'clock, with the schooner Daylight, bound from Boston to Philadelphia. The Davlight was commanded by Captain France, conscious of her strength, is confident in the future, and will continue to show the Hodgsden. The Circassia was in charge ton says that the steamer was going along slowly at the time. The night was dark and hazy. Suddenly he and the man at the lookout saw a white light directly ahead. He was in a quandary as to what action should be taken when a green light appeared on the unknown vessel. The helm of the Circassia was set to port. In a few moments the unknown showed a red light and was directly under the steamer's bow. The engines were reversed, but before they had any effect the crash came. A hole four feet square was smashed into the Circassia's starboard bow. The jibboom and bowsprit of the schooner were carried away. The Daylight pro-ceeded on her way. The Circassia returned for repairs. There was no little commotion among the steamer's 120 passengers when the crash came. They will remain on the vessel while she is being repaired. Prohibition to Be Withdrawn Through This will take but a day or two for the steamer will not go on the dry dock.

Principles of Democracy, and their destiny to rule the republic.

In this convention we make no attempt to set up party as a fetish to be worshipped, nor to glorify partisanship for blind following—we leave that to those who seem to have no other resources. Parties in our system are useful and perhaps necessary as checks upon one an-

resources. Farties in our system are useful and perhaps necessary as checks upon one another in administration, as well as constant exponents of principles and measures to be tested at last by popular favor at the polls. No party can stand in the vision of any rational man for more than that an for more than that.

the clerk, the shopkeeper and his soustomer, all grades and conditions of men who are not sharers in its spoils and recipients of its favors; and it pursues and abuses them all, not only as traitors to their party, but as unpatriotic citizens of the country.

They have assumed so long the arrogant air of proprietorship of everything good; they have so persistently proclaimed the Republican party and the republic as convertible terms; they have so coolly considered long success, whether gained by fair means or foul, as a matured or adopted claim to perpetual power, however undeserved: that a Democrat is Regarded as a Common Enemy.

Regarded as a Common Enemy Regarded as a Common Enemy, and a mugwump as a follower of Lucifer. In this spirit the Republican party of today in Massachusetts, having alienated and driven out all leading men of free mind, having repelled and insulted the younger generation, convicted of cowardly treason to the industrial interests of the commonwealth in the supreme hour of trial, yet writhing in agony from the mighty blow dealt them last November; the Republican party, or, to speak more accurately, the group. ber; the Republican perty, or, to speak more accurately, the group of men who have usurped its management, not only ask, but demand, a return to full power upon their own terms.

We approach the people in no such evil spirit, in no such haughty temper. This is a head of the people in no such evil spirit, in no such haughty temper. This is a head of the people in the people of the people of the century is a Democratic platform broad enough for all to stand upon. Our principles have stood the test of time and struggle and misfortune. They have stood the severest test of long-continued power—covering the greater and brighter years of the century. The principles to be formulated today, in whatever language they may be clothed, will be recognized by all as the unchanged creed of the party of the people.

E. Government, in our view, is a necessary in stitution; but no more of it is desirable than what is absolutely necessary for public needs, or to perform undoubted public functions. We do not believe that government is a sanctified thing, above us of beyond our control, nor a fairy godmother, to dispense favors to the good children who flatter her. It is simply the point of the federal bayonet, under instructions from Republican party strikers? Can Mr. Lodge point to any new admirers of Mr. Reed in his attitude of "the majority of the house of representatives?" Does he dare name a citizen of this state who last year voted against him who now thanks his congress for spending $200,000,000 of the people's money in excess of the appropriations of the Fiftleth congress? Will he kindly indicate to a curious public the legitimate industry that has benefited in this state or the wages that are raised after a year's plea of the taxpayer but to increase his burden.

The indignant uprising of the people that astonished Mr. Lodge and his confederates was the intelligent protest of Massachusetts against the treachery of her Republican congressmen; and her demand for relief will not be abated until the whole tariff shall be reasonably reduced, and until untaxed coal, crude iron, lumber and wool shall come to revive her injured industries. That battle is not over; it has but just begun, and it will continue until the demand is fully answered.

As dishonest and brazen as their pretense of protecting American labor is their claim that they favor a sound currency and that we do not.

The present complaint is that there has been Coinage of Silver Dollars, worth as buliion or as merchandise only 80 cents apiece; and the fear is that a continued coinage of these dollars, or, worse, that a larger coinage of them, will dangerously inflate the currency and ultimately drive gold out of circulation. This was the situation a year ago last July, and it is the situation today. At that time the treasury was coining at the rate of $2,000,000 a month of these 80-cent silver dollars, and the demand on the part of sound financiers was that the coinage should cease, or that something should be done to insure the parity of the silver dollar with the gold one.

But an administration debt was due to the silver men of the far west, as well as to the iron men and wool men, and to the other monopolists. So the silver men demanded payment. The result is the "Sherman act," so called, of July 14, 1890.

Under this act the treasury is required to purchase 54,000,000 ounces of silver a year, and issue treasury notes therefor. These notes are redeemable in coin, and the treasury is required to coin enough silver to meet them. The operation of this act is to inflate the currency nearly $60,000,000 a year in silver dollars worth 80 cents apiece, or by treasury notes, based upon silver deposited and redeemable in the depreciated coin. This inflates the currency annually, therefore, by some $60,000,000 more of debased silver, or its representative, paper, against $24,000,000 a ded under the operations of the previous law.

Where do you suppose Lodge and his Republican colleagues stood when this measure of inflation and political debt-paying went through? Clamoring now for a sound currency, the ten Republican representatives from Massachusetts voted for this naked inflation measure, while Andrew and O'Neil protested and voted against it. It was denounced in every conservative quarter, and even the "thick and thin" Republican press of nounced in every conservative quarter, and even the "thick and thin" Republican press of this state was outspoken against it.

Mr. Collins here quoted an editorial from the Boston Journal of July 8, 1890, on the subject, and read part of a speech by Congressman Walker of Worcester, in the house on June 6, 1890, in which he said he would vote for the bill "to help the boys out" because it was "a purely political question." He continued:

It will be noticed that our Republican friends and perhaps more honest.

In the platform of this year, upon which McKinley stands they "approve the amended coinage act of the last Republican congress, by which the entire production of the United States is added to the currency of the people."

Mark the blunt frankness and the avowal of the purpose. But the act does more than provide for the coinage of the product of all our mines. The last census bulletin shows the entire output of our mines in 1889 to be only 51, 354,851 ounces. Allow 10 per cent. of this amount for use in the arts, and the act of 1890 provides for the purchase of 10,000,000 ounces more silver than our American mines produce. Pray, how much further could the strongest free coinage measurs go toward inflating our depreciated currency? So much for fact. Ohio Republicans are Less Timid.

Are Innocent and Susceptible, and will be so ung around by the bad silver men when the reach their seats; and he re-fers to the solutions of the Boston common council and other signs as indicating great wavering of our opinions.

No illustration could be more unfortunate.
The Boston common council is a Democratic body, and when an indorsement of free silver was passed there it was voted down 62 to 5. Read the ringing resolutions of the Young Men's Democratic club—the largest political organization in the east—on Jan. 19, 1891; read the proceedings of the great meetings called by the Democratic mayor in Faneuil hall last January.

We occupy the sound, safe and consistent position, and the vote of Massachusetts this fall, if cast for our candidates, will strengthen the hands and enlarge the influence of the sever Democrats who take their seats in the house next December.

The Republican platform of this. house next December.

The Republican platform of this year again seeks to create an issue when no issue exists, and to create a prejudice, where, of all places, prejudice should have no home. Again The School System

The School System

Is produced as a crutch for the party to lean upon, in the idle but malicious hope that some bad blood may be excited. Again the party proclaims the school system as the glory of Massachusetts and the party its especial guardian; and again the Spokesman Lodge comes forward and impudently says that "if the attack should be made upon the public schools the Democratic party would unite in it, as elsewhere!"

This base libel upon half the people of the commonwealth, this dragging into the political arena of a system supported by all for the education of our children, is born of recklessness and mendacity. If an issue can be created by any heat, or by cold misrepresentation, we challenge comparison of our record with that of any party. In our platform last year, not content to stand still, we favored the "progressive development of our public school tax. We forced free text-books into law against the vote of the present Republican candidate for governor; and not a step in the line of progress has been taken but with our support.

It would indeed be a mockery to place Mr. llen on a platform that either endorsed legistion for the relief of labor on the protection and education of children in the past, or held ut any promise for the future. Mr. Lodge and his associates appear not to comprehend what the people meant by their votes last year; but they say sentiment has changed since then; that the people have forgiven the spending of a billion dollars by the last congress; that they are used to the Merican the house as he would run a circus, and they nossed a copyright bill. It was promised by his sponsors that he and they would meet any of us anywhere and discuss any issue, state or federal, that might be pertinent in this canvass. When the challenge appeared in the form of the governor of the state the fighting candidate grew pale, and fell back limp and faint and almost lifeless into the strong arms of Sir Lucius O'Trigger Beard. There he rests.

Shift your position, if you please, Republican managers, and attack with all your might the present administration of our state, so far as Democratis have a voice in it. Your only glory there is the fact that a Republican council has embarrassed the Democratic governor. Unknown White Woman Found Dead in a Colored Man's Room.

Boston, Sept. 29.-The body of an unknown white woman was found about 11 o'clock last night in the basement of No 28 Piedmont street. Suspicions of foul play were at first entertained, and the occupant of the room where the body was found, named Benjamin F. Johnson, was arrested. Johnson, who is a colored man, was somewhat intoxicated at the time of his arrest and failed to throw much light on the matter. There were rumors that the woman had been choked to death. But the occupants at their late convention took good care not to refer to this act, which the presiding officer and the chairman of the committee on resolutions voted for with the rest. for "pure polities" and to pay a political debt under pressure. The Medical Examiner Stedman viewed the remains, and as no marks of any violence were found on the body, he believed death to have been caused by heart failure, brought on by excessive drinking. An inquest will be held when an official report will be rendered as to the cause of the woman's death.

Philadelphians Prove That They Know

Something About the Game PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—The cricket match between Lord Hawke's eleven and the team made up of the cracks from the various first class Philadelphia teams, which began on Friday last, ended yester-day with a victory for Philadelphia. The Englishmen, who started their second inning Saturday, making 84 runs for a loss of two wickets, finished yesterday, making 171 runs, a grand total of 430 runs. The Philadelphians began their second innings, needing 183 runs to win. These they secured with the loss of but two wickets, their last run being made three minutes before the time fixed for closing. The outcome was something of a surprise, as the opinion was general that a fourth day would be necessary for the finish of the match and the match arranged with Baltimore had been therefore postponed. The Englishmen kept up their fielding, their plays being equal to the best cricket ever seen in this country. They were unfortunate at the bat yesterday, however, several of their players going out on easy chances. In attempting to stop a hard hit ball Captain Brockie of the Philadelphias had his hand split badly. Hamilton was substituted and

The excitement as the game neared its end was intense. Every play that added to the Philadelphias' score was loudly cheered, and as George Patterson, the young American champion, scored the winning run, the crowd broke over the field and manifested its delight in various ways. Many surrounded Lord Hawke, and shaking hands with him, congratulated him upon the good showing made by his men. THE EUROPEAN PAUDED

recent sermons of Rev. Louis A. Banks, of Boston, whose utterances on the sweating system have caused such gen. eral interest:

I have no sympathy with those people who are crying out against all foreign. ers, yet it seems to me that no serious student of the signs of the times can take other than a sober view of the overwhelming tide of foreign immigration which has come to this country.

In the earlier days of American history it was the intelligent, self reliant part of the European communities who dared the expense and hardship of the long sea voyage by a sailing vessel and faced the exigencies of the New World. The immigrants of those days were mostly farmers and skilled mechanics who brought with them the habit and prestige of success.

But under the new order of things, with the great steam ferries that make a passage to America only a brief holiday trip of a week, with reduced rates, and controlled by companies who scour every European city, by aid of their agents, to gather in their human cargoes from the poorest and most ignorant or all the labor classes, it becomes a very different question.

I think it is one of the hopeful features of the situation that nearly all our adopted citizens, who are themselves thoroughly Americanized, share strong. ly in this view. Indeed, many of them seem to realize the danger more keenly than do the native born citizens.

The rapid incoming of these Old World tides has very close relation to the wages of laboring people. Large numbers of these alien laborers who are coming now are little better than slaves of contractors, steamship lines and the professional European jobbers in pauper labor. They come in direct competition with the native born and the worthy foreign immigrant who comes here for the purpose of applying for citizenship and securing a home. At every point of contact with our labor system they de-

It is now known beyond doubt that prisoners' aid societies in various European countries have been steadily shipping convicts to the United States. Neither has it been an uncommon thing for criminals to be let off by the courts on condition of their emigration to America. There is not a single cause of reform in this country that is not constantly discouraged and postponed by these Old There can be no doubt that there is a rising tide of public sentiment in this country in favor of careful and wise examination of every emigrant who offers himself as a candidate for American citizenship in the future. I think, in view of the fact that we are getting a very large and increasing proportion of which is the most illiterate portion of the Old World-in southern Italy, for instance, 79 out of every 100 are illiterate -there ought to be an educational test. There is certainly no wisdom in our adding hundreds of thousands a year to the nurber of illiterates already here, who are unable to read the Declaration of Independence or have the faintest conception of the principles of our constitu-

our immigration from southern Europe,

tion. The examination of emigrants should be on the other side of the water. We have had many illustrations in Boston of the manifest hardships experienced under the present arrangement. Every person intending to emigrate to America ought to be required to give notice of that desire through the nearest American consul, and furnish a clean bill of health, both moral and physical, and no one permitted to sail without a certificate of such investigation and satisfactory finding. But what shall we do with these multitudes of foreigners who are already living in our midst? We must set to work with a definite purpose to Americanize them as quickly as possible. We must not for a moment be satisfied to let them herd together in the filth and squalor to which they may have been accustomed

We cannot afford to hand them over to the greedy tyranny of the sweater. Nothing will help us more than the abolition of the neglected tenement house, and a healthier, cleaner housing for the people. Some of our public spirited men of wealth can not do better than to look in this direction as a field in which to make their mark upon the uplift of their race and their time.

Another thing we want to do to Americanize these people is to furnish them employment under conditions consistent with health, intelligence and morality. Instead of the crowded sweatshop, the moral atmosphere of which is as filthy as the physical, we must have factories conducted in the spirit of Christian civil-The churches, too, must open their arms with a heartier tone of welcome and brotherhood to the tried and disheartened working people. Nothing in recent art has stirred me so deeply as a copy of Hacker's "Christ and the Magdalene." The Christ is standing, with coarse clothing and toilworn hands, by the workbench in the carpenter shop at Nazareth. The shavings are heaped in piles about him on the otherwise bare floor, while kneeling at his feet, in penitence and trust, is the Magdalene. Brothers, it is this carpenter Christas Francis Willard aptly puts it, "The Monday Christ," that the toilworn world hungers for, and will welcome when it sees him manifested in us, in the shop, well as in the church. An iron manufacturer from Pittsburg called on the striking architectural ironworkers who are on strike here yesterday and offer ed to establish a union factory if they would lend them their aid. They replied: "No, sir; we kick when employers i mport employes here.

We will not aid in importing employers. We will be consistent. Chicago em ployers are all right. We are fighting them and will win our strike in the regular way without resorting to importations."—Chi cago Tribune.

The stockholders of the Old Colony Railroad held their annual meeting at the United States Hotel, Boston, on Tuesday. The old board of directors was elected, Mr. Joshua M. Sears succeeding the late Royal W. Turner.

IN A PITIBLE PLIGHT.

Ton Vile for Cattle.

LONDON, Sept. 30.-A dispatch from St. Petersburg to The Telegraph describing the situation in Russia arising from the failure of the crops, and detailing harrowing incidents of the famine now prevailing, part of which has already been cabled to the United States, says that not for centuries has such widespread distress been recorded. The trouble is chiefly due to the government, which at the beginning of the year was aware that a famine was imminent. The authorities delayed taking action to relieve the distress until it was too late

In addition to the scarcity of food, which has caused untold suffering, the distress 1.50 has been intensified by the enormous number of unusually disastrous fires that have occurred throughout the famine-stricken districts. In many of the districts entire villages have been destroyed. The inhabitants, weak from loss of food and with no prospect of improving their condition, made no attempt to check the progress of the flames, but stood and watched their dwellings burn. What little food it is possible for the peasants to obtain is of the vilest description. In many cases their only food is the sweepings and refuse from flour mills. In Saratoff the land owners found this refuse so injurious to their cattle that they would not feed it to them. But, though it was not fit for cattle to eat, the land owners made bread of it and sold it to the peasants. Bread made of finely chopped straw and bran, mixed with a very small quantity of rye, is considered a Godsend. In many districts the starving peasantry are not able to procure even those miserable substitutes for nourishing food, and are reduced to dire straits to procure anything that will prolong life.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION

Concerning Sailing Vessels That Carry

Steam Fog Horns. BOSTON, Sept. 30.-In the case of the steamer Parthian vs. the schooner Flor-ence, Judge Nelson of the United States listrict court sent down an important decision holding that a sailing vessel using a steam fog horn not only cannot recover damages under conditions as formerly, if un down by a steamer, but is liable for injuries to the steamer. The decision is particularly important, because large numbers of sailing vessels have adopted the steam fog horn and the case before the courts was the third in which a collision nas resulted from the use of the horn. Judge Nelson reviews the circumstances of the collision at length, and then says: There can be no doubt that the course pursued by the Parthian was the usual and proper one under the circumstances, if the Florence had been a vessel under steam instead of a sailing vessel. There can be no doubt on these facts that the disaster happened solely through The directors of the Y. M. C. #### VITALLY IMPORTANT TO MANUFACTURERS.

Within a radius of 850 miles, just one-half the distance to New England, the manufacturer of WATERTOWN, SOUTH DAKOTA, reaches a population of 26,000,000 people. He is nearer to St. Paul, Chicago, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Louisville, Memphis, St. Louis, and the adjacent countries than the Eastern manufacturer; besides having the West and Northwestern cities and countries at his door.

The Eastern manufacturer has his drummers all over the West selling his manufactured products. The FREIGHT alone on raw materials to the East, and on the manufactured goods back to the West, would be in itself an immense profit; all this freight on goods, sufficient to supply 26,000,000 people, would be clear profit to the manufacturer in Watertown over the manufacturer in New England. With the advantages of cheap living and cheap local freights, it would seem that those who come first to this great railroad distributing centre would soon become the leaders in their respective branches. Look closely at following Map and see the unparalelled advantages of location.

These startling ngures are enough to paral the East, when he considers the advantages his Western rival has and must have manufacturing, as he is in the midst of the raw material.

To illustrate, the manufacturer of woolen and worsted goods doing business in the East has to bring his wool from the West, pay his freight from the West to the East, and after the wool is manufactured freight the goods back to the West. 60 per cent. of wool is dirt; the manufacturer in the East buys his wool in the West, it costs an average of $120 per car to earry his wool to New England; i. e., he pays $48 freight on the wool, and $72 on the dirt. Woolen and worsted mills in Watertown SAVE all this freight; they can buy at their doors the best grades of wool at the lowest market price, and have in return the BEST MARKET PRICE for their manufactured goods. The $72 per car freight on the dirt in the wool is a large per cent. on the profit side of the Western Profit No. 1. manufacturer's ledger, - - -

Similar arguments apply with even stronger force to other branches particularly that of manufacturing STRAW BOARDS for which purpose you can contract for the next 15 or 20 years for all the straw required at the rate of from $1 to $1.50 per ton, while the same costs in New England from $9 to $13 per ton.

ions, presented the following platform, tions, presented the following platform, which was adopted unanimously:

The Democratic party of Massachusetts, in convention assembled, reaffirms its allegiance to the principles of the national Democratic party. It congratulates the people of the commonwealth on the successful and patriotic administration of his excellency the governor. William E. Russell. The well merited rebuke administered to the Republican party at the last election, as evidenced by the choice of a Democratic governor, a Democratic auditor, seven Democratic congressmen and twenty Democratic state senators, has already been fully justified by its results. We repel the insinuation of the Republican party that this action was due to ignorance and delusion, as an insulting reflection upon the intelligence of the people. We recognize the patriotic action of the many independent citizens who voted for our candidates at the last election, and we are proud to refer them to the record of our administration as a proof that their confidence was not misplaced. We heartily commend the excellent administration of the auditor's department by the Democratic incumbent, Will-D. T. Trefry. which was adopted unanimously:

Civil Service and the Currency. With regard to civil service reform the ments should be made for noney, gold and silver coinage of the constitution, and in a currency convertible into such coinage without loss. This declaration, expressing the uniform historic policy of the national Democratic party contained in its platforms of 184 and 1888, we unreservedly reaffirm. * * * * * We therefore denounce the claim of the Republican leaders of this state that they are the friends of sound currency as false and hypocritical, and charge them with the sole and direct responsibility for the present dangerous condition of the currency. The Tariff.

With regard to the McKinley bill the platform goes on to state that
The McKinley tariff bill, against which the Democratic party of Massachusetts protested at its last convention, was repudiated at the polls by one of the most emphatic votes ever cast by a free people. We renew our demand for the repeal of all its provisions which increase rates of duty, and for the enactment of a genuine measure of tariff reform. We believe that all taxes upon food, fuel, fibres and ores, and also upon the crude or partly manufactured materials necessary in the processes of our domestic industries should be repealed, thus affording genuine protection alike to the workingmen and the manufacturers of our commonwealth. Five of the Republican congressmen from this state, whom we condemned last year for their surrender of the business interests of New England to meet the exigencies of party politics, have been replaced by the people with Democratic members who can be trusted to uphold the rights and guard the interests of their constituents.

The platform says regarding

Constitutional Amendment:

We congratulate the people of the commonwealth that by the action of the legislature, in recognition of the advancement of the civilization and of the intelligence of the people, an amendment to the constitution is this year submitted for adoption annulling that clause which requires the payment of a tax as a qualification for voting. We believe that every citizen should pay his just proportion of the public expenses, but we do not believe that if he fails to do so by accident, the neglect of others, or from his own inability, be should be punished by being deprived of the most sacred right of citizenship—the right to vote.

The National Civil Service Reform league was organized at Newport, R. 1., on the lith of August, 1881. It was the result of a conference among members of civil service reform associations that had spontaneously arisen in various parts of the country for the purpose of awakening interest in the question. The first act of the league was a resolution of hearty approval of the bill then pending in congress known as the Pendleton bill. Within less than two years afterward the civil service law was passed in congress. passed in congress.

was the first great victory of the reform movement. The second is the demonstration of the complete practicability of reform attested by the heads of the largest offices of administration in the country. In the treasury and navy departments, the New York custom house and postoffice, and other important custom houses and postoffices, without the least regard to the wishes or the wrath of that remarkable class of our fellow citizens known as political bosses, it is conceded by officers, wholly beyond suspicion of party independence, that in these chief branches of the public service reform is perfectly practicable and the reformed system a public benefit.

The league has pronounced its judgment upon the conduct of each of the administrations since the passage of the law in regard to civil service reform in general. It has tested them by the principles and spirit of reform, which apply to the entire exercise of the appointing power and to every branch of the government, and which have been especially approved by the platform of the present administration. The moral obligation of reform is not limited to The Passage of the Law

She seemed too much a child to have the fire of his passion revealed to her-it might destroy her as a flame would destroy a flower.

"Was the 'Maid of the Mistral' a love story?" he asked. "Oh, yes, and so sweet! Alphonse, the knight, was so brave, and Rosalie, the CIVIL ENCINEER Maid of the Mistral, was warm and true and good, and they loved each other so dearly. WOODSVILLE, N. H., Sept. 30 .- Frank C. Almy, the Hanover murderer, was brought here from Manchester yesterday. Immediately on arrival Almy was taken to the court house, which was packed to its utmost capacity. Almy was brought in on a cot bed, the prisoner not being able to walk. The indictment was read to Almy charging him with the willful and premeditated murder of Christie C. Warden on the night of July 17.

In answer to Clerk Griswold's query, "What do you say, guilty or not guilty?" Almy replied in a clear low tone: "Not guilty." He was immediately returned from the court house and taken to jail in Manchester.

How the Musical Scale Was Invented. How was the musical scale first invented? That query, which has troubled the theorists of all lands, and has had its answer hitherto only in mystifying speculations and unintelligible theories the Chinese will reply to by a legend most ingenious and most apropos, which, they hold, offers a complete explanation of the mystery. In the reign of Hoangty, they say, there was once a prince called Lyng-lun, who was the most beautiful man and at the same time the most profound musician in China. He, under pain of a severe penalty by the order loving emperor, was commanded to arrange and regulate Chinese music on the same principle whereon Hoang-ty had arranged law and politics throughout the Chinese empire. Full of thought Lyng-lun wandered to the land of Si-jaung, where the bamboos grow. Having taken one of them he cut it off between two of the knots, and pushing out the pith blew into the hollow. The bamboo uttered a most beautiful note, to Lyng-lun's intense surprise. Simultaneously the river Hoang-ho, which ran boiling by, roared with its waves, and the tone was in unison with the note of the bamboo. "Behold," cried Lyng-lun, "the fundamental sound of nature!" Two magical birds then came and perched themselves upon some trees near, and sang one after the other the seven notes of the scale, starting from the tone which had been roared by the Hoang-ho and warbled by the bamboo.

Here is a scale, say the Chinese, at nce intelligible, inimitable and easily revealed. Lyng-lun had merely to cut seven more bamboos and tune them to the pitches he had heard, and the scale was made. This he did; and thus was the art of music inaugurated and founded by Hoang-ty's court musician on a firm and unalterable basis.—Chambers' ournal.

The Judge and the Witness. Even the dignity which hedges round he judicial bench is not always safe protection from conscious or unconscious arcasm of too blunt witnesses tain judge who, when denuded of his official wig, was as bald as a billiard ball, had before him, by a strange irony of fate, a dispute as to the real proprietorship of a patent hair restorer. During the progress of the case the judge, who sometimes indulged in a little sarcasm at the expense of a witness, asked blandly whether the restorer had ever been known to restore wornout broomheads to their pristine condition of hirsute luxuriance, or the lost bristles to old clothes brushes.

Of course there was a laugh, and the PATRIOT OFFICE judge's wit was rewarded with looks of admiration. But the witness, to show that he had every faith in its being a sure hope for human baldness at least, replied very innocently that, "If I didn't know it was necessary for your lordship to always wear a wig in this court, I should have declared that you had experimented with my hair restorer on yourself."-London Tit-Bits.

Louis Globe-Democrat. Tennyson and His Clay Pipes. Alfred Tennyson, the greatest living poet, has shown his appreciation of tobacco in deeds rather than in words. For nearly fifty years he has been a steady smoker. His finest fancies have come to him amid the curling wreaths of his pipe. For a pipe and not his cigar is his habit. Partagas, regalias and cabanas have no charm for him. Of all the pipes in the world the common clay pipe is his choice. His den is at the top of the house. When in the morning he sets down to work, the aromatic weed is before him in an urn large enough to contain the budget of the chancellor of the exchequer and dainty enough to be a casket for Cleopatra's jewels.

A box full of white clay pipes is at his side; filling one of these he smokes until it is empty, breaks it in twain and throws the fragments into another box prepared for their reception; then he pulls out a fresh pipe, fills it, smokes it and destroys it as before. He will not smoke a pipe a second time.-New York Sun.
